KNOCK ON WOOD, KING GEORGE!

Empire Aghast at Rumor of American Planks at "English Show"

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, April 27.—The great British Empire Exhibition, which King George opened last week amid stately ceremonies in the presence of the entire royal family, is being held primarily to demonstrate the self-sufficiency of the empire provided the natural resources of its far-flung dominions are adequately divided up.

Nevertheless, the champions of the empire are on the warpath and embarrassing questions will be asked in the House of Commons this week. One question to be raised is whether it is a fact, as charged that when King George opened the great show the grand stand from which he spoke was made mostly of wood not from Canada, but from a Southern State of the United States.

Not only will the Commons enter the controversy, but high commissioners of the dominions are to discuss the whole matter.

DOLLAR SHIP TOTAL LOSS IN FAR EAST

Passengers, Crew, Saved; Several Die, Many Hurt on British Steamer

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHANGHAI, April 27.—According to word received here today the steamer Robert Dollar II, bound from San Francisco to the Far East, was wrecked on a reef at the mouth of the Yangtze River. Quick work on the part of seamen saved the passengers and cargo. The vessel is a total loss.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SYDNEY (Australia) April 27.—Reports from Adelaide tell of a terrible catastrophe following tremendous explosions on the British steamer, City of Singapore, in which several persons were killed and many injured. The steamer had just docked when fire broke out in her boiler rooms. Before the decks could be cleared the boilers exploded, devastating the craft amidships.

The dead are all firemen who sought to rescue the crew following the explosions.

ANGEL QUITS JOHNSON

Purse Is Closed by Lasker

Hitchcock Also Withdraws As Campaign Manager of Lost Cause

Senator Loses His Voice by Order of Republican Indiana Chiefs

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Frank Hitchock as manager, and Albert Lasker, financial backer, have abandoned Hiram Johnson as a contender for the Republican Presidential nomination. They have both joined William Wrigley, Jr., who confessed some time ago that he had ceased to be a financial angel for Senator Johnson and would no longer contribute to the disastrous efforts of the California Senator for delegates.

Washington is talking more about the manner of the departure of Hitchcock and Lasker from the Johnson camp than any other political matter and the following account is generally accepted in official circles and by the political experts of the capital. Hitchcock and Johnson entered an agreement that the former should become his manager, but that if Johnson failed to show in Illinois, Nebraska or Michigan he would quit the fight and abandon all further efforts to contest the nomination with President Coolidge. When all three States returned overwhelming and unheard-of pluralities for the President, Hitchcock was through and insisted on Johnson keeping his agreement. He refused to quit and insisted on continuing a hopeless struggle.

FORSAKEN BY ALL

Simultaneously Albert Lasker, former head of the United States Shipping Board, and an adherent of Johnson's, stopped all contributions to the campaign chest of the California candidate and decided to join William Wrigley, Jr., who had been foresighted enough to stop all financial contributions to Johnson's campaign several weeks before. If Hitchcock had hesitated to stop as the manager of Johnson the loss of Lasker's support financially was sufficient to end his services and for some weeks Hitchcock has not been active or in any way participating in the Johnson campaign. Hitchcock has confirmed his withdrawal from the management since he came to Washington a day or two ago and while not making any announcement of this fact, has told his friends in private conversation that he has been finished with the campaign for some time.

Indiana Republican leaders are responsible for Johnson's physical breakdown and loss of voice as announced at Toledo, O., the other night. Johnson was scheduled to make a number of speeches in Indiana where the primary is set for May 6, the same day as that of California's primaries. It had been elaborately planned that Johnson should make a whirlwind campaign up and down the Hoosier State.

QUITS BY REQUEST

This was before the political blizzard that overtook the California Senator in Michigan, Illinois and Nebraska. Immediately the Republican managers demanded that Johnson make no speeches in the State and cancel all his speaking engagements. Conferences were arranged with his managers, including his New York manager, Payne, and as a result of the united protests of the Republican managers in Indiana Johnson found it necessary to lose his voice and experience a physical depression and a formal announcement to that effect was made for Johnson at Toledo when he made his final speech in Ohio.

Republican leaders in Indiana, in urging that Johnson make no speeches in Indiana, called attention to the fact that Johnson had been bitter in denouncing the administration and the leading contender for the nomination. They protested that the kind of speeches that Johnson had made in other Middle West States was unfair to the Republicans of Indiana and would make a successful campaign after the national convention the harder for President Coolidge who is already assured of the nomination and therefore they demanded that he be banished from the State.

Washington accepts this as the real reason why Johnson's voice gave way at this particular time.

Will Quit State Forbidding Him to Keep Liquor

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOISE (Idaho) April 27.—Raymond Moore, vice-president of the First National Bank, is threatening to quit the State. He has just finished serving thirty days in jail for violation of a State law against possession of liquor in his home. Moore appealed to the State Supreme Court and thence to the United States Supreme Court without avail.

He contended that the statute against possession of liquor in the home was unconstitutional and that the State lacked power to enforce a law superseding the Volstead provision that a person may have liquor in his home, providing it was not illegally acquired.

ACCUSED OF PLOT TO KILL WIFE BY DISEASE GERMS

C.O.Baring, Eastern Manufacturer, Held Without Bail; Defense May be Mental Collapse

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 27.—Dist.-Atty. Arthur Rowland of Westchester county asserted today that he had evidence that Clarence O. Baring, inventor, manufacturer and eastern representative of the Minneapolis Heat Regulator Company, had administered pneumonia and diphtheria germs to his wife, Mrs. Hally Griffith Baring.

Baring is held without bail in the County Jail at White Plains on a charge by Rowland, supported by Mrs. Baring, that he attempted to murder his wife by administering arsenic in foods. He will be arraigned again tomorrow on the charge. It is understood the prosecutor will ask bail of $100,000 if counsel for Baring demands his client's release. Mr. Rowland will present the case to the grand jury tomorrow.

While the District Attorney, in the few guarded comments he would permit himself, was insistent he could substantiate the charges against Baring, counsel and friends of Baring were confident he would be able to clear himself. In Baring's behalf they advanced the strange theory that Baring, described by them as a neurotic, has become so absorbed in chemical experiments as to carry his tests to the point of experimenting with his wife. They intimated strongly that his defense would include an assertion that he was so wrought up by his experiments that he temporarily lost his mental stability.

WIFE IS BLAMED

Baring's friends are inclined to place on Mrs. Baring in large measure the responsibility for her husband's plight, asserting that for a number of years she had been gripped by an obsession that her husband was attentive to other women. Lately she had centered on an attractive New York woman of about 25, well connected and of high culture. This young woman, Baring's friends asserted, was a friend of the family and had often been in the company of both Baring and his wife.

Mrs. Baring, who has recovered from her serious illness, visited Dist.-Atty. Rowland this morning. Her husband's cell was in an adjoining building. Friends of Baring expressed the belief that his wife still loved him deeply and they questioned whether she had made the complaint against him voluntarily.

Mrs. Baring has been reported

EX-KAISER TAKES RAP AT WILSON

New Book by Personal Friend of Wilhelm Gives Defense of Flight

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, April 27.—Former Emperor William, in a new book published by Lieut. Col. Niemann, a personal friend, is quoted as rapping President Wilson for his stand against Germany in the world War. Niemann was attached to grand headquarters during the war and accompanied William in his flight to Holland.

The former Emperor is credited with having told Niemann that it was perfectly clear to him from the beginning that President Wilson desired to see Germany crushed and that the United States awaited an opportune moment to enter the war so as to swing the balance in favor of the Allies. Regarding the flight of William to Holland, Niemann quotes him as saying: "I was ready to fight the internal enemy when the revolution broke out, but I found myself deserted by the army leaders themselves. Many persons contended that I ought to have sought death on the battlefield, but I think that tempting God or committing suicide would have been morally wrong.

"I did not want to stand by and see Germany split in a fight of Germans against Germans, and I left the country rather than to stand as an obstacle in the way of the Fatherland. I realize that the sacrifice did not have the desired effect—to secure better conditions for Germany; but I believe history will justify my action. Tradition and the future of my dynasty should not have been sacrificed to the hypocritical phrases of the pretended pacifist Wilson.

"I did not desert my country thoughtlessly, but only after careful deliberation. And thus I did my duty to my beloved army and my misguided Fatherland."

BOAT AND LIQUOR SEIZED

Cargo Worth $50,000 Taken at Harbor; Speed Craft Boon to Police in Chasing Smugglers

Surprising asserted rum runners attempting to land a cargo on the west shore of Mirmon Island at Los Angeles Harbor last night, Police Officer H. B. Haghe and Jack Berger, Associated Press correspondent, overpowered two men and seized the sea-going speed boat 666 and a cargo of choice liquor estimated to be worth $50,000, according to the Harbor police report.

Officer Haghe went on board the ship first and was immediately confronted by weapons in the hands of two men, according to the police. Berger, barehanded, pounced on the two men and with Officer Haghe disarmed and handcuffed them. The prisoners gave their names as George Garvin, 34 years of age, captain of the launch, and John Ralph, 39. They were booked at the Harbor Jail on charges of violating the Wright Act.

If the raiders had appeared a short time later, Officer Haghe reported, they might have had more prisoners. He declared that a truck that had drawn up near the dock speeded away when the officer announced his presence. Officer Haghe said he believed there were three men on the truck. They were able to escape, it was said, on account of the darkness.

The capture's importance is increased, harbor police said, because it gives them one of the fastest speed boats in the harbor district to use in their warfare on rum-running. Heretofore the police have been virtually powerless to catch the runners and have almost been forced to sit by and watch the fast launches bring in the liquor because they had no fast boat. The rum-running fraternity at the harbor, it is pointed out, watch the police closely and know immediately when the police hire a boat to use in tracking the runners.

The 666 is about sixty feet in length and has a 300-horsepower plant and is capable of a speed of approximately twenty-five miles an hour. She is said to be worth about $20,000.

Officer Haghe said he has been on the trail of the operators of the launch for several weeks. He said that he and Berger watched the launch come into the Harbor and drove in an automobile to the expected landing-place on Mormon Island.

Gavin, master of the launch, is wellknown in Harbor marine circles. Ralph, at the time of his arrest, is said to have had $600 in cash on his person.

Garvin and Ralph refused to disclose where they got the cargo, according to the police. Garvin is said to have told the police it came from a cache on Catalina Island.

Officer Haghe expressed the belief that the cargo came from a British steamer at anchor about thirty miles out. The seized liquor consisted of 350 cases of choice Scotch and rye whisky and two fifty-gallon barrels of whisky, according to the police.

OPEN TOURIST DISINFECTION

Arizona Officials Begin Today Fumigation Plan for Passengers Entering State

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YUMA (Ariz.) April 27.—Everything is in readiness here tonight for the establishment of Arizona's disinfection of railroad passengers which starts tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock. Only passengers for points in Arizona will be required to be disinfected, through passengers being exempt.

As the passenger gets off the train he will first step into a tray containing a disinfection mat where surplus dust will be wiped from his shoes. He will then step to a second tray where a solution of formalin deep enough to saturate the soles of his shoes will be placed. From there he will step into a long trough of formalin saturated sawdust which will dry the shoes and thoroughly disinfect them.

BAGGAGE RUNS GAMUT, TOO

Being thus disinfected the passenger will take his baggage to examining tables where inspectors will examine it. It if seems clean and free from infection it will be passed. If not it will be put into a fumigator consisting of an air-tight fruit express car and subjected to fumigation.

According to Dr. Roy R. Knotts, in charge of disinfection here, every effort will be made to make the process as easy for passengers as possible and no one need fear inconvenience or discomfort. Other baggage than that carried by the passenger is prohibited.

Mellon Reports No Graft

Brands Charges of Brewer in Engraving Scandal as Without Basis

Tells President that Quiz of Department Shows Efficient Regime

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Secretary Mellon advised President Coolidge tonight that the Treasury had completed its inquiry into charges of irregularities in the Bureau of Engraving and had found them baseless.

The charges, made by Charles B. Brewer, Department of Justice attorney, and accompanied by wholesale dismissals in the bureau by President Harding, contained no element of fact, Mr. Mellon asserted. He informed the Chief Executive that he was enabled as a result of the investigation to confirm the integrity of the government's securities.

Contained in the report to the President, a document of magazine size, were specific replies to every assertion made by Brewer in his repeated assaults on the Treasury and by these, Secretary Mellon said, the "utter falsity" of every charge was established.

BREWER ASSAILED

In addition, the Treasury chief vigorously assailed Brewer personally, saying in concluding the report:

"His report indicates a conspicuous avoidance of fairness, and the frequent adoption of artful and evasive methods. Where the facts are susceptible of distortion, Mr. Brewer resorts to distortion; where the omission of details will pervert assumption, Mr. Brewer resorts to omission; where misstatement of the facts will strengthen the charge, Mr. Brewer resorts to misstatements; where irrelevance will tend to obscure the facts, Mr. Brewer resorts to irrelevance, and where neither distortion, omission, misstatement nor irrelevance will serve his purpose, Mr. Brewer resorts to insinuation and innuendo.

"Before concluding, I am taking this opportunity to assure you that a most exhaustive investigation clearly establishes Mr. Brewer's charges to be absolutely without foundation. There has been no fraudulent duplication or overissue of the public debt, but on the other hand, by investigating the Brewer charges, and establishing the utter falsity thereof, the Treasury is enabled unreservedly to confirm the integrity both of the government's obligations and of those branches of the Treasury service which have been engaged in the handling of public debt securities."

NO FRAUD FOUND

Mr. Mellon assured the President there had been "no fraud or carelessness on the part of officials or employees responsible for the safeguarding of the retired securities."

He said Brewer had called attention to losses "during a period of seven years" and added that the total of these was $13,100, "and were the result of thefts committed by subordinate clerks or messengers in the Treasury."

"It has been pointed out," the letter continued, "that the loss of $13,100 over a period of seven years, during which time over $100,000,000,000 in securities was handled by thousands of employees, is by no means a reflection upon the officials or employees of the Treasury responsible for the safeguarding of retired securities nor upon the Treasury's system of controls and audits. Incidentally, the thefts of securities illustrate the danger of retaining indefinitely, and, not destroying, dormant stocks of retired securities."

Capt. Ingram Told to Go Back to England by One-Time Mrs. Caruso

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, April 27.—Reports that Mrs. B. A. Ingram, before her marriage last December Mrs. Enrico Caruso, and her husband, Capt. Ingram of the British Army, have separated are confirmed by friends in Paris. According to the friends, Capt. Ingram objected to the crudeness of America generally and to his wife's friends at Palm Beach, where they were honeymooning, in particular. Mrs. Ingram is reported to have resented the fault-finding and told her husband if he did not like the United States and her friends he could return to England. He took the next boat.

Mrs. Ingram has taken an apartment at Eighteenth street and Park avenue, New York. Mrs. Ingram, formerly Dorothy Benjamin, met Capt. Ingram last summer on the beach at Lido, Venice, where he won a whirlwind courtship while he gave her swimming lessons.

FIRE RAZES BLOCK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NOT TO SUPPORT MAJOR PARTIES

German-American Leaguers to Back Candidates Who Favor Them

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—Expressions of absolute independence of American citizens of German descent from the two major political parties and statements that the German-American Citizens' League should support only those candidates who will consider the wishes of German-Americans, featured a joint meeting of the St. Louis branch of the league and its newly formed women's auxiliary.

"The government, during the years after the war in spite of what persons of German descent did during the war, treated us as undesirable citizens, and it has become our duty to force these people to treat us again as citizens of the first class," said A. Lingenfelder, president of the league.

"Personally, I am for La-Follette in case he shall be a candidate of any party."

POINCARE TO HEAR VIEWS OF BELGIANS

First Allied Conference on Dawes Plan Today to be of Great Import

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, April 27.—The first conference between the spokesmen of the Allied governments since the reparations experts' report was handed in will take place tomorrow morning, when Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Hymans of Belgium will meet Premier Poincare at the Quay D'Orsay. The Belgians reached Paris late this afternoon so that they would be on hand for early discussions, which are considered highly important since they will concern the more secret considerations by the governments of the experts' report for the purpose of putting it into effect.

As on many previous occasions, the Belgian representatives are expected to play the role of mediators between the French and English viewpoints.

The chief difference between the French and British seems to be that the French want to make sure what penalties would automatically be applied in case of a new default before turning over to Germany economic sovereignty of the occupied territory, while the British hold that the restoration of such sovereignty is contingent upon beginning the application of the experts' plan and that penalties should be discussed only in case of a new default.

This difference in opinion is brought out clearly by the French press today, but most of the papers, particularly those supporting M. Poincare, emphasize that it is only a difference of method, and is not insurmountable.

It is believed that efforts toward reaching a workable compromise will be accentuated in view of J. P. Morgan's statement that the success of the American loan to Germany will depend on the bankers' conviction that European affairs are about to enter upon a really new atmosphere of conciliation.

NURSES SEEK SHORTER DAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DENVER, April 27.—The fight of Denver nurses to obtain a twelve-hour day instead of the present twenty-hour day was brought to a crisis last night when more than 100 members of the Trained Nurses' Association, in a special meeting at the Y.W.C.A., unanimously adopted a motion that they would not go into any hospital for more than twelve hours' duty. The nurses further agreed that they would not go to work on cases in St. Luke's Hospital under any consideration until the question of the twelve-hour day had been adjusted.

HITLERITES ATTACKED

Forty Wounded by Reds

Members of Party Waylaid Near Election Rally by Communists

Chancellor Marx Permitted in Ruhr First Time Since Seizure

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, April 27.—Forty were wounded, one dying, after an election meeting of Hitlerites, who were attacked by 2000 Communists, who waylaid all the streets to the concert hall where the Hitlerites were meeting. The Communists are on the warpath because it was rumored that Gen. Von Ludendorff would speak at the meeting, and they were bent on "punishing him."

Big groups of Hitlerites marched to the meeting, their flags flying, and passed the streets unmolested by the Communists, who were hiding in doorways in the side streets looking for the smaller groups, which were easier to beat. When they felt they were in the majority they every turned against street cars, beating all the Hitlerites wearing insignia they could find. Police reinforcements arrived after forty were wounded but were unable to prevent a recurrence of the fights when the meeting was over and the Hitlerites were returning home.

MOURN HELFFERICH

The whole Sunday was devoted to the elections. The Nationalists, who had organized a monster meeting, at which the late Herr Helfferich was to speak, turned their meeting into mourning services for their dead leader, celebrating him as "the greatest, squarest fighter ever."

Herr Hergsthief of the German Nationalist party broke down after a glowing speech in honor of Herr Helfferich. His followers hoped he will recover in time to continue his campaign for his party.

The middle parties called countless smaller meetings, which were amazingly alike, despite the differences in title. The Center, Democrat and People's parties issued invitations and their leaders talked of their and aberrant ideas loudly and with conviction. Friends of the politicians interspersed the speeches with piano recitals and music dear to the soul of the German bourgeoisie. At many meetings young students appeared impersonating Frederick the Great and asking with great pathos, "What has become of my people?" The old King always wound up his speeches by exhorting his subjects faithfully to attend the polls.

RUHR WELCOMES VISIT BY CHANCELLOR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, April 27.—For the first time since the French and Belgian soldiers seized the Ruhr and occupied its numerous towns, villages and mines, Germany's leading politician, Chancellor Marx, was allowed today to enter Duesseldorf. Citizens of Duesseldorf and the surrounding towns turned out to greet the chief of the German Cabinet.

The Ruhr toilers are usually quiet on Sunday, but today they broke the bonds of reserve to celebrate. The chilliness and reserve usually shown toward the French and Belgian troops was perceptible, but not predominant today. The soldiers' presence was not mentioned in public speeches.

Chancellor Marx declared:

"We want a reconciliation of all nations in a true Christian spirit, and we are working for a reconciliation."

As he spoke he turned squarely to a group of French officers of high rank in the audience. They had been sent to the meeting by Gen. Degoutte to find out if Germany's Chancellor would respect the orders of the French and Belgian troops, which forbid "public discussion of the Versailles treaty."

Whoever infringes on this order is arrested immediately, but the Chancellor carefully worded his speech and avoided trouble.

MARTIN HAS PERILOUS TRIP

Flight Commander Makes Chignik in Face of Near-Hurricane; Overcomes Many Handicaps

BY EVAN J. DAVID

[Copyright, 1924, in United States, Canada and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance]

ON BOARD THE U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTER ALGONQUIN, by Wireless via Chignik (Alaska) April 27.—The safe arrival at Chignik yesterday of the flagship plane Seattle, piloted by Maj. Frederick L. Martin, commander of the American round-the-world flight, marks one of the most thrilling exploits in the history of aviation.

In the teeth of a blinding snowstorm, with a forty-mile wind lashing the surface of the sea into breakers that drove against the nose of the fragile plane, many times threatening to swamp it, Maj. Martin and his mechanic, Alva Harvey, not only kept their ship afloat but with its powerful motor racing at top speed, managed to take the air in one of the most hazardous flights on record.

Maj. Martin got off the bay at Kanatak Saturday at 2:35 p.m., Pacific Coast time, in one of the worst southeastern snowstorms of the Alaskan spring. After circling about the bay three times to gain altitude, he finally disappeared southward in a gale that had soon attained the proportions of a hurricane, driving the hard particles of snow into the eyes of the flyers. It was the most daring example of flying that I have ever seen in the years that I have been following this perilous means of transportation, but at all times the plane seemed to be under control, the new engine functioning perfectly and the heavy ship handling well.

The start Saturday was the culmination of a series of heartbreaking disappointments. First of all ice had formed in the creek where the ship was anchored. It was several inches thick and all of it had to be broken by pick and

BRITISH BLOCK NAVY GUN PLAN

Elevation of Ship Cannon to be Abandoned

American Fleet Must Keep Its Shorter Range

Congress, Undaunted, Orders Vessels Modernized

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—As a result of the attitude assumed by the British government our Navy Department definitely has abandoned its plan to elevate the big guns on American battleships so as to obtain a range equal to that of British battleship guns.

The British denied that they had elevated or contemplated elevating their big guns and pronounced such elevations a violation of the Navy armament limitation treaty of the Washington conference. They maintained their greater gun range had been attained in original construction.

Partly on the basis of statements that the British had elevated their guns and obtained thereby a longer range than American guns, the American Navy Department had obtained an appropriation of $6,500,000 for gun elevation. When the British denial and objection was registered the gun elevation plan was suspended and the appropriation recently was repealed. The British Navy will continue to outrange ours.

EQUIP RUM BOATS

With a touch of poetic irony Congress thereupon diverted this $6,500,000 to the equipment of speedy vessels for the prohibition navy which is employed in chasing rum-runners, chiefly of British nationality, along our coasts.

The administration now proposes another modernization plan with a view to bringing the American Navy more closely to the equality with the British Navy assumed in the Washington treaty. This plan is to convert six coal-burning battleships into oil burners.

As soon as this plan was broached in Washington, the British interposed an objection informally by means of an interpellation in the House of Commons. In reply to the question Premier MacDonald stated His Majesty's government is of the opinion that the naval treaty does not permit conversion of capital ships from coal to oil burners, or any increase in the elevation and consequently the range of fire of the main batteries of such vessels.

INCREASE IN OIL BURNERS

Undeterred by this objection from overseas the House Committee on Naval Affairs, following extensive hearings, favorably reported a bill authorizing the expenditure of $18,250,000 for modernizing these vessels, including the change from coal to oil burners.

Chairman Butler takes pains to point out that the naval committee, in the program of building and alterations proposed, is not running counter to the treaty limiting naval armaments.

"The treaty limiting naval armaments," he says, "imposes certain restrictions on the alterations that may be undertaken on capital ships and also on the characteristics of individual vessels for which no tonnage ratio is prescribed. It is not the purpose of your committee in recommending the alterations of capital ships and the new construction to propose that any action be taken which is contrary to the provisions of the treaty."

Whether Congress will be deterred by the British objection from authorizing the conversion to oil burners remains to be seen.

IMPROVE OLD SHIPS

Secretary of State Hughes declined to appear before the House committee even in executive session for the purpose of discussing the attitude of the British government toward the conversion to oil burners. He did, however, indicate an entire willingness to go over the matter with Secretary Wilbur and outline the attitude of the American government.

Secretary Wilbur appeared before the committee a second time and a favorable bill was orderen immediately. This act was interpreted to indicate that Secretary Hughes and Wilbur concluded after their discussion that the treaty contains no bar to increasing the efficiency of the older American battleships by substituting oil for coal burner, despite the contrary view held by the Labor Prime Minister of Great Britain.

The bill authorizes the installation of additional deck, torpedoes and mine protection, as well as the conversion to oil burners. The vessels are the New York, Texas, Florida, Utah, Arkansas and Wyoming. The condition of the boilers of the four last named is such that the Navy Department ordered them withdrawn from the line during the recent fleet maneuvers in the Caribbean Sea, because it was not considered safe to permit them to steam at a higher rate of speed than twelve knots an hour. At this speed they could not maintain their position in the line. The New York and Texas are the newest of the coal burners and 14-inch guns. Their boilers are in much better condition.

COAL BURNERS OBSOLETE

It is also proposed to renew the fire control systems on the New York and Texas.

Coal burning battleships are no longer satisfactory units of the American fleet. Conversion to oil burners will increase the effective steaming radius very considerably and place the vessels so converted on a parity with other ships of the battle fleet in this respect; will increase the economy in operation of the vessels; will increase their mobility, and hence that of the battle fleet by decreasing the time consumed in refueling and eliminate the slow collier.

The Navy contemplates installing in the ships a boiler taken from ships sent to the scrap heap under the Washington treaty—that is unless the British should protest. The saving would be $350,000 per ship, exclusive of installation.

The modernization plan also includes strengthening the deck armor against air attack and applying "blisters" to the side armor as protection against torpedo and mine attacks. In this connection the effect of gun elevation and range extension may be obtained. It is proposed to install compressed air equipment for blowing the water instantly out of the bulges or blisters. The British are said to have made such installations on some of their ships, the idea being that by blowing the water out of the blisters on the starboard side a list to port would immediately follow, automatically increasing the elevation if the vessels were firing on starboard side, or vice versa.

The House bill also proposes construction of eight 10,000-ton light cruisers at a cost of $11,000,000 each. The committee report points out that the United States stands far below Great Britain and Japan in cruiser tonnage less than 12 years old, including vessels built, building and projected.

ENGLAND'S TONNAGE

Great Britain has fifty-five modern cruisers with a total tonnage of 295,870; Japan twenty-eight cruisers, with a total tonnage of 170,940; the United States ten cruisers with a total tonnage of 75,000. The authorization recommended in Mr. Butler's report would give the United States a cruiser tonnage of 155,000. It is suggested that all eight vessels be laid down not later than July 1, 1927. It is estimated that this will permit the completion of the last of the vessels not later than July 1, 1930, and possibly somewhat earlier, the completion being dependent primarily on the rate at which funds are provided by Congress. The cruisers proposed are to carry protection and armament suited to their size and type and are to have the highest practicable speed.

SAYS GUN-RAISING ALLOWED BY TREATIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Neither the conversion of coal to oil-burning warships nor the elevation of guns to increase range violates the Navy Limitation Treaty of the Washington Arms Conference, according to Capt. Dudley W. Knox, U. S. N.

Capt. Knox, in an article in the Army and Navy Journal expresses surprise that just as the plan was broached to modernize certain of our older warships an objection had been voiced thereto by Prime Minister MacDonald, in the House of Commons, who asserted that under the Washington treaty it is not permitted to convert coal into oil burners or to alter the main armament.

"The treaty," said Capt. Knox, "provides that no retained capital ship shall be reconstructed except for the purpose of providing a means of defense against air and submarine attack and for that purpose it may be equipped with bulge or blister or antiair attack deck protection within fixed displacement limits.

"The conversion of our battleships to oil burning has for its primary purpose the providing of a means of defense against air and submarine attack. It involves fitting bulge protection in the interior of the vessel. Burning oil instead of coal will enable ships to run smokeless, thus affording very important means of protection against both submarine and air attack.

"It will enable vessels to lay smoke screens at will, which in modern warfare is an invaluable means of protection against these forms of attack. There is no question whatever that the changes contemplated in American ships in this respect are in entire conformity not only with the letter but with the spirit of the treaty.

"In regard to an increase of elevation of turret guns, there is no reconstruction of the vessel involved. Neither is there any alteration in the number or general type of mounting of such guns, as it is further restricted by treaty."

EXPERT FLAYS NAVY'S STATUS

Deplores Lack of Ships, Bases and Fuel

Declares Advantages From Arms Pact Lost

Says Ratio Now 5-3-1, With United States 1

naval radio of 5-5-3; England 5; America 5; Japan 3. This was considered a victory for the United States because it marked off the two-power standard England had maintained for a century, and it brought the United States on a level with her and gave us at the same time a marked superiority over Japan. But whatever advantages might have been ours under that treaty they have been thrown away. Today the 5-5-3 ratio exists on paper only. In reality it is 5-3-1, America being 1."

"Not only are we outgunned so far as our battleships are concerned," Mr. Shearer continued, "but we are outnumbered in light cruisers and in fleet submarines. The British are 4 to 1 over us in light cruiser strength and the Japanese 2½ to 1. Of this class of ships England has fifty-three, Japan has twenty-five and we have ten. The new Japanese light cruisers outspeed the British light cruisers and because of that the British admiralty has asked for seventeen more. Not only that, but Capt. McNamee, naval expert now under Admiral Robison, is authority for the statement that the British have built eighteen flotilla leaders, whereas we have no vessels of this class, none at all.

JAPAN LEADS

"In ships and bases and fuel stored, Japan has the largest naval program of all. She lost only one cruiser in the earthquake. That was the Naka. She has thirty new destroyers and seventy submarines under construction. Comparison there is interesting. England has seventeen fleet submarines, Japan has twenty-five and we have just six.

"So that so far as the fleet is concerned not only are we outgunned and outnumbered, but the other significant fact is that the Japanese have transferred their fleet from the inland sea to the Pacific.

"Now fleets must have bases of operations. Without such bases they cannot operate in war. How do we compare there? Well, England has nineteen bases, Japan has many, some of them secret, and we have none. On our Atlantic Coast the British bases are Halifax, Bermuda and Jamaica. Each of these has supplies and a garrison. In the Pacific the known Japanese bases are Sasebo, Ominato, Yokosuka, Kure and Bako. The first four are to be enlarged and strengthened for quick maneuvers. The base at Bako is a few hundred miles from the Philippines. The American port at Manila is useless and undefended. Bako is defended, Manila is not.

ALAMEDA PROPOSAL

"The United States has navy yards, but not naval bases. The Navy has been anxious to have a naval base established at Alameda, Cal. It has been turned down in favor of Mare Island. But Mare Island is a 70-year-old shipyard, twenty miles inland.

"Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, is the Gibraltar of the Pacific, but what do we find? Remember it protects the Pacific Coast, the Panama Canal, the Philippines and all Pacific possessions. Yet, all that we have there are a few submarines and none of them is a fleet submarine. Pearl Harbor is in course of contruction. The entrance is by a buoyed channel. Passing through the channel, the radio station and naval quarters are on the right. The submarine base on the left. The only completed thing there is the Japanese fishing village of Alea, which lies beyond the wireless station and the submarine base. And each morning these Japanese fisherman sail past these points of operation and through the buoyed channel. They see all that is going on and know the channel by heart as well.

"All the oil the Navy has on reserve at the present time is 1,500,000 barrels, and all of it is at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. There is no oil reserve stored on the Atlantic Coast. There is none stored on the Pacific Coast. All we have is 2100 miles away, in Hawaii, which could be taken overnight by Japan.

ENGLAND'S OIL STORES

"Last year England spent 9,812,410 pounds sterling for oil and bought 7,000,000 barrels, which she stored. She used oil to the value of 3,141,900 pounds sterling as a further current supply. That means that the British fleet has an oil reserve sufficient for three years.

"Not only do British companies control the world's oil, but they have vast holdings in this country. They control 241,000,000 acres of oil lands, 2114 producing wells, have a capacity of 70,200 barrels a day, 752 miles of pipelines, five refineries, 120 stations and three steamship lines.

"Now turn to the Japanese, for this matter of fuel reserve is important in gauging the relative merits of the three navies. Japan buys most of her oil from the Shell Company in the Dutch East Indies. She transports it to Japan in tankers which are built in Japan and are operated by the Japanese, so that it is impossible to estimate just what quantities are being stored.

GOVERNMENT INTERFERES

"The British and Japanese governments support British and Japanese oil companies. We only interfere with our's. At Portsmouth, N. H., the Mammoth Oil Company is trying to complete tanks and store 300,000 barrels of oil, but there is government interference. It is the same thing at Pearl Harbor, where the Navy's oil tanks are being built. All we have in reserve is 1,500,000 barrels which is 30 per cent less than the British and probably 60 per cent less than the Japanese when the Tokio supply is replenished.

"Outgunned, outnumbered, part of the fleet in a deplorable condition with no naval bases and our only fuel reserve 2100 miles distant we have lost our position on the 5-5-3 treaty. The ratio is 5-3-1 and we are 1.

"To establish our ratio or rather to re-establish it we need 4712 officers and 11,175 men, a reserve of 256 officers and 18,179 men. Japan needs none.

"Such a situation is almost treason to our security."

Reconciliation Likely as Sanderson Says Charges Against Wife, Nina Putnam, Are Untrue

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 27.—A reconciliation between Robert J. Sanderson and his wife, Nina Wilcox Putnam, the author, seems likely. Mr. Sanderson has investigated the charges brought against his wife by Mrs. Richard Ellsworth Bassett of Madison, Ct., whose husband, a former clam digger, acted as Mrs. Sanderson's chauffeur and literary agent. He finds them "groundless."

Mr. Sanderson issued the following statement:

"Through my New York lawyers I have investigated the Bassett charges made against my wife, Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson, in the newspapers last January, and it is only fair to her for me to state publicly that I have found them to be absolutely without foundation in fact."

SETTLEMENT SEEN

Mr. Sanderson, who is staying at the Brevoort Hotel, left New York today for a three-day vacation. Mrs. Sanderson is on her way to Del Ray, near Palm Beach, Fla., and is expected to reach there tomorrow. Their attorneys agreed that Mr. Sanderson's statement cleared the way for a settlement of their differences.

"They are still husband and wife," said Attorney Warren Lee, "and my client has no intention to proceed with any divorce action. I am not in a position now to elaborate on the brief statement which Mr. Sanderson issued, but it apparently indicates his desire to let the matter drop."

John J. Schwartz, attorney for the author, commented as follows:

"I am exceedingly glad to hear that Mrs. Sanderson has been cleared by her husband of the absurd charges brought against her. I shall not be able to get into communication with her today, but I am certain she will make a reply to Mr. Sanderson's declaration. It looks to me as if all will be forgiven and forgotten."

The couple were married in 1919. Their union at that time was characterized as "the very newest model." The two decided to live under separate roofs, not even in the same town, and visit each other week-ends.

KEPT OLD NAME

The bride did not call herself Mrs. Sanderson but retained the name of her late husband, a member of the publishing firm and nephew of George Haven Putnam.

Last fall Mrs. Sanderson instituted divorce proceedings against her husband at Providence, R. I. Her divorce was granted by Judge Barrows, associate justice of the Superior Court, in February, and shortly afterward the court vacated the action and turned the evidence over to the Attorney-General's office for consideration. Mr. Sanderson then asked his attorney to take proceedings against his wife in an independent divorce suit. Mrs. Sanderson finally was cleared of the charge of presenting false affidavits in her suit.

In January their marital troubles came to a new head when Mrs. Bassett charged that Mrs. Sanderson had stolen her husband. Mrs. Sanderson came to New York and in interviews in the Hotel Netherlands, after an attack of hysterics, asserted the Bassett charges were false.

DEATH PLOT BY GERM USE SEEN

about to become a mother. Officials said this was erroneous, but Baring himself held to the idea. Baring spent a sleepless night in his cell. He paced to and fro throughout the night, hands running through his hair, nervously inquiring time and time again, "Has the baby come?" This incident was pointed to as indicative of his wrought-up mental condition.

GERMS ARE FOUND

Mrs. Walter Stroud of Baltimore, mother of the prisoner, visited him today in the jail. She had arrived Saturday evening, going immediately to the Baring home in White Plains. There she was in such friendly conference with her daughter-in-law that Mrs. Baring asked her to stop with her for the night.

After a number of talks at the jail with Baring, his attorney, Charles Edward Long, said he was satisfied with the defense.

"I doubt whether the grand jury will indict him," he said. "The story is a remarkable psychological study."

Baring has admitted the possession of arsenic in the house over the period of three months during which, according to the authorities, arsenic was administered to Mrs. Baring in stuffed dates, malted milk ginger ale and other foods and drinks.

Baring's home is said to be filled with a miniature chemical laboratory containing many test tubes. In some of these, an official said, germs of pneumonia and diphtheria were found by State police. When this report was taken by newspaper men to Dist.-Atty. Rowland, the prosecutor's terse comment was, "We have evidence that he gave his wife pneumonia and diphtheria germs during the last three months."

He would not say whether Mrs. Baring had been under treatment for pneumonia or diphtheria. Her physician, Dr. Henry J. Vier, was out of town today.

MAJ. MARTIN IN PERILOUS TRIP

shovel and floated out of the stream before it was safe to start the plane, with its delicate pontoons, down the stream on the next tide, which usually is highest at 5 a.m. Due to the strong winds that had prevailed for a week, it did not come within a foot of its normal height, with the result that there was not enough water in the creek to float the pontoons out into the bay without danger of damaging the three-ply mahogany wood, of which they are constructed, on the gravel bottom or the steep, rocky shores.

FORCED TO LEAVE

Since the weather was fair, at the time, and the wind shifting to the southwest it was necessary for Maj. Martin to get his air cruiser out into the bay and off the water before noon or the incoming tide and the rapidly rising wind would have been too violent for him to hop off at all until the storm was over.

It is impossible for a seaplane to live in any kind of storm on this exposed bay. Maj. Martin could not anchor the ship and wait; he had to hop off. So, with the help of the inhabitants of Kanatak, all of whom turned out, even including the few white women in the colony, and also with the assistance of the whole crew of our ship, the Algonquin, a sled was constructed of heavy timbers, with a log under the keel of each of the pontoons as a runner.

Then the Standard Oil caterpillar tractor was hitched onto the sled and literally pulled the raft down the bed of the shallow creek for a half-mile, to the edge of the water of the bay, where the tide was going out at places.

HAD TO USE SHOVELS

The banks on the side of the creek were so narrow that the men had to shovel away the dirt off the high embankment to allow the wings to pass through the ravine without being rubbed to shreds. Indeed, this passage out of the channel presented one of the oddest spectacle ever witnessed. To see the huge world air cruiser being towed on a sled by a tractor out of the dry bed of the creek, with Maj. Martin standing on the wings and Mechanic Harvey on the front of the sled would have made an interesting movie had an operator been present. Surely, never before did an airplane go through such a ravine, in such a strange way, or on such a momentous mission.

To make things worse the wind and the tide began to come up, accompanied by a blinding snowstorm. As there is no protection against high winds for a plane in this small harbor it became a race with the men in sliding the pontoons and the heavy plane off the sled, because the tractor could not drag the sled farther than the edge of the tide and the pontoons could not be violently pushed off the sled without serious damage to the bottoms of the ponteons.

As the ship weighed more than three tons it could not be lifted off the sled, so that a means had to be devised to push the sled out into deep water until the airship floated on the bosom of the bay.

At first our crew on the Algonquin dropped an anchor far out in the bay, with a block and pulley attached, but when the tractor hitched on to one end of the line and started to pull the heavy sled out where it could float, the fifty-pound anchor refused to hold in the sand of the bay.

There was nothing for it but to get long timbers, brace them low against the sled and let the tractor push it out into deep water till it floated. This was done but the aid of the racing propeller was required to get the sled to sea. After an hour's pushing and pulling it finally got out deep enough for the pontoons to float, but by that time the bay was covered with whitecaps that drove straight into the nose of the air cruiser.

As a consequence, Maj. Martin had to taxi right out into the forty-mile wind and driving snow that almost blinded the workers and over the terrible surface of a powerful sea that was running into the ocean beyond where our ship, the Algonquin, was anchored.

The major handled his ship masterfully, and, after splashing and foundering, shipping water and rolling about, the wings finally lifted the three-ton airship off the water. Even then it was many a hundred yards that she flew before she gained enough speed to make sure to the spectators that she would not settle back on the water. She disappeared in the fog of snow beyond the white figure of the Algonquin out in the bay, and only the roar of the motor could be heard.

MAJOR KEEPS SMILING

For some time, as the hum increased, the round-the-world air cruiser was discerned, like a ghost in the sky, making back to the beach, but at a considerably higher altitude. As the roaring sky dragon circled overhead, scaring the wild ducks and the seagulls with its speed and bulk, Maj. Martin and his mechanic, Harvey, leaned over the fusilage and signalled to the crowd on the beach. The major's teeth were clearly visible, showing that his unfailing smile was still there.

Once again he banked and disappeared in the wind, snow and fog, until only the faint droning of his motor was audible, and everybody thought the air cruiser had started on the long trip to Chignik. In a few minutes, however, the droning came more distinctly to the ears and, no bigger than a gull, the plane appeared close to the summit of the deep-ridged and snow-covered mountains to the south.

Soon it was high overhead and with a last wave the major and his mechanic banked around and disappeared to the south in the face of a grown-up hurricane. The silent watchers on the beach and the speechless Indians by their sides listened until not the faintest echo was discernible and then all turned and uttered a silent prayer that the courageous flyers and the good air cruiser Seattle would weather the gale and reach Chignik safely.

Maj. Martin and Sergt. Harvey had made so many friends during the short time that they were at Kanatak that everyone's heart was touched by the desperate chance the major had been compelled to take in order to get out of this landlocked cove where he had been marooned since April 15. As soon as they had gone Capt. Gabbett ordered the anchors of the Algonquin hoisted and the Coast Guard cutter immediately set out after the around-the-world flyers, to render assistance in case the major and his mechanic had to go into a forced landing before they reached Chignik. The assistance fortunately was not required.

DEBATE ON POWER BOND

Church Services Given Over to Discussion of Proposed $21,000,000 Issue

That the proposed $21,000,000 power bond issue is an issue rather than a political question, was the contention at the First Unitarian Church last night when precedent was established by having a spirited debate on the bond issue for the regular Sunday service.

Rev. E. B. Backus, who surrendered his place in the pit and Councilman Rob Criswell, speaking for the Chamber of Power and Light, and A. Luckenbach, vice-president of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, spoke from the church platform.

There was no singing of hymns, no prayer and no sermon. Before the large congregation Councilman Criswell set forth the $21,000,000 bond issue would not raise taxes, only to hear Mr. Luckenbach, read from a letter sent him by City Auditor Ray L. Myers, saying that over $1,000,000 had been paid out in taxes as a result of a former Power bond issue.

RULES OF DEBATE

The rules of debate, the chairman stated, would give Mr. Luckenbach well twenty-five minutes and Mr. Luckenbach thirty minutes, with five minutes additional for Mr. Criswell for rebuttal. After the debate, pictures, prepared by the Power Bureau, were shown.

Councilman Criswell spoke for five minutes telling what a splendid gentleman Mr. Luckenbach is and how friendly he is toward him. Then, warming to his subject, the Councilman went into the gas company.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the stock of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation is owned in San Francisco," said Criswell, "so it is only natural that a San Francisco concern should try to take business away from Los Angeles and give it to San Francisco. We are like Mr. Luckenbach, we are working for my corporation and trying to do all I could to help these bonds.

"Mr. Luckenbach is wrong when we are going to use part of the $21,000,000 to take over the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation or to parallel their lines. We are not going to use a cent of this money to do either of these things. Our plan, however, is to acquire or take over the plant of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company and run it just the same as it is now running, the water business."

STATEMENT CALLED

"Statements made by Mr. Luckenbach well tonight regarding the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation are false," said Mr. Criswell back. "The San Francisco concern has no interest whatsoever in the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation. The Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation has $16,000,000 invested in Los Angeles and the stock is owned by the people of this city.

"Mr. Criswell will tell you that the $24,000,000 of bonds originally proposed was cut to $21,000,000 in order to secure the support of strong political factions. I have shown you tonight by Mr. Luckenbach that the city does not need the $21,000,000 for the purposes for which it could get along with $16,000,000 less and then carry out the announced program."

FIRE'S RAGE CHECKED BY WIND SHIFT

Much Timber Destroyed in Oregon and Washington Forest Blazes

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 27.—Shifting of prevailing winds from easterly to westerly and a rise in the humidity contributed today to make less severe the forest fire situation in Oregon and Southwestern Washington. In several districts the critical stage is believed to be past, but in some others much timber was being destroyed and groups of men were stubbornly fighting the flames.

One of the worst fires in progress was in the Salmonberry district of the Coast Range Mountains between here and Tillamook. Several million feet of logs have been burned and the fire still is threatening logging camps. Seventy-five or more fires are sweeping various portions of Washington, three of which are declared by State Forester Fred E. Pape of Olympia to be extremely serious.

Young timber of from twelve to twenty years' growth along the Lewis River was being swept today by a blaze which extended over twelve adjacent sections of land and which destroyed the logging camp, schoolhouse, mill and homes of Cougar, Wash., with a loss estimated at $200,000.

The fire is being combatted by State officers and volunteer workers.

Two fires of a serious nature are burning in Grays Harbor county and north of Elma, Wash.

A farmhouse, two barns and numerous outbuildings near Woodland were reported destroyed last night.

Up to a late hour today national forests in the State were free from fires.

More than sixty forest patrolmen have been hired within the last two days to aid vlounteer fire fighters.

Tots Found in Death Embrace in River Grave

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MINNEAPOLIS, April 27.—Tightly clasped in each other's arms, the bodies of Harold Brouillette, 4 years of age, and Alice Tanner, 6, who disappeared February 21, last, were found in the Mississippi River near Third avenue southeast and Main street. Harold was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Brouillette, 5239 Thirty-eighth avenue south, and the girl was the daughter of Mrs. Zina Tanner, 428 Second street northeast.

The discovery of their bodies put an end to a long search in which the frantic parents refused to believe that their children were dead, offering rewards, consulting mediums and employing private detectives who worked on a score of leads which supported a theory that they had been kidnaped.

Sewing Made a Pleasure

You Can Carry It in One Hand

Take it upstairs or down, to the other room, where the light and air are better. Sew on the sun porch, or where you like. Then slip it into the closet or under the bed out of the way. These are some of the advantages of the portable machine. You can even take it when you travel.

No dragging. No tearing efforts. No surrender of a sewing room to the ugly iron framework of an old fashioned machine.

The direct drive motor of the Willcox & Gibbs (one revolution to every stitch instead of about a dozen revolutions) makes it the most desirable of all portable machines. It insures steadiness and stability in spite of the light weight —whereas other machines may crawl and clatter.

NO BOBBINS TO WIND. No tension to regulate. Triple strength stitches. Any speed. Mahogany-finish case. Free home trial. Free sewing lessons. Old machine in trade. Easy payments.

Please send full information on trial offer, free sewing lessons and special terms.

TAMMANY CHIEF TO GRAVE TODAY

Murphy's Funeral Will be Quiet; No Parade

High Requiem Mass to be Said at St. Patrick's

Record Crowd Expected to Jam Fifth Avenue

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 27.—The body of Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, will be laid at rest in Calvary Cemetery tomorrow following funeral services in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Police officials and others anticipate a record crowd of onlookers, though there is to be no display of any sort; no parade through the city streets; merely the usual high requiem mass at the church.

Wide interest in the passing of the Tammany leader was manifest today at the home on East Seventeenth street. From early morning until night there passed the threshold of the Murphy home two lines of serious-faced people, men, women and children, well-dressed and shabby, of all ages and of many creeds.

CHICAGO LEADERS ATTEND

Mrs. Murphy, who was stricken when told of the sudden and unexpected death of her husband on Friday, recovered sufficiently today to be able to see a few friends. Mrs. Norman E. Mack, wife of the Democratic National Committeeman, and Mrs. John F. Hylan, wife of the Mayor, were among the few with whom she talked. She will be able to attend the funeral.

There arrived in the city tonight a delegation, the coming of which was a striking demonstration of the wide influence of the Tammany leader in national politics. It was headed by George E. Brennan and consisted of a score of men prominent in politics in Chicago.

The party was met at the Grand Central by Commissioner of Plant and Structures Grover Whalen and went to the Waldorf. During the evening Mr. Brennan and some of the others visited the Murphy home and viewed the body of the leader.

TO TALK AL SMITH

After the funeral the Chicago Democrats are expected to confer with Tammany men regarding the campaign of Governor Alfred E. Smith for the Presidential nomination.

Mr. Brennan refused to discuss the report that he was likely to become the leader of the Smith forces.

He did, however, deny the published report that there had been a promise to deliver the Illinois delegation at the Democratic National Convention to William Randolph Hearst. Mr. Brennan said he could not say whether or not any Illinois delegates would vote for Mr. Hearst at the convention, but could say that there had been no agreement to do so.

SAY OLD CLIQUE BROKEN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The death of Charles F. Murphy removes a political power which, according to conservative Democratic factions, makes easier their plans to nominate an appealing ticket and prevent the control of the convention by the clique of which Mr. Murphy was the strongest and most resourceful member and Brenpan and Taggart were the others.

In the opinion of the Democratic leaders here who see success if the work of the Democratic convention is freed from machine control and selects strong candidates, the successor of Mr. Murphy in Tammany Hall will not be such a power and the reactionary program set in motion by the dead chieftain will not be strong enough to halt the Democratic convention in its purpose to name a strong ticket and a platform without a wet plank.

That the late Mr. Murphy had a biding hope of naming Gov. Smith as the Presidential nominee has long been known among Democratic Senators, but they never accepted this move as possible and now they say the program which might have wrecked the Democratic party disappears with the death of Murphy.

SPELL OF SAHARA BLAMED

Lytell Tells Why He Acts so Perfectly in Desert Film; Admits He's Fond of Actress

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 27.—Although he admits that passionate love-making on the silver screen might excite jealousy and suspicion in the breast of a wife and lead to the divorce courts, Bert Lytell, motion-picture star, went to lengths today to prove that the love-making in his latest picture, "A Son of the Sahara," was "merely professional" and had in it no personal element.

Mr. Lytell arranged for a private showing of the picture for a number of Chicago friends, who chided him concerning the reports about an undue fondness between himself and Miss Claire Windsor, his beauteous costar in the scenes on the burning sands. He wanted to show them, he said, and convince them that the reports were all wrong.

MUST BE REALISTIC

The actor arrived in Chicago in the morning, stopping off here on his way from Los Angeles to New York. He took the party to a South Side theater and there as the scenes were one by one put on elucidated:

"Now, you see! An actor has to do it like that—he owes it to the public to be realistic. But you can see it's just acting—can't you?"

But he received no answer so intent was his guest on the picture. Then he went on.

"Of course," he said, "Miss Windsor and I are really fond of each other, very fond. Perhaps that helped to make the acting so realistic. You know, it's much easier to put on that passionate son-of-the-desert stuff when one is fond of one. But that has nothing to do with the divorce Mrs. Lytell is going to seek.

UNHAPPY LONG TIME

"Mrs. Lytell and I have been unhappy together for some time. She will ask a divorce from me on the grounds of incompatibility, and, of course, I shall not contest it. But this picture has nothing to do with it—"

He trailed off into silence with a strange feeling that as he reluctantly admitted later, his Chicago friends were still unconvinced.

"It must be the spell of the Sahara or—or something," she mused. "Maybe that's what made it so realistic."

But the reports from Hollywood were that Mrs. Lytell, after one sitting through the oriental picture, made up her mind, and even Miss Windsor didn't seem anxious to deny. "He's about the nicest man I know," she is quoted as saying. "It wouldn't make me a bit angry if he askedme to marry him."

DOFFS CLOTHES AFTER IMBIBING

DENVER, April 26.—A blase judge and wearied court attaches heard a series of stories in police court, which aroused even in them a gleam of interest and a few chuckles.

A pretty wife imbibed illicit moonshine that made her tear off her clothes and attempt to venture onto the streets clad only in nature's garments; an irate trainman hit a salesman who rang his doorbell and woke him up, and an Italian locked his wife and daughter out of his house for the night when they failed to observe his 9 o'clock curfew rule. All this was in addition to the usual tales brought into court each day.

Police answered a hurry call at the home of Fred H. Wilmsmeier 3036 Stout street, at 3 o'clock in the morning. The found Wilmsmeier sitting on his wife, who was struggling on a bed. The woman was unclothed and her husband and two officers were unable to dress her. They wrapped a blanket around her and piled her into the ambulance, they testified before Judge Bray, and brought her to the station, where she created a commotion before she was put in charge of the matron.

WIFE FINED $20

Not until court was nearly over could Mrs. Mary Pate, police matron, induce the woman to put on her clothes. Finally, warned that she would be dealt with severely, Mrs. Wilmsmeier, who is unusually pretty, decided to dress and appear in court. She was fined $10 and costs for drunkenness and $10 and costs for disturbance.

Arthur Hoop, a railroad man living at 1316 South Washington street, told the court he returned last night from a sixteen-hour run and sought a few hours' sleep. He was awakened early in the morning by a peddler who wanted to sell some shoestrings. An hour later a bell was pressed by a furniture salesman, who went away with Hoop's maledictions ringing in his ears. The final straw came with the entrance of a sewing machine man, who gave his name as Ray E. Harris in police court.

Despite a sign over the door, Harris rang the bell, Hoop said. He then saw Mrs. Hoop in back of the house, and went around to speak to her. Hoop had risen from his bed, he told the court, and he saw Harris disappear. He dressed quickly, and when Harris returned to the front of the house he found trouble awaiting him.

SYMPATHY OF COURT.

"I asked him why he rang the bell," said Hoop, "and he said he didn't. So I hit him."

The sympathy of the court was with Hoop. To uphold the law he was fined $5 and costs, but the fine was remitted.

Joseph Proena, 1424 Osage street, was confronted in court by his wife and young daughter, both of whom told the court that they had returned home last night to find the door of their home boarded up, and had been forced to go to a neighbor's house for the night.

The girl said she had an argument with her father earlier in the day, and he had slapped her. The mother said she worked all day long and had not been able to get home sooner.

"I told them they had to get home by 9 o'clock at night," said Proena. "When they didn't come, I nailed up the door."

The court fined him $5 and warned him against future edicts of the kind.

NEW MIRACLE; RUM TURNS INTO WATER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MINNEAPOLIS, April 27.—Barreled contraband seized by Federal agents, valued at $100,000, in bootleg whisky and alcohol and stored in a Minneapolis warehouse under custody of the United States Marshal, has mysteriously turned from whisky to water. The startling discovery sent Federal prohibition agents out on a hunt for clews to a conspiracy to rob warehouses and steal back from the government the illicit liquor seized in raids made in December, 1923, when Federal agents confiscated three carloads of liquor which had been shipped to Minneapolis.

'PHONES DECREASE UNDER SOVIET REGIME

Russia has only 112,000 telephones to serve a population of 131,000,000 people, according to the latest figures available. In other words, there is one telephone for every 1169 people in the soviet republic, as against one telephone for every eight people in the United States at the same date. The Russian government telephone system showed an actual net decrease during a single recent year of about 58,000 telephones, and the mileage of telephone wire in service also dropped substantially.

During 1922 the population of Petrograd increased from about 700,000 to over 1,000,000; but the number of telephones in operation in that city decreased in the same period from about 40,000 to 8966. Even in Moscow, the capital and center of soviet activity, the number of telephones fell during 1922 from over 54,000 to about 25,000, although the population grew in the same period from 1,028,215 to 1,511,025.

At last accounts, there were more telephones in the city of Pittsburg, Penn., which has a population of less than 1,000,000, than there were in the whole vast Republic of Russian and Siberia, with over 131,000,000 inhabitants.—[Telephone Press.

"He Also Serves——"

See the plumber. He sits idly by the bath tub and does nothing.

Why does the plumber do nothing?

Because the plumber is helpless.

Alas! Is the plumber a cripple?

No, not so; but he is waiting for his monkey wrench.

Is that not his monkey wrench, right by his left knee?

Yes, that is his monkey wrench. But he waits until the apprentice comes from the shop, to hand it to him.—[Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Old Major Shrapnel was walking with a friend, when they passed a pretty girl. At once the major turned to his companion with a superior smile. "Did you see that charming young lady smile at me?"

"Oh, that's nothing to worry about," replied his friend, consolingly. "The first time I saw you I laughed out loud, but I soon got used to your face."

"Ask Our Patients"

Scores of persons have said in substance in our office: "Oh, how I wish I had known of you folks before I had spent so much money trying everything else with no results."

Many after finishing their adjustments have said they would not take $500.00 for the benefit they have derived.

Multitudes of people, and from nearly every state in the union and from Canada are numbered among our patients.

X-RAY CHIROPRACTORS

An X-ray picture of your spine will locate exactly the spinal bone which is gradually pinching the life out of an important spinal nerve. In spite of this your spine may "feel all right." A pair of spinal nerves leaves the spinal cord between the bones of the spine about an inch apart all the way down the back. These nerves carry power from the brain, and distribute it to all parts of your body. Therefore, if you are having so-called "trouble" with your heart, lungs, bronchial tubes, stomach, liver, kidneys, intestines, etc., you should SEE YOUR SPINE and know for yourself which of your spinal bones are out of place. It's the displaced spinal bones pinching your nerves which causes you to feel badly. An X-ray picture gives YOU the proof, and enables us to know just how much of your backbone needs adjusting.

Chiropractic gives you a means of taking your health forehanded. Find out the condition of your spine by means of the X-ray, and then have the proper adjustments. Protect your health in this way. You can build up your resistance to disease and keep physically fit.

Sales managers, business directors and other leaders tell you to "hit the line hard." Chiropractic adjustments, given scientifically, will do more to raise your power to its full limit than anything else you can try. Insure your capacity with our chiropractic adjustments. ABANDON HOPE ON LOW SURTAX

Leaders Concede Mellon's Rates Doomed

Only Question at Issue is Party Credit

Passage of Revenue Bill Assured This Week

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Elimination of the Mellon surtax rates from the tax bill will be definitely voted by the Senate this week if the plans of the leaders for giving precedence to action on normal and surtax rates are not interfered with.

Administration leaders concede that the public sentiment which had been counted upon to swing votes to the 25 per cent maximum surtax has failed to influence the Senate and that the Mellon rates are doomed, so far as this session is concerned.

The leaders of both parties agree substantially in predictions as to the final level of surtaxes. The only question remaining at issue is whether the rates will bear a Republican or Democratic label.

The general belief is that the maximum surtax in the bill as passed by the Senate will be somewhat between 37 1-2 per cent, the maximum of the Longworth plan of the House bill and 40 per cent, the maximum of the Simmons plan of the Senate Democrats.

RESULT IN DOUBT

If Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, chairman of the Finance Committee, can succeed in his aim to obtain a majority for a surtax maximum below that of the Democrats, the bill will be more or less a Republican measure. There seems little likelihood that any of the proposed Smoot amendments for a maximum surtax of 30, 32, 35 or 37 per cent will be carried and the Democrats seem to have better than an even chance to obtain the support of radical Republicans for the 40 per cent maximum.

Republican leaders believe that few Democrats will support surtax rates below those of the Simmons plan. The Democrats, on the other hand, contend that not to exceed three of their number will favor lower rates. The success of any compromise Republican plan would appear to hinge upon a willingness of radical Republicans to come into camp, which they have not shown thus far.

The extreme conservatives have not heretofore been anxious to abandon the Mellon rates. The plan of Senator Smoot to offer compromise amendments after the Mellon rates are rejected is regarded as indicating that the administration forces have finally determined to make the best of the situation and hold the surtax rates as low as possible.

FIVE INSURGENTS

The Senate is made up of fifty-one Republicans, forty-three Democrats and two Farmer-Labor representatives. With forty-nine votes constituting a majority, it would be necessary to get all but two of the Republicans in line in order to swing the Senate to a Republican compromise-rate program, or if three Democrats were included, five Republican votes could be spared. More than five Republican radicals deserted the party at the time of the vote on the election of a chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, and more than that number have been counted upon to urge high surtax rates.

The Democrats can win by holding 40 of the 43 minority members and by getting the aid of the two Farmer-Labor members and seven radical Republicans.

Notwithstanding the apparent certainty that the Senate will pass a bill with a surtax maximum at least as high at 37 1-2 per cent as provided in the House bill and possibly as high as 40 per cent as provided in the Simmons plan the belief is general that President Coolidge will sign the bill as the best that can be accomplished at this session. The President then will continue his advocacy of the Mellon rates during the campaign with a view to a further revision of the revenue law in the next Congress.

NORMAL RATES

While the Mellon surtax rates seem doomed it is not so certain what will be the outcome of the controversy over normal rates. The Longworth compromise normal rates of 2, 5 and 6 per cent may be adopted instead of either the Mellon rates of 3 and 6 per cent as in the pending bill or the Simmons rates of 2, 4 and 6 per cent.

Failure of the Democratic members of the Finance Committee to recommend any increase in estate taxes above rates of the present law may make it possible to satisfy the administration on this feature of the measure. Radical Republicans and some of the Democrats will vote for the increased rates of the House bill and also for the House gift tax.

The Senate is expected to dispose of the controversy over the tax on corporation earnings early this week. Secretary Mellon did not recommend any change in corporation taxes and the House bill made none. The Senate Finance Committee, however, repealed the tax on capital stock of corporations and in lieu thereof increased the tax on corporation earnings from 12½ to 14 per cent. This is opposed by some Democrats on the ground that it will increase the tax burdens on all corporations with earnings in excess of 6 2-3 per cent of their invested capital. Other Democrats propose to substitute a graduated tax on corporation earnings for the flat tax. The graduated tax is expected to meet defeat and it is probable the Senate will approve the committee recommendation for an increase in the flat tax.

The Senate has progressed to the point where all committee amendments except those involved in controversies have been disposed of. While it is not considered probable that the bill will be passed this week, action may be taken on many of the disputed questions, and passage of the measure seems assured by the following week.

Most of the provisions relative to excise taxes already have been approved but action remains to be taken on the automobile taxes, which are reduced under the House bill, and on the new radio taxes.

Amendments which have been offered, but are like to be rejected, include the restoration of the excess profits tax and the imposition of a tax on undistributed earnings.

BRAND TROTZKY AS JUDAS

Railmen Accuse Red Leader of Selling Out Faction of Party to Regain Control of Army

BY GEORGE SELDES
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, April 27.—Leon Trotzky is accused of selling out the faction of the Communist party he represented in order to re-establish himself as head of the army. The accusation is made by "the workers' opposition" at the seventh convention of the railroad men's union in Moscow, who have published the charges in a pamphlet which has arrived here.

According to the workers' opposition they intercepted telegrams which Trotzky sent from his vacation wherein he agreed to give up leading the opposition wing and patch up his quarrel with them, provided he regained his old standing. The workers' opposition declare that since Trotzky returned to Moscow there has been a big shake-up in the soviet army and all officers and political commissars known as favoring the opposition wing are losing their jobs.

A group of new members of the Moscow and Petrograd Communist party has published a manifesto warning the high officials to give up their high living. They demand that one rate be paid to every man and woman in Russia, thus preventing the higher officials from riotous living.

Man Loses Life in Costly Fire in Eastern City

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LOWELL (Mass.) April 27.—A huge conflagration which swept the city of Lowell early today took a toll of one life and more than $1,000,000 worth of property. The fire, which started shortly after midnight, gradually consumed a whole city business block in spite of the heroic work of the firemen. Fire fighters from other cities were hurriedly summoned to prevent devastation of the entire business section. They succeeded in confining the fire to seven large business buildings in one block which were totally destroyed.

Falling walls killed one fireman, J. F. Cunningham, and severely injured several others.

STATESMAN ON NINETIETH BIRTHDAY UNRUFFLED BY DISCORD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 27.—Chauncey M. Garfield, "God reigns and the Republic still lives."

"I have no fears for the present or the future," he said, "on the contrary, I believe that the next ninety years will experience a peace among nations, a mutual helpfulness, a revival of industry and international commerce beyond anything known in the past.

"I am not disturbed by the religious excitement or controversy which is shaking the land. It all leads to discussion; discussion leads to light and light leads of truth. Publicity is the solvent of most ills."

MARINE ACT POSTPONING IS FAVORED

Committee Asks Delay on Section 28 Enforcement for One Year

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Enforcement of Section 28 of the Merchant Marine Act would be deferred from June 20 next, until May 1, 1925, under a resolution reported by the House Merchant Marine Committee.

By a vote of 14 to 2 the committee accepted the subcommittee report recommending postponement of the preferential railroad freight rates to shippers using American vessels, which would be declared by the section.

The committee asked for consideration of the resolution at the earliest possible date.

As reported, the resolution was a modification of a proposal made by Representative Newton, Republican, Minnesota, to make the enforcement date July 1, 1923.

The committee authorized Chairman Greene to exert every effort to obtain speedy consideration of the resolution in the hope of securing action by both House and Senate before the close of the session.

After the State had failed to show by two witnesses that the defendant was the wife of one John Brown when she became Mrs. Van Blarcom in April, 1922, three months after Van Blarcom was adjudged of sound mind and restored to control of income from his parent's estate, the bigamy charge was dismissed.

Mrs. Van Blarcom said she intended to sue Van Blarcom for divorce as soon as the bigamy charge is settled.

THRILLING RACE

The one-lap dash for automobiles, the winner to wear the $2500 Victory Crown presented by the Italian colony, produced the most thrilling race up to date at Ascot. With De Palma in the pole position and Haugdahl next to him, the cars swept around the track at a terrific pace. For sheer nerve and courage, Haugdahl's attempt to pass De Palma as they rounded the last curve for the dash past the grand stand, was a stunt that brought the crowd to its feet in a frenzy. The Norwegian's car swung broadside to the track as he skidded around the turn. De Palma had to do the circle in 31s. flat to win.

The thrills of the day, however, were not all in the performances of De Palma and his rival. In the second heat of the Invitational Race M. Goto, Japanese entry, evidently forgot where he was going to, collided with a car driven by C. D. Evans as the seven entries were bunched for the flying start, turned around a couple of times, and finally made a nose dive for the pits in front of the judges' stand. When Goto had finally stopped and was fished out of a cloud of dust, it was found that his disguised Ford had made a wreck out of himself and Car No. 5, Gus Shrader's pet, and had put a few kinks in Babe Stapp's rear wheel. Goto, himself, was not damaged, although he hasn't figured out yet just what happened. In the ten-lap finals of the event, Jack Petticord took first, with Bill Lind second, and Bert Spencer, third.

OFF DAY FOR MOTORCYCLES

It was an off day for motorcycles, the gravel on the track making it dangerous traveling for the two-wheelers. In the one-lap dash, Joe Petrali took first, and Roy Tweedy second, which the latter couldn't hardly be blamed for, as there was only two entries and some one had to be second. The five-lap sidecar race was won by Krieger with Hepburn second, and Pelton third. About thirty or forty riders entered the Targo Florio Helter Skelter, and Bob Hemingway of Pasadena made the grades a little faster than the others.

A summary of the events follows:

Recital one-lap dash for automobiles—Won by Joe Petrali; Roy Tweedy second. Time, 37s. flat. Italian victory crown dash for automobiles—Won by De Palma; Haugdahl, second, and Eddie Meyer, third. Time, 31s. flat.

HAVERS CAPTURES WORLD'S UNOFFICIAL GOLF TITLE

BRITISH CHAMP TRIMS SARAZEN

Gene Loses 72-Hole Match by Five and Four

Winner Started Play Three Holes in Arrears

Exhibition One of Greatest Ever Pulled Off

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 27.—Arthur G. Havers, British open champion, succeeded today in accomplishing a feat that has baffled all of the master technicians of golf except one. The tall young Englishman defeated Gene Sarazen, holder of the P. G. A. title and one of the greatest match players that the royal and ancient game has produced by five up and four to play on the championship course of the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club.

Adding to the brilliancy of Havers's deed was the fact that he started today's round three holes in arrears.

Yesterday, in the opening round of the seventy-two-hole engagement, played over the Cedar Brook Club course in Philadelphia, Sarazen outplayed the British golfer at every turn and was leading by three up when the two started out for their concluding rounds this morning.

REDUCES LEAD

Havers lost no time in reducing his opponent's lead, for after the sixth hole had been played today the match was all square, Sarazen dropping the first, second, fourth and sixth. Havers took the lead at the seventh, lost the eighth to make the match all even again, but started to pile up a lead at the tenth and from this point on he was never headed. He finished the morning round four up, having won ten out of the eighteen holes, while Sarazen gathered in only three.

By the time the first seven holes in the afternoon round had been played, Havers was six up on the little Briar Cliff Lodge professional. He then dropped two in a row, but staved off disaster by a brilliant stroke of genius at the tenth, and two holes later was back once more to his six-hole lead.

To gain his seven holes on Sarazen in the morning round, Havers traveled over the championship lay out in seventy-five, duplicating par. Sarazen, on the other hand, was off color, particularly on his short game, at which he is generally strongest, and in his putting. He required a 42 for the outgoing nine in the morning and 40 for the inward journey. In the afternoon Havers and Sarazen both took 41 to the turn and Havers was a stroke better than Gene for the remaining five holes, his figures being one over 4's. Sarazen won four holes in the afternoon and Havers five.

TWO BRILLIANT SHOTS

Except at one hole in the morning round there was little if any advantages off the tees. If anything, Sarazan had a slight advantage over the long-smiling British star. The single exception was at the eighteenth where Havers hit was said to be one of the longest balls ever hit. His drive was sixty yards ahead of Sarazan's and enabled him to take a number three iron for his second shot which reached the 454-yard green—two of the most brilliant shots in the match. The wind came up during the afternoon session and Havers's slight hook bored its way better than did Sarazen's little slice and as a result Gene was forced to play the odd most of the time.

Havers made his gains on his short game. His chips and approach putts were marvelously accurate. Generally when he needed to hole putts between a yard and two yards he got them down. Sarazen, on the other hand, was seriously off on his short game and hit putting was uncertain. In the morning Havers had six one-putt holes and Sarazen two. But the latter also had no less than four three-putt greens, two of which cost him holes and the other two halves. The only time during the entire day that Havers required three putts was at the first hole in the afternoon game. He atoned for that single error by getting down in one putt at the tenth hole in the afternoon round and one on the same green Sarazen took three.

SAILOR CARROLL TO TACKLE ERNIE OWENS

Sailor Carroll, one of the best light-heavies in the Pacific Fleet, will meet Ernie Owens in the main event of the Compton card Friday night. Carroll, who is colored, holds a decision over Victor Alexander. Owens trimmed Victor in a red-hot battle last week. A. Grayber and Cliff Ramles will meet in the semifinal at 175 pounds. Ramles is a San Pedro boy with plenty of class. Tommy Richards will hook up with Eddie Sylvester in the special event at 125 pounds. Three other good bouts are also carded. The bouts: Nick Leopold vs. Tony Lopez, 125 pounds; Bill Sweeney vs. Lem Myers, 158 pounds and Young Mabini tangles with Young Lopez in the curtain raiser at 108 pounds.

San Francisco and Vernon Break Even in Double Bill

WHEN DE PALMA MADE HAUGDAHL BITE THE DUST

Ralph De Palma is shown leading near the finish of the Bozzani Sweepstakes at the Ascot Speedway yesterday. Sig Haugdahl, the Norwegian speed demon, is trailing the popular Italian. Leon Duray is in third place, while Eddie Meyer, Jr., is close behind. Ralph not only won the event, but also beat Haugdahl in the Italian Victory Crown dash. The picture below shows M. Gotto, the Japanese racing driver, crashing into the other contestants in one of the qualifying heats. Gotto lost control of his mount and besides putting his own car out of commission disabled three others. Babe Stapp, one of the drivers, is shown leaping out of the path of possible destruction. Fortunately all escaped injury. Upper photo by Robert V. Thompson, Times staff photographer, other picture by P. & A. Photos.

SEALS CAPTURE FINAL CONTEST

Tigers Cop Opening Game to Tune of 5 to 1

Visitors Nab Closing Number by Same Score

Speedy Contests Witnessed by 15,000 Fans

BY ROBERT E. RAY

Vernon and San Francisco divided yesterday's bargain bill, the Tigers taking the first game, 5 to 1, and the Seals coming back and reserving the decision and the score in the second tilt. Over 15,000 fans witnessed the games. Vernon took the series, winning five of the seven contests.

Ken Penner's hurling turned back the Seals in the opener and put the locals temporarily in first place, but when Bob Geary let the Tigers down with five hits and one run and pitched the Seals to a 5-to-1 win in the afterpiece the visitors went back into a tie for the lead with the Mavericks.

Each game was played in an hour and thirty minutes and the fast action pleased the large crowd, which overflowed into left and center field.

San Francisco started out in the first game as though it meant business, bunching three hits for a run in the initial inning. After that Penner tightened up tighter than an annoyed abalone on a rock and blanked the Seals with three hits during the remainder of the game. "Death Valley" Jim Scott started for the Seals but was lifted to let "Hunky" Schoor bat for him in the eighth, so "Shovel" Hodge finished.

SEALS SCORE FIRST

Seals scored their run in the first on singles by Valla, Mulligan and Waner. Slade took Ellison's hard grounder and tossed to McDowell for a double killing to end the inning. McDowell featured in fielding yesterday by turning in several fancy catches.

Vernon jumped on Scott for a pair in the third. Denny Murphy singled to left for a starter and was sacrificed to second by Slade. Penner's single to right scored Murphy and Ken continued to second when Waner bobbled the ball. Chadbourne walked and was forced at second by Menosky, Penner taking third. Blakesley's single scored Penner.

The Bengals' final trio of runs came in the last of the eighth off Hodge. Chadbourne's single started the rally. Menosky popped to Ellison, but Blakesley came

Angels Drop Two More to Oaks and Series Proves Almost a Total Loss; Scores, 3-2 and 7-4

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The Oaks rounded out a splendid week by taking both games from Los Angeles and they grabbed the series five games out of seven. The Oaks won in the morning, 3 to 2, and repeated in the afternoon, 7 to 4. The morning game was a tight tussle between Harry Krause and Bim Myers and Harry got home when Buzz Arlett cracked the ball over the right field fence in the seventh inning. The other two runs made by the Oaks were the result of a double by Adams and home run by Brubaker in the third. Brubaker hit the ball over third base and it rolled under the gate in left field, giving him a round trip.

The Angels bunched four hits off Krause in the sixth and scored two runs, tying the score, but Arlett untied it with his wallop over the fence.

In the afternoon Kuns had all the better of the argument with Payne. The Oaks bunched four

STARS OF WEST ARE BEST

Athletes Make Better Marks at Des Moines Than Rivals at Pennsylvania Relays

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 27.—Western track-and-field stars showed to better advantage than eastern rivals in the first important outdoor tests of the 1924 season, having a bearing on Olympic prospects, it was revealed today by a comparison of marks at the Drake relays at Des Moines, Iowa, and the Pennsylvania relay carnival held at Philadelphia yesterday.

Though handicapped by unfavorable track conditions during part of the two-day meet, athletes at Drake hung up better performances in eight of the fourteen events on which a comparison is based. Performers at Penn were superior in five events, while one was tied.

It was the second straight year that the Drake meet has outshone the eastern carnival in this respect, but the margin was closer than a year ago, when Drake led in ten of thirteen events. There was added prestige for the West in the performances of its stars at the Penn meet, too, for in no fewer than six events western athletes showed the way to eastern opponents.

One world's record was made at each carnival, both of which also witnessed the shattering of numerous meet figures. Boston College's speedy quartet lowered the two-mile relay record to 7:47 3-5 in scoring an international triumph over Cambridge University, which finished third, while at Des Moines, Charles Paddock, sensational California sprinter, celebrated his comeback by setting a mark of 12 seconds for 125 yards, displacing a thirty-five-year-old standard. This feat followed a "century" by Paddock Friday in the record-equalling time of 9 3-5, but this mark was not officially allowed because it was asserted he beat the gun.

Water Polo Title to be Up Tomorrow

The national junior water polo championship will be decided beginning tomorrow evening in the Los Angeles Athletic Club pool when half a dozen talented teams will mix it up. The L.A.A.C., Long Beach, Hollywood, A.C., and Venice Swimming Association have already signed up, and several others are expected to enter before tomorrow.

Preliminary matches are scheduled to begin at 8:15 p.m., while the finals will be played Wednesday.

In addition to the water polo festivities, a number of additional aquatic attractions will be provided. Clarence Pinkston, Olympic diving champ, will perform while Miss Betty Becker, recent national women's champion, is scheduled to give an exhibition. A 100-yard dash including Duke Kahanomuku, Lee Jarvis and Reggy Harrison and a match race between Thelma Finn and Olive Hatch at fifty yards will also serve to make the evening a large one.

LOCAL CRICKETERS WIN

Santa Monica Cricket Club and Los Angeles C. C. staged a very keen and fast game on the grounds of the Santa Monica High School at Santa Monica yesterday. Los Angeles was victorious by 24 runs. The scores were: Los Angeles, 137 runs; Santa Monica, 113 runs. The features of the contest were the timely batting of P. Marks and A. V. Percival of Los Angeles, who made 58 runs and 30 runs, respectively. Mr. Mills, captain of the Santa Monica club, played a nice inning of 42 runs and Dixon and Craig also played good cricket, 17 and 15 runs, respectively. Tom Smith, the famous Winnipeg bowler of the Los Angeles club, bowled splendidly for his side, having 7 wickets for 49 runs. The fielding of both teams was faultless, which made the game faster than usual. Quite a large attendance were present in the grand stand.

Harris and Frank Nine Defeats Huntington Park in Fourteenth

CLOTHIERS WIN EXCITING TILT

Trim Huntington Park Nine by 4-to-3 Count

Game Goes Fourteen Innings Before Big Crowd

Art Smith Pitches Great Ball for Winners

Syl Goenen's triple, followed by Ernie Vogel's single brought the former across with the winning run and gave the Harris & Frank nine a 4-to-3 victory over Huntington Park after fourteen thrilling innings yesterday at Huntington Park. It was a National League game.

Art "Lefty" Smith was on the mound for the winners and Gardiner pitched for Huntington Park. Smith allowed eight hits and fanned twenty-one batters, while Gardiner yielded ten bingles and whiffed twelve.

Huntington Park took the lead in the first inning when Gomes was safe on an error and scored on Haney's hit. Harris & Frank evened the count with a run in the third and went in front by scoring two more in the fifth. Harper's home run, scoring Raney ahead of him in the sixth, tied the score and then neither team scored until the fourteenth. Score:

PTOMAINE TOMMIES DROP TILT

Pasadena Eagles Score 7-to-6 Victory in Well-Played Game

The Pasadena Eagles barely nosed the Ptomaine Tommie baseball nine out of a 7-6 victory yesterday at Tournament Park. The fray looked like turkey for the Tommies, who ran five men across the home plate in the second inning. Another run in the fourth frame caused it to look like a sure victory fr the Ptomaine crew, as Pasadena had only scored two tallys by this time.

In the beginning of the sixth the Eagles opened up and found Summers for four well-timed hits which netted them three runs. In the seventh the Pasadena nine came to bat full of confidence and scored two more runs which put them in the lead by one marker. Dduring this period of scoring for the Eagles, Jacobs had been hurling air-tight ball. Beginning with the fifth frame the Eagle twirler began shutting them out, so that the Tommies did not score a run from the fourth inning to the end of the game.

Lee was the star performer with the bat, out of three times up he connected for that many hits and scored one run. Joe Pironne, also of the Eagle nine, played a good game in center field.

FREMONT TOSSERS DEFEAT ART SHOPPE

By bunching five runs in the fourth inning the Fremont W.O.W. were able to hand the Vernon Park Art Shoppe the small end of an 8-to-10 score yesterday at the Downey Playground. The winners bunched their runs in the first four innings by scoring two in the second, three in the third and five in the fourth. The Art Shoppe nine were being shut out in fine style by Hay and the chance of them getting men across the home plate looked very slim. At the opening of the sixth round, however, the Vernon Park nine began to find the ball and by the end of the frame they had scored five runs. The lead of the Woodman crew was too great, however, and two more tallies in the ninth failed to win the game for the Art Shoppe.

DOWNEY IN WIN OVER MERCHANTS

Roy Hevle Pitches Home Club to 4-to-0 Victory Over Crown City

Roy Hevle was invincible against the Crown City Merchants yesterday, holding them to five scattered hits, and hurling Downey to a 4-to-0 victory in a fast game on the winning club's home lot. Rector, on the mound for Crown City, also pitched a good game, but his mates weren't able to get any runs for him.

Hill and Morrow both got two hits for Downey, while Cockrill was the only Merchant to successfully solve Hevle's slants, getting a pair of bingles. The Downey players gave Hevle perfect support in the field, which partly accounted for his shutout win. The teams are in the National League. Score:

Lithographers Victorious Over Whiting-Meads

The Western Lithograph club defeated the Whiting Mead Company nine, 6 to 2, in a well-played Pacific League game yesterday at Ross-Snyder Field. To Carle Cioffi, Westerners's hurler, goes the credit for the win, as he held the Whiting Mead batters to four hits.

The Western Lithograph squad won out by batting over four runs in the eighth inning and breaking a two-to-two tie. The Westerners scored first by bunching three hits for two runs in the first, but Whiting Mead tied the count with tallies in the fourth and fifth. Then the four-run rally decided the issue. Score:

BROTHERHOOD NINE WINS FROM WILLARD

The Fraternal Brotherhood-Willard Battery baseball game at Loyola College yesterday ended in an 8-to-4 victory for the Brotherhood. By being able to bunch four hits in the fifth inning things were turned in their favor. Both teams played a good game of ball, no errors being chalked up against either nine. The Battery nine made a majority of their runs in the seventh when they marked up three tallies. Packard was the individual star of the day, coupled with faultless playing at third sack, he connected for a home run, a three-base hit and a single from three trips to bat. KANT SKORES DROP CONTEST

Glendora Grabs Thrilling Game, 3 to 2

Knox Pitches Great Ball for Home Club

Burke Hurls Well for Kant Skore Outfit

Glendora marked up another victory yesterday when they defeated the Kant Skore Pistons nine 3 to 2 at Glendora. Kant Skores led all the way until the sixth inning, when Glendora took the lead by bunching two runs.

The Piston team began right off the reel in the first round and banged out two hits which netted them two runs. Knox tightened up after that and allowed only four hits to be marked up against him for the remainder of the game. Burke was just as successful as Knox at the pitching game, as he held the Glendora nine to five hits. Glendora fell in behind the Pistons when they scored one run in the first, and it looked like the game was going to end with a 1-to-2 score in favor of the Kant Skores. The home team came to bat in the first of the sixth with murder in their hearts, and smacked out the ball for two runs, which put them in the lead by one tally. Both nines managed to secure one hit in the remaining three innings, but could not bunch enough bingles to score a run. Glendora, by virtue of this victory, is vieing for high honors in the American League. Score:

blows in the first round and scored three runs. They were never headed. In that round Adams, Cooper, Cather and Lafayette hit safely. Payne did not appear to have much and after the Oaks had scored two more in the sixth, he was lifted to give "Lefty" Weinert, a newcomer from Philadelphia, a chance to get some exercise.

WEINERT WORKS

Weinert is supposed by some to have more stuff than Walter Maila. If he has he did not show it today. But Weinert is not yet in shape to go his best, and he will be carried along carefully until he gets right. He has nice action and he is an experienced pitcher.

The Angeles rallied in the seventh and scored three runs, but Kuns quickly squelched them and blanked them the last two rounds. In the seventh McAuley, Golvin and Beck hit in succession and Durst contributed a long fly to Cooper. Adams booted one in that round and that helped in the scoring of the three runs.

Kuns nearly knocked the ball out of the park in the eighth, driving in Maderas, who had received a pass.

HOLLYWOOD NINE WINS

Merchants Hammer Out 3-to-0 Victory Over Los Angeles Chinese Nine

Before a crowd numbering close to a thousand, the Hollywood Merchants walloped the Los Angeles Chinese 3 to 0 yesterday at Hollywood. The game, which was a battle the entire nine innings, centered mostly around the pitchers' mound. The mix-up was featured with the good hurling of both twirlers, only eight hits being rapped out during the fray. Billman was proved the hero with the horsehide pellet, however, when he held the Chinese nine to three hits which were so well scattered that not more than one was garnered in one inning.

Hollywood started out with a good lead when they made one run in the first inning. Then again in the third the Movie City nine found Norton for a hit which netted them another run. The Chinese tightened up then and held the home team to no hits until the seventh frame. Making a last effort, Hollywood smashed out two hits in the last of the seventh, which scored another run. This cinched the game for the Merchants as Billman shut out the Chinese in the two remaining innings with only one hit. This adds another victory to the Hollywood list of victories in the Independent League.

Next week the Merchants will engage in a tussle with the Marine champions. The game is to be played Sunday on the Allan Hancock Park diamond which is the home field for the Merchants. This game should afford the fans some real thrills, as the Merchants, who have a crack ball team, will meet some of the stiffest competition that can be found. Score:

All-State High School Track and Field Meet May be Staged at Coliseum on May 10

EPIDEMIC MAY CAUSE CHANGE

Praise for Officials Who Put on Saturday's Meet

Contemplate a Few Changes for Next Year

Tommy Davis's Dope Sheet is Good to Look at

BY BRAVEN DYER

Having managed the most successful Southern California high school track and field meet in history, both Van Patten and E. W. Dyer, local officials, are today being congratulated on all sides for the efficient manner in which the events were run off at the Coliseum last Saturday afternoon. True, there were a few knockers, as there always are in all walks of life, but when it is considered that almost 1,000 athletes were directly connected with the competition the smoothness with which the entire affair was staged was remarkable. There now seems to be a strong movement of the State meet, scheduled for May 10 at Taft, coming to Los Angeles. Someone would be a wise move if they signed up Dyer and Van Patten to run the affair. The hoof-and-mouth disease will be responsible for the passing of the scene if the move is made.

CHANGES NEXT YEAR

There will undoubtedly be some changes in the Southern California program next year, although none of the local officials will come right out and say so at this time. Unless I miss my guess the trial heats to be held the Saturday before the finals, with all athletes being forced to compete in these preliminaries. This is a good move, as it will keep out of the finals many men who have absolutely no chance of placing and only clutter up the track when they do appear. Also it is likely that the Class C meet will not be staged in connection with the big event. It will probably be run on the same day as the trial heats in the major meet. This will be an improvement over this year's plan, a lot of people are not interested in the Class C races, while those who are will take the trouble to attend on the particular day they are staged.

Tommy Davis, former Lincoln high school mentor, and now connected with the physical training department of all city schools, is being looked upon as something of a seer following Saturday's meet. Davis had a rope sheet which many people saw and laughed at, but he did some "phoney" picking, at least, some of the wise ones thought so.

PICKED 'EM RIGHT

In the first place Davis picked Lincoln to win, scoring 30 points. They did, but counted only nineteen. His second place choice was Manual with 24½ points. The Tellers made 25 markers, Davis figured Huntington Park would finish third with 17½ points. He figured 17 2-4. Klein, picked by everyone to get no better than a tie in the sprints, was a wise choice for both races. The crack star copped the two events. That's a pretty good record.

Jack Klein stepped the 220-yard dash in 21.7s, a lot of wise guys nodded their heads and said, Phil Buckman of Oxy had done it in 21.6 for a new Southern California intercollegiate record on the same track. Yale Marts did it, but Klein had previously done it when he tied Woodyard record. It was noised about that the distance was short. Bob Weaver quashed that rumor Saturday when he announced that the track had been accurately measured in the morning and there could be no question as to the distance being correct.

SANTA FE CLEANS UP UNION PACIFIC

The Santa Fe nine defeated the Union Pacific team No. 2 on the latter's diamond Saturday by a score of 13 to 4. Ferguson dealt a heavy brand of ball for the winners. He kept his hits well scattered during the earlier innings and tightened up completely after the fifth. The hitting of Ferguson and Lavet for the winning team and Huerkins and Dixon featured. This was the eleventh straight victory for the Santa Fe squad.

ANGLERS TURN TOWARDS SEA

Pier Fishing Popular in Southland

Estelle Taylor, Popular Movie Queen

FROM all reliable sources, there will not be much of a trout season this year, so the handlers of rod and reel are turning their attention to surf, deep-sea and pier fishing, declares Pete Peterson, angling authority at the B. H. Dyas Company.

All mountains and county lines being under quarantine measures naturally the sportsmen will follow the line of least resistance and again what is better than to cast a line for fish in the blue waters of the Santa Monica Bay, off Redondo, at San Pedro, Long Beach or the shores of Newport?

In recent seasons, salt-water angling fell down a trifle, the trout streams and lakes luring the anglers away. However, in a trip a few days ago, along the entire coast from the Malibu, south to Redondo, the Dyas Company's fish expert, accompanied by "Outdoor" Franklin found salt water angling ideal and many old-time followers on hand after an absence of a couple of years.

The best kind of surf fishing, where corbina are biting, is to be found along the shore north of Santa Monica. At Santa Monica proper the pier fishing at the present never was better. The last few days has found hundreds of rod and reel manipulators hauling in the fish.

A barracuda run has been going on along the Coast, Santa Monica coming in for a large share of it. Other fish being caught at the Santa Monica pier were halibut, mackerel, herring. Deep-sea fishing also is good off Santa Monica, many boats being maintained, taking out parties and others being chartered by private angling parties.

Peterson further declared that, salt-water fishing is so well followed this year, that all during the summer on Sunday and maybe on Saturday, The Dyas Company will hold special deep-sea fishing parties. Boats have been chartered from T. J. Morris.

Continuing his trip along the Coast, Peterson found good surf and pier fishing and deep-sea fishing from boats and the huge barge at Venice to be had at Venice, Playa Del Rey, Manhattan, Hermosa and Redondo. At all of these places, he found the crowds of anglers large and enthusiastic and all talking of the splendid barracuda run.

WEAVER LAUDS PADDOCK

Charlie's Performance at Des Moines Hailed as One of Greatest of All Time

"One of the greatest track performances of all time," is the way Bob Weaver, local A.A.U. official, characterizes Charles Paddock's feat of running the 125-yard dash in 12 seconds flat at the Drake relays last Saturday. Weaver was also enthusiastic over Paddock's showing in the 100-yard dash the day before, when he negotiated the distance in 9.6s.

"To my mind Paddock's showing at Des Moines is indicative of the fact that he is without a doubt the greatest sprinter in the world today," said Weaver. "Any time an athlete does 9.6 seconds he is running in wonderful form, but to make such time on a muddy track in a drizzling rain is nothing short of remarkable."

"It is too bad that the official starter did not bring the runners back for a fresh start when he noticed that Paddock jumped the gun. To my mind it was poor use of authority to merely state that Paddock had jumped the gun rather than to give him a chance to do the race properly."

"However, I think that the race only goes to show that Paddock is perfectly capable of equalling the record practically every time he runs. If he can do 9.6 seconds on a muddy track with a slight edge in starting, what will he do on a good day? It is my belief that the wet track slowed him up at least 2-5 of a second. A man who runs 10 flat consistently will do only 10.4 on a muddy track."

Local fans will await with interest the showing of the world's fastest human at the annual University of Washington relays scheduled for next Saturday at Seattle. Paddock is to run against the best of the Husky sprinters and if the weather should by any chance happen to be fine he may be able to give his eastern critics the merry ha-ha once more.

Paddock will make his only local appearance of the year at the Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico Olympic Games tryouts scheduled for May 24, at the Coliseum. Tickets are now on sale at all of the leading sporting goods houses and at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Seats are $1, $2, and $3, plus tax.

GLOVEMAKERS WIN OVER LANKERSHIMS

The Scully Glove-makers beat the Lankershim Edison team on the Ross Snyder Field Saturday by a score of 9 to 3. The hitting of Pomeroy, Garcia and Porter featured. The trio knocked a circuit clout apiece. De Porto's three-base hit made a big hit with the crowd. The fielding of both Armstrong and Allen and the pitching of Fitch in the pinches are worthy of note.

MANY TRIALS IN CHICKEN THEFT

Kansan Freed Three Times in Two Years

Asserted Pal is in Prison, Another is Fugitive

Fourth Hearing Now Looms on Burglary Charge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KANSAS CITY, April 27.—A verdict acquitting Jerry Hollyfield, of Piper, Kans., of a perjury charge probably has ended for him the court troubles that have lasted more than two years.

All of his court relations have grown from one chicken theft from one chicken house. The charges against him grew until he has had three trials and faces possibly another trial.

In the two years, Hollyfield has been tried and acquitted on a charge of stealing chickens. He then was tried on a charge of perjury, being accused of testifying falsely in his trial on the chicken theft charge. This perjury trial ended in a hung jury. Now a jury in Judge W. H. McCamish's division of the Wyandotte County District Court, after deliberating thirty minutes, has brought in a verdict of not guilty on the perjury charge. This was the second perjury trial.

There still is a possibility that Hollyfield will be brought to court against an answer a charge of burglary in connection with the chicken theft. Roy R. Hubbard, who has been acting as special prosecutor in the Hollyfield cases, declares he will push the burglary charge, which is docketed for trial in this term of court.

Hollyfield originally was accused of stealing seventy-four chickens in April, 1922, from William J. Kerns, who lives north of Bonner Springs, Kan. Two charges were filed against him, one a charge of larceny for carrying away the chickens, and the other a burglary charge for breaking into the chicken house. It was on the larceny charge that he was acquitted.

ONE CONVICTED

Two other men, Henry Adams and Otis Ward, were accused with being implicated with Hollyfield in the chicken theft. Adams pleaded guilty, and now is in the penitentiary. Ward jumped his bond, and now is wanted by the Wyandotte county authorities.

In each trial of Hollyfield, Adams was brought here from the penitentiary and he testified Hollyfield was with him in the robbery. Attorneys for Hollyfield always brought forth strong evidence in an effort to impeach the character of Adams.

In all of Hollyfield's trials the courtroom was filled by his friends. Following the verdicts of acquittal, he has received many hearty handshakes.

Special Prosecutor Hubbard is the one eager to push the burglary case.

TOKIO MIND WORKERS IN SAD PLIGHT

Intellectuals in Japan Hit Hardest by Slump in Business

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, April 27.—There is more unemployment among the intellectuals today than in any other section of Japanese life. This is largely due to the depression of business that followed the destruction caused by the earthquake of last September. With the exception of physicians, lawyers and technical experts, the remuneration of intellectual workers in Japan is comparatively small, with the result that the financial position of these intellectual workers has become precarious. This is all the more so because they have to maintain a social position.

As one means of relieving the situation and ameliorating their position a movement has been started for forming an organization of intellectual workers, which, if consummated, will be the first such systematic organization of the kind to be formed in the East.

The press urges the authorities not only to grant the necessary permission, but also to aid the venture financially on the ground that unemployed intellectuals are the most fertile source of political unrest.

A demonstration of unemployed intellectuals took place recently, a delegation calling on the Premier and the Home Minister and requesting aid "to prevent us from being enslaved by other classes." Both the Premier, Viscount Kiyoura, and Dr. Midzuno, the Minister for Home Affairs, pledged the utmost the government could reasonably do to help the unemployed intellectual classes of the country.

GERMAN PURCHASES FROM US INCREASE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—German purchases of American goods for the first quarter of 1924 increased 67 per cent over the corresponding period of 1923, the Commerce Department announced today. American exports to Germany during the period were valued at $126,213,066, against $75,559,803 for the first quarter of 1923. Heavy increases in the sales of American cotton to Germany were largely responsible for the increase.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

El Japón Sordo a la Invitación de Coolidge.

TOKIO, Abril 27.—La indicación del Presidente Coolidge acerca de la conveniencia de otras conferencias sobre desarme, cayó en el Japón en oídos sordos, lo que revela de modo significativo que ha cambiado la actitud de los japoneses para con los Estados Unidos, desde que el Congreso aprobó las cláusulas de exclusión de japoneses en el proyecto de ley de inmigración. Al paso que la proposición que contentía el proyecto de ley de presupuesto naval de la Cámara, antes de la Ley de Exclusión, despertó inmediato interés y atrajo instantáneas respuestas de los periódicos japoneses y de los funcionarios de gobierno, las palabras del Presidente no han herido una sola cuerda simpática, ni entre los articulistas de fondo, ni entre los círculos oficiales de esta capital.

Los funcionarios del Ministerio de Relaciones dicen que, si bien es cierto que la cláusula de la exclusión no alterará la política internacional del Japón, el gobierno no ha discutido la cuestión de ulteriores conferencias sobre desarme. Entretanto, los funcionarios esperan noticias sobre la actitud de Italia y de Francia.

Se hace ver que Italia y Francia se opusieron en la conferencia a la aplicación de la relación de 5-5-3 para los barcos auxiliares, y se cree que el gobierno japonés adoptará ahora la misma actitud.

Hay, según parece, la posibilidad de que las potencias queden alineadas de otro modo, si llegare a reunirse otra conferencia sobre desarme, y la aprobación de la cláusula de la exclusión va a acarrear sin duda el retiro del apoyo que los japoneses dieron a las proposiciones americanas en la anterior conferencia.

No hay duda de que un frente unido, formado por los franceses, los italianos y los japoneses, complicaría mucho las cuestiones y dificultaría los esfuerzos americanos en pro de mayores desarmes. No es probable que el pueblo japonés responda a las indicaciones del Presidente Coolidge antes de que se solucione la cuestión de inmigración, y caso de que la enojosa cláusula prevaleciera, todo indica que no habría de parte de este gobierno sino un tibio apoyo, y tal vez formal oposición del público a que el Japón participara, aunque el gobierno así lo desease.

Sigue en toda su fuerza la agitación contra las medidas de exclusión, y en mitines públicos que se celebran por todo el imperio, se le encarece al Presidente Coolidge que oponga su veto al proyecto de ley.

Peligroso Viaje del Mayor Martin.

A BORDO DEL CUTTER GUARDACOSTAS ALGONQUIN, Abril 27.—(Por telegrafía sin hilos)—Ayer llegó a salvo a Chignik el avión almirante "Seattle," piloteado por el Mayor Frederick L. Martin, comandante del vuelo americano de circunnavegación. Esta hazaña es uno de los episodios más brillantes de la historia de la aviación, pues el Mayor Martin y su mecánico Alva Harvey realizaron este último vuelo en medio de una tormenta de nieve que los cegaba, y con un vendabal que sopiaba a cuarenta millas por hora y azotaba la superficie del mar, formando olas que daban contra la cabeza del frágil pájaro de acero, y muchas veces estuvieron a punto de tragárselo. Los atrevidos viajeros, no sólo lograron mantener su aparato a flote, sino tomar el aire en las circunstancias más difíciles y arriesgadas que darse puedan.

El Mayor Martin salió de la bahía de Katanac el sábado a las 2:35 p.m., tiempo de la costa del Pacífico, en medio de una de las peores tempestades primaverales del sudeste de Alaska. Después de trazar tres círculos por sobre la bahía para empinarse, desapareció finalmente por el sur, con un huracán que pronto alcanzó enormes proporciones, y que azotaba los ojos de los aviadores con duras partículas de nieve. Ha sido el vuelo más atrevido que he visto en los años que llevo de observar este peligroso medio de trasporte; pero en todo momento tuvieron los aviadores perfecto gobierno de su motor y el barco aéreo se manejó bien.

Misterioso Salto Mortal

Ayer temprano, en tanto que centenares de gentes pasaban por la acera, Felix Budassewski, de 40 años de edad, y con domicilio en la calle Alta Vista Sur, 303, saltó desde el techo del edificio Betwiller, de trece pisos de altura, y cayó sobre el pavimento, matándose instantáneamente.

Cuando dio contra el suelo de la calle, no quedó del infeliz sino una masa desfigurada y sin vida. Allí permaneció algun rato, rodeado de una multitud de curiosos, hasta que llegó una ambulancia que llevó el cuerpo a la Casa de Socorro.

Ni los empleados del edificio Betwiller, ni los parientes de la víctima pudieron dar mucha luz sobre las causas del suicidio. Roy Bentley, que se hallaba en el décimotercer piso, esperando que abrieran una de las oficinas, dijo al Teniente Detective Stevens, de la brigada de homicidios, que vio salir del ascensor al suicida en el piso superior y subir al techo por la escalera. Allí permaneció unos momentos, y volvio luego al piso trece. El declarante no le vio subir de nuevo a la techumbre.

La señora W. J. Bruley, hija del desesperado, no había visto a su padre desde hacía varios días, y no sabe por qué razon se quitaría la vida. Tampoco la señora B. Membinski, hermana de la víctima.

PLAN TO PACIFY JAPAN OFFERED

American Group Proposes Two Alternatives

Small Quota or Conference Asked in Message

Would Patch Quarrel Over Exclusion Act

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Declaring the recent Congressional action upon Japanese immigration has "quite unnecessarily imperiled" the friendly relations between the United States and Japan, the national committee on American-Japanese relations tonight suggested two alternative proposals for exclusion provisions in the immigration measure now in conference.

The committee in letters to members of Congress suggested the regulation of Japanese labor immigration "by the provisions of the proposed general law in which case the Japanese quota in any year could not exceed 146," or to "empower the President and Secretary of State into conferences with the Japanese government for the prolongation of the Gentlemen's Agreement in some acceptable form, or for its revocation in accordance with the usual forms of ordinary politeness in international intercourse."

The officers of the committee are: George Wickersham, chairman; Hamilton Holt, vice-chairman; Edwin G. Merrill, treasurer; Sidney L. Gulick, executive secretary; Dr. Charles H. Levermore, winner of the Bok prize, and Lindley V. Gordon, secretaries.

JAPANESE CHIEFS CONFER ON PROBLEM

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

TOKIO, April 27.—Premier Kiyoura and Foreign Minister Matsui conferred today on the question of American immigration. The Foreign Minister then submitted to the Prince Regent an exhaustive report on the Japanese-American situation.

The Koseikai party in the House of Peers discussed the Japanese exclusion measure, advocating a calm, dignified national attitude.

The military affairs bureau of the War Office also discussed the situation. The result of this conference was not disclosed, but high military authorities declared it was folly to think the situation called for military action or even preparation for it.

The American community at Kyoto cabled President Coolidge an appeal against the exclusion law.

MANY PROTEST

A score of meetings on the subject were held in Tokio yesterday, the most important those of the Japan Lawyers' Association and the Imperial Foreign Affairs Association, both of which adopted resolutions of protest.

The Yomiuri, the only Tokio journal commenting today on President Coolidge's supposed intention to try to compromise the Japanese exclusion matter, stated that while it was not confident the President would succeed in this, the doubt "does not alter in the least the fact that Japan always will be grateful to the President and the fair-minded majority of the American people who have sought and still are seeking for a solution considerate of Japanese prestige and sentiment."

The Hochi warns against attempting to meet American racial discrimination by stirring up racial feeling in Asia.

The Yorozu, a jingo organ, cites statistics showing that the density of the population of Japan is fifteen-fold greater than that of America. The paper denounces American "selfishness" in keeping a vast area for whites. It adds that "Americans must do something to show respect for the laws of nature."

JAPAN IS DEAF TO PRESIDENT'S PROPOSAL

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, April 27. — President Coolidge's suggestion of another disarmament conference fell on deaf ears in Japan, which is significant evidence of the changed attitude of the Nipponese toward America since Congress passed the Japanese exclusion provisions of the immigration bill.

While the proposal embodied in the House naval appropriation bill had brought instantaneous response from Japanese newspapers and government officials, before the Exclusion Act was passed, the words of the President failed to strike a responsive chord in either editorial or official circles here today.

AWAIT LINE-UP

Foreign Office officials say that while the exclusion clause will not alter Japanese international policies, the government has not discussed the question of further disarmament conferences. Meanwhile the officials are awaiting word of the Italian and French attitude.

It is pointed out that Italy and France objected to the conference of the application of the 5-5-3 ratio for auxiliary ships and it is believed that the Japanese government will take a similar stand now.

There seems to be a possibility of a new alignment of the powers should another disarmament conference assemble and the passage of the exclusion clause seems certain to result in the alienation of Japanese support of American proposals which marked the former conference.

BLOCK IN PATH

Undoubtedly a united French, Italian and Japanese front would greatly complicate matters and embarrass American efforts to lead the way to further disarmament. The Japanese people hardly will respond to the suggestion of President Coolidge until the immigration issue is settled and should the exclusion clause prevail, indications are for no more than half-hearted support, and possibly public opposition to Japan's participating, even should the government agree.

Agitation against the exclusion measure continues unabated. Public meetings throughout the empire are urging President Coolidge to veto the bill.

NEW YORK'S BIGGEST BABY

Did you read about the twenty-two-pound baby born recently in New York City? Every woman on earth would be interested in this baby—walk blocks to see it. It's a girl, Rosa. When she came into the world she was twenty-six inches tall, nearly sixteen inches around the chest. A delightful baby, healthy, cooing, gurgling. The mother is 46 years of age. She already had borne ten children. In all, eleven. Almost a marvel, that figure, in our generation. There'd be just as big average families now, if parents had the money. High cost of living is the real reason for race suicide.—[Exchange.

Substitutes in future eastern collegiate basketball games will be required to play according to a rule adopted by the Joint Rules Committee. It reads: "A substitute who has reported for play will not be required to actually participate in play." Heretofore a substitute could report and bring about a two-minute time out for his team and then not be inserted into the line-up.

POLLOCK MEETS BACON'S DOUBLE

Sam Allen Calls on "Lightnin'" Star

Sam Allen and Percy Pollock

A REMINDER of the cherished dream that Frank Bacon had hoped to fulfill, of returning to his native California to appear in his famous characterization of Lightnin' Bill Jones in "Lightnin'," was the meeting at the stage door of the Biltmore Theater yesterday of Sam Allen, old-time variety and legitimate actor, at present working in pictures, and Percy Pollock, who is playing the leading role in "Lightnin'."

For years Allen, who is 63 years of age, has been known as Frank Bacon's double; in fact, the close resemblance between the two players has many times been noted and remarked upon by friends of both. But it was not until Bacon was appearing in "Lightnin'" in Chicago one year ago last August that Allen wrote the famous creator of Lightnin' Bill and received in reply a letter in which Bacon remarked that he had heard how closely they resembled each other, and that he was looking forward to reaching the Coast; that his one greatest wish was to walk down Broadway in Los Angeles with his counterpart.

But fate decreed that Bacon should never see this wish realized. The twain were never to see their doubles in the flesh. But Allen, carrying out his part of the plan, called on Bacon's successor and lifelong friend, Percy Pollock, at the Biltmore Theater, to whom he showed Bacon's letter, which is one of Allen's most treasured possessions.

After the two players had swapped reminiscences of stage life, Pollock suggested that Allen don the Grand Army uniform which he wears in the third act of "Lightnin'," while he would put on Lightnin' Bill's first-act clothes. They did this and were photographed just outside the stage door, and already Uncle Sam is rushing one of the prints east to John Golden, the producer of "Lightnin'," accompanied by a note from Pollock to the effect that if ever Golden contemplates filming this famous stage success, that Sam Allen is his man to play Lightnin' Bill Jones.

FRUIT CROP OUTLOOK IS SUMMED UP

General Situation in San Joaquin Valley is Given by Commissioner

HANFORD, April 27.—Fruit prospects for Kings county, in the center of the San Joaquin Valley, are thus summarized by County Horticultural Commissioner L. O. Haupt:

There is a fair outlook for apricots, despite the frosts of March 9 and 11, the present forecast being 60 to 70 per cent of normal yield, with the crop coming in the latter part of June. The crop is estimated at 25,000 tons, about the amount harvested last year, when there was a heavier yield, but much of the crop was not harvested owing to low prices. Last year the local canneries did not operate on apricots and the crop harvested was all dried. The canneries have made a big clean-up on cots and this year there will probably be a large local pack of apricots. Peach prospects are good, though frost did damage in some localities. Prunes are expected to be a light crop, following the very heavy crop of last year. The plum crop will be larger this year than last, due to increased acreage. Of grapes it is too early to estimate, but the possible frost period is nearly over and an estimate will soon be made of the coming crop.

Thieves Leave Crib Open, Cows Die, Overeating

LOVELAND (Colo.) April 27.—If the thieves hadn't neglected to shut the granary door, H. D. Herman, a farmer living two miles south of here, would not have minded so much. But they didn't and, Herman believes, misfortune allotted him more than his share.

Herman was robbed of a truckload of grain. Eight cows, all that Herman owned, entered the granary when the thieves left the door open at their hurried departure. The cattle ate so much that all died but one, and there is little hope for this animal. This is the third time Herman's granary has been robbed in the past three months.

BURBANK CITIZENS TO DEMAND SCHOOLHOUSE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, April 27.—Backed by the newly organized West Burbank Improvement Association and headed by President J. F. Crockett, every resident of the far-western section of the city is expected to descend upon the Board of Education at its meeting Monday night and demand the erection of a school house of sufficient capacity to accommodate the present school population of 250. The request will be for a structure of sufficient size to provide for the future growth that seems assured by the rapidity with which new houses are being erected. The School Board owns property on Scott Road, and in the opinion of the residents of the community this site would be satisfactory as the location for the proposed school building.

Appropriate Name

A western lawyer succeeded in securing a national park for his section and a Congressional committee went out to see the park formally opened. To the chairman of this delegation came some graceful citizens, explaining that they wished to honor their champion by naming some prominent landmark for him.

"What shall it be," they asked, "a peak, lake or canyon?"

"Your legal friend nearly drowned us with oratory," grunted the chairman. "Make it a geyser."

NEW SCHOOL HOPES HINGE ON BOND VOTE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SAN FERNANDO, April 27.—Upon the success of the proposed Los Angeles school bond issue depends Pacoima's plea for a new eight-room school building. Sylmar's hope for a new eight-room structure rests upon the same foundation. Both of these estimates are in the hands of the Board of Education and have the approval of that body. The request of the high school was for a cafeteria building. The Morningside School demands another eight-room structure, the grammar school requests a shop structure and a six-room school house. The O'Melveney School calls for twelve additional rooms. All of this new work is said to be required to accommodate the rapidly increasing school population.

HOME PLANNING WILL BE TAUGHT IN SCHOOL

PORTERVILLE, April 27.—Patrons of Porterville Union High School will be offered a week's course in home planning during Better Homes Week, May 5-10. The course is being arranged by Prof. F. F. Latta, head of the department of community mechanics. The course is planned to afford people of the community the opportunity to acquire practical help in home planning and building, in which Prof. Latta has had years of experience. The tentative program includes a morning session consisting of a lecture and motion pictures, while the afternoon session will be at the bungalow near the high school which is being constructed by pupils of the school under direction of Mr. Latta. Lectures and demonstrations will cover various phases of home constructions, including carpentry, plumbing, sanitation, concrete and brick work and electrical installations.

FISH MONOPOLY CHARGE DENIED

Hoover Brands as "Absurd" Published Reports

Says It is Covert Effort to Defeat Legislation

Commerce Department Held Help for Industry

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—A renewal of charges made a year ago that the Commerce Department had permitted valuable fishing rights in Alaska to fall into the hands of a monopoly tonight brought from Secretary Hoover a formal statement outlining the department's interest in the question and declaring published attacks were being made in an effort to defeat pending legislation for "saving the industry."

"The suggestion that the Department of Commerce has aided or fostered any special interest or any monpoly in fishing in Alaskan waters is absurd," Secretary Hoover said.

NO NEW COMPANY

"As a matter of fact, there is not operating today a single company which was not operating when the department for the first time obtained partial control over these waters two seasons ago, and there is not today a single cannery which is not operating on a lower scale as to number of fish taken or packed than at the time when the administration by the department began."

A bill to restrain destruction and exploitation of the fisheries was approved unanimously by both the Democratic and Republican members of a House committee after exhaustive investigation of the whole subject, Mr. Hoover said. The bill was passed by the House practically without a dissenting vote he said, and is now before the Senate.

"It is natural enough," Mr. Hoover said, "for the people who find that they must make some sacrifice for the public good to use every measure and device to defeat this attempt at real conservation on behalf of the American people. The department necessarily has incurred the bitter opposition to certain groups of canners and certain groups of fishermen and their representatives, who perhaps naturally object to any restraints on their exploitation. They are about to meet their defeat in the wholehearted action of Congress.

"The sole remaining great salmon fisheries are in Alaska and their control is under the Federal government. Unless their exploitation is restrained and at once, the American people will be deprived of their last supply of salmon."

WALL-STREET BANKS HELP FINANCE HEARST

BONDS TO BE OFFERED IN SUM OF $12,000,000 TOMORROW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 27.—Following upon the recent consolidation of a number of William R. Hearst's newspapers and magazine enterprises into the Hearst Publications, Inc., Wall-street bankers, together with the Anglo-London-Paris Company, will offer for public subscription on Tuesday $12,000,000 of the company's first mortgage and collateral trust 6½ per cent bonds. The securities, maturing over a twelve-year period, are priced at par.

Security for the issue is provided by capital stocks of companies publishing the San Francisco Examiner, San Francisco Call and Post, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Evening Herald, Oakland Post Enquirer and the Good Housekeeping, Cosmopolitan, Harper's Bazaar, Motor and Motor Boating magazines. Net earnings of these properties last year totaled $6,474,133.

Proceeds from the sale of bonds will be used for refunding purposes and for retirement of current liabilities and other corporate purposes.

DOUBTFUL MOTIVES

In the family that had moved next door to the Smiths was a boy about 7 years of age. The Smiths had a little girl, Virginia, just the same age. Everyone expected the two children to become playmates at once, but almost a week passed before the noticed each other. Then the boy came over to play with Virginia. Virginia, however, immediately went into the house.

"Why, what's the matter, Virginia?" her mother asked. "I thought you had been wanting to play with the new boy."

"Well, I did at first," Virginia admitted, "but I don't care so much about it now, at least not today."

"Why don't you want to play with him?" mother asked.

"Oh, mamma!" Virginia exclaimed. "He's had a whole week to come over here and has n't done it. Now I've got a nickel to spend for candy and I don't care whether he comes or not!"—[Kansas City Star.

GREAT JOB OF MOVING

Why marvel at the engineering skill and power displayed by the ancient Egyptians in moving the big stones for the pyramids? In Chicago the other day they moved a seven-story building, eighty-five feet, in widening a street. The building weighs 15,000,000 pounds. While the movers were transporting the big structure at the rate of four feet an hour, its elevators continued operating, and right. Yet house movers continue running water, telephone and electric service were maintained as usual. "Some job!" will be the average man's comment. And he's to break the misnus' most prized chinaware.—[Capper's Weekly.

No Need for It Now

Can you beat it? A widow of eight years' standing claimed the No. 9 overshoe that Milo Bitvers' pup swiped and brought home, and which we advertised last week. She would have walked off with the article too, had not our man up front proved obdurate and outtalked her. If the overshoe belonged to her dead husband, as she claimed, he doesn't need it now. He beat this paper out of four years' subscription before we went where he is.—Smith County (Kan.) Pioneer.

GOVERNOR SAYS ACTS "FOOLISH"

McCray of Indiana Admits He Signed Others' Names to Many Cattle Notes

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

INDIANAPOLIS, April 27.—Gov. McCray, on trial in Federal Court on charges of using the mails to defraud, testifying in his own behalf yesterday, admitted signing the names of other persons to cattle notes which he sold to banks, and said the reason was that he did not want his name, "the Governor of Indiana" on the books of the banks as a borrower.

The Governor said he realized he did some foolish things "and that was one of them."

Once, when McCray told Judge A. B. Anderson he "wanted a little time to explain" to the jury, Judge Anderson interrupted with "you have no more right than any other witness."

U. S. Dist.-Atty. Homer Elliott, in announcing the close of the government's case, declared there had been introduced in evidence notes totaling about $999,000, all of them discounted by banks and practically all payable to McCray.

GERMANS FEARED AT OLD TRICK

Tourists to Italy Leave Flood of Renten Marks Which May Drop

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ROME, April 27.—"Beware the renten mark," financial experts here are warning Italian money changers, hotel men and others in contact with the inrush of German tourists who now number 100,000 in Italy and are spending more than 3,000,000 lire daily.

The Germans, now the pivot of the whole tourist trade, are swamping Americans, British and all the others put together.

The finance experts are timidly hinting that Germans mean that the renten mark shall play the role that the old paper mark was made to play when the milliards were bought abroad, their purchasers later finding them worthless. The renten mark is apparently following the same path. Some diplomats declare it is but another way of cheating the Allies out of reparations.

The Germans, so the theory runs, believing the Dawes report will result in their being obliged to pay to the best of their ability, are now plotting to spend as much as possible on themselves while the sun shines on Allied pourparlers and Premier Poincare's indecision. At first their peaceful invasion caused amusement, but now that it is ascertained they are bringing the renten mark anxiety replaces the former joy and smiling welcome.

Young Leeds to Cross Atlantic in Small Trawl

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, April 27.—William B. Leeds, the millionaire American youth who is related to the British royal family by his marriage to Princess Xenia of Greece, is out to get a new thrill.

Leeds, who, with his princess wife, less than a month ago, narrowly escaped death in a motorboat accident off the Georgia coast, has completed arrangements to sail a fishing smack from the Isle of Wight to New York.

Dembridge will be the starting point and the voiage will be made in a small tropical west-country trawling craft only sixty feet long.

SAYS CHURCH SUPPERS RUIN CAFE BUSINESS

PUEBLO (Colo.) April 27.—Church suppers and drug store lunch counters were the objects of an attack by Pueblo's restaurant proprietors. Representatives of sixteen leading restaurants signed a statement which declared that "the church supper means of raising money in the churches is in competition with established eating houses. Clubs and other institutions which serve their members and drug stores which attract the business man, by their light lunch menus, have caused business to diminish, the restaurant men assert.

RIVER DEVOURS HOUSES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OMAHA, April 27.—High water and swift current of the Missouri River this spring have cut away banks and bends of the river between Nebraska and South Dakota until several small farms, including houses and other farm buildings, have been swallowed up. One large house with the surrounding buildings located on the opposite side of the river, north of Newcastle disappeared and citizens reported that they saw a house in midstream passing down the river.

BANKERS FACE TRIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OMAHA, April 27.—Loyal B. Howey and Lee J. Dunn, former president and vice-president respectively of the City National Bank of Lincoln, indicted for asserted use of the bank's funds in financing the Nebraska Aircraft Corporation, will go to trial tomorrow in Lincoln, according to U. S. Atty Kinsler. Half a hundred witnesses have been summoned for the trial.

Which is more easily lost-- a pin or a crowbar?

Being a few reasons why small estates need Trust Services even more than large estates.

THE smaller a thing is, the easier to lose it. If your estate is small, careful conservation is of vital importance. Inadequate protection causes unnecessary losses and, as every drain is proportionately greater upon a small estate than upon a large, disaster often results.

To arrange for the utmost economy in the final disposition and care of property is therefore an imperative duty of every man or woman of moderate means. Such conservation can best be accomplished through a Trust Company.

The Trust Company specializes in the conservation of estates—small as well as large. Its experience prevents costly errors, cuts red tape and expedites settlements. Its knowledge gains every possible saving the law allows. The financial stability of a Trust Company assures absolute safety for property entrusted to it. Its substantial deposit with the State and constant supervision by the State banking department are ample guarantees of integrity.

The economies effected by a Trust Company often more than offset its total charges. These charges are so moderate, however, that no estate need lack such protection because of them. Administration fees, set by law, cannot exceed those allowed individuals. For acting as Trustee, the total annual charge is usually three-quarters of one per cent of the principal held.

Many small estates miss these advantages because of a rather widespread misconception that Trust services are not for those of moderate means. The fallacy of this notion is proved by the fact that the business of Trust Companies, like that of savings banks, is made up of many small trusts rather than a few large ones.

Whether your estate is large or small, officers of any institution named below will gladly outline for you how Trust services can be used to conserve it.

Fletcher Makes Offer of Compromise in Water War With San Diego

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, April 27.—A peaceful settlement of the legal war between the city of San Diego and the Fletcher interests, owners of the Cuyamaca Water Company, involving dam sites in the San Diego River, is seen in an offer by Col. Ed Fletcher to effect a compromise that will enable the city to start work on a dam in Mission Gorge this year.

The La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley irrigation district recently took an option on the Cuyamaca system which includes Cuyamaca Lake, and two dam sites in the San Diego River. City officials immediately questioned Fletcher's ownership of the sites which have been subject to much controversy for several years. When city employees were directed to do certain survey work in the river two weeks ago, Fletcher denied them admission to the disputed lands and announced he would place armed guards on the property. The City Attorney, upon orders from the Council, instituted legal proceedings to condemn the lands. This matter is now before the courts.

Col. Fletcher yesterday said that if the irrigation district does not purchase the Cuyamaca system, he would pledge his efforts to reach a compromise with the city that would terminate the legal war and permit the city to carry out its water development program in the San Diego River.

The State Railroad Commission has authorized Fletcher to purchase the interests of his former associates, James Murray and W. G. Henshaw, both deceased and to operate the Cuyamaca system.

AT COOLIDGE MEETING

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, April 27.—The supporters of Calvin Coolidge for President will meet Monday night at the Harvard-street High School Auditorium under the auspices of the Coolidge Club of Glendale, when W. E. "Conserve Your Vision"

JOHN MILTON WENT BLIND

"O loss of sight; of thee I most complain!
Blind among enemies, O worse than chains,
Dungeon, or beggary, or decrepit age!"

IN those three lines the poet Milton voiced the utter anguish of interminable dark. He knew how terrible the loss, for it was his.

As a boy Milton was weak-eyed, nervous, subject to chronic headaches. Defective vision was a chain that he dragged with him all the way to middle life. Then, taxed beyond endurance, his tired eyes wore out and he paid the bitter price of total blindness.

In Milton's day such a fate was probably inevitable. But now, with scientific means of conserving vision available to everyone—old or young, rich or poor—there is no excuse for neglected eyes.

Have your eyes examined at once, and protect them with properly fitted glasses if needed. Even more important, be sure your children are not starting life handicapped by faulty vision.

One of an educational series of advertisements sponsored by the LOS ANGELES COUNTY ASSOCIATION of OPTOMETRISTS

An OPTOMETRIST is an eyesight specialist, skilled in the precise measurement of the range and power of vision. Licensed under state law to practise this science, he is proven qualified to give you expert service in conserving your eyesight.

Ms. Hawkes had refused a compromise which was considerably less than the amount awarded by the jury. The case closed somewhat earlier than expected, the jury deliberating but a short time.

AIRPLANES MUST SOAR TO ESCAPE

New Long-Range Gun With 500 Shots a Minute Will Make Peril Greater

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 27.—Aviators will do well to fly high and the higher the better in the next war if any comes, if they want to escape Uncle Sam's newest arm, a 50-caliber machine gun firing 500 shots a minute, with a horizontal range of 27,000 feet and a perpendicular range of from 9000 to 12,000 feet.

At the Sixty-second Coast Artillery antiaircraft demonstrations at Fort Totten Saturday, it was shown the air is going to be untenable for bombing planes up to 10,000 feet and dangerous up to 30,000 feet.

Five planes flew over from Mitchel Field at an altitude of more than 10,000 feet, yet, according to those in charge of the demonstrations they were marks for the new gun.

Another gun demonstrated at Fort Totten was a three-inch weapon on a mobile mount, firing fifteen shots a minute, effective up to 21,000 feet and with a 360-deg. traverse, allowing the gunner to follow his target in any direction.

WINS WIFE BACK WITH ACQUITTAL

Kansas City Man is Freed of Embezzlement

At Once Remarries Woman Who Divorced Him

Coming to California for Fresh Start

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) April 27. When a jury in Judge W. H. McCamish's division of the Wyandotte county District Court acquitted Thomas R. Bearly of an embezzlement charge, it retrieved also for him his wife, who had divorced him a few months before.

The verdict acquitting Bearly, who is 21 years of age, came in at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Bearly immediately walked from Judge McCamish's courtroom to the probate court and obtained a license to remarry his former wife, Mrs. Maude Bearly, 21 years of age, 55 North Tenth street, Kansas City, Kan. Bearly now lives in Los Angeles, Cal. They were married by the Rev. F. L. Streeter of the Armourdale Baptist Church.

HONEYMOON ON COAST

After the marriage, Bearly, with his bride for the second time and their little daughter, Dorothy Bearly, 2 years of age, left on their honeymoon for California. They will make their home in Los Angeles, where Bearly has a position with a motor company.

Bearly had been confident of being freed of the charge, and had made plans for the marriage before the verdict was brought in. His wife had divorced him January 26, in Judge McCamish's court. Bearly asked the judge as to what procedure he would have to go through to again become the husband of Mrs. Bearly. There were two courses offered, the judge said, either remarry, or have the judgment of the divorce set aside with the consent of each party.

Judge McCamish recommended remarriage. There could be no trouble with the Kansas bigamy laws, for the statutes provided, the judge said, that neither person should marry any other person until six months had elapsed from the time the divorce was granted. It did not mean that they could not remarry, he said.

Bearly was charged with embezzling funds of the Procter and Gamble Manufacturing Company, Kansas City, Kan., where he was employed as an assistant cashier. He was accused of "padding" the pay rolls and embezzling about $4000. Ten different charges were filed against him. On two of these he has been tried and acquitted.

TO DISMISS CHARGES

Justus N. Baird, County Attorney, said the other eight charges would be dismissed, as the facts in all of the charges are about the same.

The crime of which Bearly was acquitted was asserted to have been committed April 18, 1923, exactly one year ago.

Mrs. Bearly filed the divorce suit October 29, 1923. She alleged cruelty and neglect. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stanley, said the embezzlement charges had nothing to do with the divorce. Mrs Bearly declined to talk.

Bearly had lived with his parents on a farm at Parker, Kan., before he came to Kansas City, Kan., Charles Miller, his attorney, said.

CANADIAN VILLAGE A BIT OF FRANCE

IN STE. JOVITE ENGLISH IS SPOKEN ONLY BY VISITORS

Somewhat less than one hundred miles from Monteral among the wide forests of the Laurentian Mountains, hides the village of Ste. Jovite. Unusual interesting this small town has but one generation of history. Thirty years ago good Pere Labelle pushed into a northern waste, and drawing after him many French Canadians from the section of Trois Rivieres, and other crowded districts of Canada, he founded the settlement of Ste. Jovite. His purpose in thus planting a colony in the wild and unexplored portion of the "King's Land" was to hold his people from flocking to the States—to make a place for them in which they could be self-supporting on their native soil.

Good Pere Labelle has gone to his reward, but the results of his honest and kindly efforts to be a help to his people remain to be seen in the humble but comfortable homes of this thriving little village. The Rue Principle, its one business street, separates at fair distances the Banque of Montreal, the church and its several stores. Also, there is the Salle Publique, the lumber mill, and a place where wool is carded. In this latter industry, after the wool has been prepared for spinning by primitive methods before one's eyes, it is then woven into cloth, much after the fashion of our great-grandmother's day, in the Ste. Jovitian homes. Side by side upon the platform of one of the stores were a modern washing machine and a spinning wheel. The spinning wheel evidently was as much in demand as a present commodity as the washing machine.

Throughout the length and breadth of this Leurentian village no English is spoken, with perhaps, the exception of the shops. The children, even, gaze at one round-eyed as an evident "foreigner," and to tempting enticements of sweetmeat, and painstaking efforts of conversation in schoolbook French they reply only by accepting the sweetmeat, which is the universal language of childhood.

CROSS ON MT. CALVAIRE

Back of the town rises abruptly a pyramidal-shaped hill. The people of Ste. Jovite call this hill Mt. Calvarie. Upon the summit of this pyramidal hill frowns a cross topped by a golden cock. Stark and ominous during the day this great cross spreads its arms over the far-reaching country. But, at times, by night, the cross becomes a cross of fire, aflame with many electric lights, burning into the hearts of this simple religious folk the story of the Christ.

In a small open plot near the church stands on a pedestal a large figure carved in granite representing Jesus, with arms raised, and hands extended in blessing, while circling His head is a halo of electric lights. This, indeed, seems a strange mingling of age-old symbols combined with modern utilities.

Two miles and a half or perhaps three miles from Ste. Jovite, on the rising banks of Lac Ouimet, ramble the many gables of Gray Rocks Inn. Years ago the present owner, F. H. Wheeler, with his wife, who had just graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music, entered the vast wilderness of the Laurentians. Never for any length of time have they left it since then. Here eight children have been born to them. One daughter, France, inherits the clear contralto voice of her mother, and the oldest son, Tom, loves the open as does his father, and knows the trackless paths of valley and mountain by heart. Beyon Lac Ouimet curve the gentle slopes of Mt. Trembiant, radiant in autumn maples' reds and yellows, while spired conifers mass in perpetual green softened by distance; cooled by passing clouds to shadowed depths, glowing in sunshine at each brim; shifting from mysterious shades to gold and crimson.

GUARDING AGAINST FIRE

Should one climb Trembiant to its top and then climb still higher thirty-five feet upward over the crude rungs of the observatory, facing the north he would see in the dim distance the buildings of the last white settlement that side of Hudson's Bay. It is, indeed, a land whose silences are seldom broken by the voice of man.

Each day the fire warden climbs from his half-way hut, midway up Trembiant to the top of the observatory, watching for fires that may ravage that wood country. Not so many years ago the entire region was razed by astating fire that swept unchecked, gathering to the great primeval forests, until the land lay charred and lifeless. But now a new growth to clothe the slopes of and once more it shines There only the hunter "King's Lands." ALE SOON TO RL'S TRAGEDY

Burial Tuesday for Victim of "Bohemia"

Come to See Body of Wanda Stopa

Who Took Own Life Leaves "Home" Alone

EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
CHICAGO, April 27. — Wanda who plumbed the depths of sin and despair in the last days of her twenty-three years of life and who destroyed a great and promising career when she swallowed poison in the Cadillac Hotel, Detroit, will be laid quietly from the modest home of her mother on Augusta street Tuesday afternoon. Because she took her own life, the Catholic Church will not permit services or burial from the church, so a simple ceremony will be held at the Stopa residence and there may be an auxiliary service at the cemetery.

There was something intensely pathetic in the homecoming of this beautiful Polish girl who loved unwisely but too well, who sank from reporter intelligence and talent to the tawdry pool of "Bohemia" and who discovered that the end of her own life led to ignoble surroundings.

SAD HOMECOMING

Her artist friends, real artists and the make-believe of the Greenwich Village variety, went with the body to accompany the body of the girl home, but for some reason they were not on the train. When the coffin containing the body of the girl came to Chicago a newspaper man's ticket. The somber gray casket in its white box, was tumbled to and fro and buffeted about among trunks and other baggage, damp and forlorn in a drizzling rain until newspaper men arranged to have it taken to the home of her parents. Such was the final homecoming of the girl who astonished and shocked by her brilliancy in law school and who, at about the time she was receiving the poison to her lips had been appointed an Assistant Attorney-General in the state courts.

MANY GO TO HOME

Although there were few callers at the Stopa home last night, the curiosity of neighbors refraining from intruding upon the mother and relatives of the girl, this consideration was swept aside today by a throng of visitors, a majority of whom were impelled by a desire to see the dead girl.

Despite the rain which fell throughout all day, the streets for blocks in all directions from the home were crowded with automobiles. Included in the scores who tried to gain entrance to the Stopa home were many genuine friends of the girl and her people, men of prominence in the business world who had taken pride in her remarkable achievements. There were many offers of assistance but the family rejected all and expressed a desire to be left alone with its dead.

POLYGAMIST APPEARS

"Count Vladislaw Glascoff," or "Count Snow," the Russian bigamist who married Wanda Stopa three months ago in Detroit, suddenly appeared in Chicago late last night. He did not report to the police, who are anxious to interview him, he talked with a reporter and expressed deep affection for the girl and bitter animosity for T. Kenley Smith, with whom she was infatuated, and with whom she was attempting to elope when she slew Henry Mandel, aged gardener, who stood between her and her intended victim.

Snow denies he was in Detroit or that he had any knowledge of her intentions, either to commit suicide or to take her own life. He denies threatening to kill the mother and brothers of Wanda, but they have asked that a police guard be maintained at the house until after the funeral.

TO VISUALIZE AUTO HOMICIDES TO JURY

Prosecutors to Use Toy Machines and Trolley Cars

Prepare for Trials of Death Drivers
Chief Trial Deputy Fitts, Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dennison.

HOMICIDE cases, growing out of automobile accidents, will be visualized for jurors during the trials, it was announced yesterday by Dist.-Atty. Keyes. This statement came following the assertion that hereafter, where a death results from an automobile accident and the driver is unquestionably intoxicated, the person will be charged with second-degree murder, instead of manslaughter. The latter decision, it was stated, was based upon the law which makes death resulting from commission of a felony—driving while intoxicated—second degree murder.

Mr. Keyes, Chief Trial Deputy Fitts and Deputy Dennison, head of the homicide department, evolved plans by which they hope to make jurors, as well as witnesses, see the accident just as it happened, so far as the placing of the cars are concerned. A number of toy automobiles were purchased, as well as toy street cars, trucks and trailers. Various sizes of toy cars, indicating the makes of the various cars, are to be used.

It was explained by Mr. Keyes that hereafter when an automobile death case is brought into court, the toy automobiles, street cars, or trucks, as the case may be, will be placed before the jury on a large board, indicating street crossing, street car tracks and curbings, in order, not only that the witnesses may more easily explain the accident but also that jurors may more readily understand.

The first case in which the toys are to be used to describe an automobile accident will be that of E. L. Brenot, accused of manslaughter for the death of Jack Blasengame, a passenger in the car of Brenot at the time. Blasengame was killed near Burbank on March 23 last. The case is set for trial in Judge Crail's court on May 13.

Other cases in which the toy cars are to be used to demonstrate are those of J. J. Kelly, who was indicted on a charge of murder as the result of a death in an automobile accident; J. W. Nichols and M. S. Rochelle. All of these cases are on the May calendar of the Superior Court.

The purpose of employing the toys, it was stated, is to expedite jury trials, and thereby to reduce, if possible, the large number of deaths due to automobile accidents.

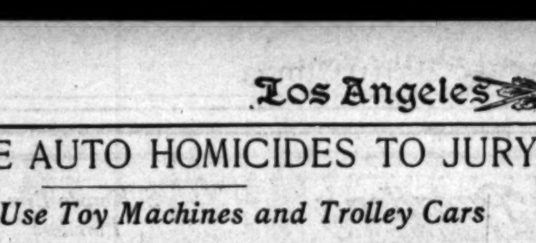
FIGHTING BLOOD

By H. C. WITWER



ROUND ELEVEN

When Gale and Hurricane Meet

Once upon a time there was a fellow which wrote slews of poetry and bounded around rejoicing in the tasty name of Jean La Fontaine. Among the many rare gems which rolled off the end of his busy pen was the following wise crack: "Nothing is so oppressive as a secret!"

Jean said it. The more us human beings is told to keep something quiet, the more we want to tell the world about it. You know yourself that the best way to put a secret in general circulation is to whisper it to somebody with the request, "Don't breathe a word of this to a soul!" The next day everybody but Little Red Riding Hood knows all about it and there's no use of you getting sore, because if it was a secret, why did you tell anybody in the first place?

Well, I am about to tell a secret which has been nestling in my manly bosom for quite a while. Me and Hurricane Ryan both swore we would never under no circumstances mention a word of this without the other's consent, but Hurricane has released me from my oath. Hurricane Ryan ain't heavyweight champion no more so he don't care, yet that night in Mr. Brock's garage—but I guess I better tell it all and be done with it!

After I stopped Jack Martin, I again found I had practically fought myself out of a job. The only boys left in the light-heavyweight division that I ain't already slapped for a goal is boloneys that don't know a straight left from the timekeeper. A bout between me and the entire lot of these babies wouldn't draw 62 cents to the box office if they was allowed to come in with bats in their hands, so the promoters lay off me. This tickles Judy, which is still crazy to see me get out of the game and settle down as a solid business man, but it burns me up, because what's the use of being a champion if you can't work at it? Instead of being worth a possible half million to me, my title don't mean nothing, on the account I get no chance to perform.

So I startle my playmates, the sport writers and even Nate, by quietly slipping over to the New York newspaper offices and challenging Hurrican Ryan, world's heavyweight champion, to a fracas with his crown at stake. As I hold the title in the light-heavyweight division, I figure a battle between two champions should draw like a poultice.

My challenge is printed in the morning papers and the evening editions comes out with Hurricane Ryan's answer through his pilot, Curley Oliver, who just laughs me off. He claims Hurricane Ryan is ready and willing to defend his title against a legitimate contender at all times, but he's got no desire to spank babies. The big stiff, Oliver calls attention to the fact that Hurricane Ryan is almost thirty pounds heavier and four inches taller than me and has a equally big advantage in every important measurement of a fighter. In fact, says this dizzy nutmeg, the difference in size between me and Hurricane Ryan is about like the one between Dempsey and Carpentier and he don't think the public wants to see a duplicate of that "fight." Of course, that was all applesauce. What made the heavyweight champion unpartial to climbing through the ropes with me was my record—thirty knockouts in thirty-four fights!

But the sport writers seem to side with Hurricane Ryan and with the exception of a few which like me personally, why, they refuse to take my challenge with a straight face. Even Nate and Kelly tells me to lay off Ryan.

"He's a little too big and burly for us, kid," says Nate. "And, another thing, Ryan is nobody's fool. I see him take Jim Lang a couple of months ago and you know how fast this Lang is and how he can sock. Well, in the third round, Ryan hit Lang on the jaw so hard he 'throwed Lang's knee out of joint!'"

"And Lang outweighed Ryan a good thirteen pounds!" chimes in Knockout Kelly. "If I was you, Gale, I'd forget about Hurricane Ryan, because in a scuffle with that baby the best you can look for is the worst of it, no foolin'! A champ is a chump to go out of his class into a heavier one for a fight. You know the old sayin', 'A good big man can always beat a good little man!' Outside of the time you and Frankie Jackson hit the mat together, you never been knocked cold in your life—why go out of your way to get kayoed?"

"Listen, you couple of crape hangers," I says. "I'm going to keep riding Hurricane Ryan till he agrees to battle me and if you think I'm kiding you're crazy! To hear you dumbells talk you'd think I was a pushover. You don't see none of 'em get up and laugh when I sock 'em, do you? Well, Ryan won't get up either. I seen him step a couple of times and I think he's a mark for a right hook—my right hook! After I smack him a couple of times him being bigger than me won't mean anything, because he'll be bent over to my size if not lower, and don't think he won't. Anyways, even if he knocks me kicking I'll still be light-heavyweight champ, because Ryan can't make the weight in that class. If I stop him I'll be world's heavyweight champion—I'll hold two titles, think of that!"

"Well," says Nate, "I think you're cuckoo myself, but I will say this much—when a Gale and a Hurricane meet there should be some battle whilst it lasts!"

There was all of that.

While I am waiting for this big blah Ryan to give me a tumble, I spent considerable hours stalling around Ajariah Stubb's drug store, as usual. To keep my brain limbered up for the time when I am going to startle the business world, I'm still dressing his windows and trying to arrange his stock in a attractive way for him. When I was back of his fountain I was always thinking up new drinks and giving them fancy names to attract the trade. The bozo he's got working for him now is just a dumbell which is simply interested in the fact that at 6 o'clock he gets off. He'll be a soda jerk all his life.

Anyways, one day I am back in the syrup room, pottering around with the different flavors and trying my hand at making a batch of chocolate syrup, a thing at which I was very fluent once upon a time, when a idea forces its way to the top of my head. I make up my mind I will invent a new drink.—some unalcoholic thirst-quencher which will sweep the nation like jazz did. I figure that right then when even its worst enemies was beginning to take Prohibition seriously, there would be a millions in a drink of some kind which would present the drinker with a mild kick without making him want to climb flagpoles and sing quartette by himself. A drink which would be relished by everybody in the family from baby to grandpop. Make it tasty, Volsteady, give it a catchy name, put it in a nobby bottle and sell it for, say, 10 cents the copy and then just sit back and watch the dimes roll in!

Judy, Knockout Kelly and Spence Brock, follow my experiments with the greatest of interest. They think I can do anything and that it's only a question of hours before I'll assemble a mixture of flavors into a fascinating drink which will make me as rich and famous as custard. But there's one jazzbo in Drew City which sneers at my efforts to lift myself out of the ruck and get somewheres. That's Rags Dempster. Rags pours sarcastical laughs on my attempts to invent a national drink and freely predicts a brilliant failure for me. Still I kept mixing and pouring and pouring and mixing. However, after eighty-five or 250 combinations of syrups fails to do anything more startling than make me and my friends deadly sick, I give up my experiments for the time being. For one thing, I have got to wait till me and my volunteer tasters recovers. But I wasn't through with this idea yet by any means. I was going to compose a drink which would make the country wild and make me the same as a millionaire or die in the attempt!

ITALIANS TAKE LEAD IN LEAGUE

Bank of Italy Trounces Merchants' National in Spectacular Game

Although outhit by a two-to-one margin, the Bank of Italy outfit defeated the Merchants' National nine, 6 to 4, Saturday at Maier Park and by the victory moved into first place in the Bankers' League. The scoring was limited to three innings, the Bank of Italy pushing across their six runs in the second and third, while the Merchants eased one in in the third and three more in a valiant attempt to overtake their opponents in the eighth.

Johnson, catcher for the winners, gave the bleacher bugs a treat by stealing his way around the bags for a tally, advancing each time under the nose of Pitcher Mairs, but making his base by excellent use of his pedal extremities.

Sagehens Are Submerged by Whittier Men

The ability of Shaffer and Ranzona to smash out home runs spelled ruin to Pomona College yesterday in a Conference baseball tussle with Whittier on the latter's diamond. Two runs in the second inning and three more in the fifth established a lead that the Sagehens could not overcome, although they pushed four across in the sixth. Jessup of the Quaker College had the Pomona batsmen clubbing the atmosphere all afternoon, fanning eleven ambitious athletes, and allowing only one base on balls.

California in Victory Over Federal Bank

The California Bank nine defeated the Federal Reserve team, 3 to 1, after a brilliant twirling duel between Moody and Falconer, who relieved Anderson in the first inning, with each allowing only five hits. The game was played Saturday at Harvard Military Academy.

Falconer weakened in the last two innings after holding the California Bankers without a run for seven frames. Federal Reserve scored first in the fifth when Falconer hit a home run for his team's only tally. The Californians bunched two hits with a pair of errors for two runs and the ball game in the eighth and added one more to their total in the ninth. Moody fanned ten men, while Falconer whiffed sixteen Californians. Moody walked Fierke and hit Reynolds, putting two on base with none out in the eighth, but by good pitching pitched his way out of the hole

Compton defeated the Bozzani Motors, 8 to 3, in a game played yesterday at Compton. The Bozzani team made nine errors, which accounts for its walloping.

Buckley, who pitched for Compton, blanked the Bozzani outfit until the eighth. He eased up in the final innings and allowed the Bozzani men to rap over three markers. Vail allowed the winners but nine hits, but was given wretched support by his mates. Myers, Campbell, and Kolstead all got two hits for Compton. Score:

TODAY IN COAST LEAGUE CIRCLES

1923—Pitchers suffered in the Sacramento-Vernon game, the Senators collecting seventeen hits off Baiger, Jaffe and Gilder, while the Tigers found Prough and Thompson for fourteen blows and won, 12 to 8.

1923—Protested by Manager Ivan Howard, Harry Krause of Oakland pulled an unusual stunt in the game against Salt Lake, giving the Bees a run. With the Bees needing two runs to tie and with Krause on first, Krause deliberately passed Paul Strand, forcing in a run, to get Joe Willock. Willock passed out and the game was over. Score 10 to 9.

1923—Lee King hit two home runs off Percy Jones of Los Angeles.

1923—Sacramento and Los Angeles staged a slugfest, the Senators nailing eighteen hits against sixteen for the Angels. Caudell, Gibson and Fitzgerald, Sacramento pitchers, permitted ten hits, while Pender, Lyons, Wallace and Douglas allowed twelve.

1921—Sacramento defeated Portland in nineteen innings, 4 to 3. Faith and Prough, Senators, pitched against Johnson, Kallio, Pillette and Sid Rose.

1921—Los Angeles made fifteen hits off Flaherty, O'Dea and Ludolph of San Francisco, winning, 10 to 3.

1921—Al White, second baseman, Jack Knight, first catcher, and Art Koehler, catcher, of Oakland executed a triple play against Vernon.

1920—Sacramento Senators pulled a purposely putting Hugh High, filling the bases, to get Al De Forest didn't work. De Forest tripled, clearing the bases, and enabled Vernon to defeat Salt Lake.

1920—While Karl Crandall, Los Angeles second baseman, was executing sharp chances, Tex McDonald, third catcher of the Seraphs, fell and broke his leg in two places.

1920—Jack Sutherland of Portland allowed San Francisco only three hits, but lost, 1 to 0, although his opponent permitted seven safeties. The lone run was scored in the ninth.

1917—Eddie Mayer, Oakland second baseman, executed twelve chances in game with Vernon.

1907—Pitcher Jay Hughes of San Francisco tore the ligaments of his arm while practicing and was forced out of the game for six weeks. Jay Hughes II., a first baseman, was with Portland briefly in 1923.

Takeo Harada, the latest Japanese tennis champion to visit this country, will study two or three years in Boston.

RECORD NUMBER IN BAY TRAP SHOOT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Three hundred seventy-seven blue rock shooters, said to be a world's record for a one-day trap shooting event, participated in the third annual handicap tournament at West Alameda today.

William Passalacqua of Healdsburg won the Chronicle trophy for the novice high gun. Passalacqua was high in the shoot-off after tying with F. O. Terry of Healdsburg.

The squad representing the Modesto Properties Duck Club won the duck club special. Individual duck club honors went to W. J. Silva of Modesto, who defeated Walter Cooley of El Cazadero Duck Club, in the shoot-off. Daniel E. Cutter broke forty-six blue rocks, winning juvenile honors.

Passalacqua and Terry each broke forty-six blue rocks out of fifty, and in the shoot-off Passalacqua broke fifteen out of twenty-five, one more than Terry shattered.

Sunset Field Has Three New Wells Under Way

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, April 27.—Seven new wells were started in Kern county last week, out of a total of thirty-eight for the entire State. Four of these are located in the Midway field and three in the Sunset.

The Pacific Oil Company has spudded in its No. 88 on Section 31, 31-24 in the Midway and its No. 1 on Section 1, 32-23 in the same field.

The Associated Oil Company has a crew of drillers at work on its No. 81 well in the Midway on Section 32, 31-23. In the same field only on Section 8, 31-23, the Naval Reserve Oil Company has started its No. 1 hole.

THREE NEW WELLS

The three new wells in the Sunset field are: General Petroleum Corporation No. 1-A, Section 35, 12-24; Martin Judge, Jr., No. 1, Section 32, 12-24; Plionene Oil Company, No. 2, Section 18, 11-23.

Tests for water shutoff numbered seven in Kern county for the week, five being in the Midway and one each in the Elk Hills and Sunset. The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company tested two wells, one being No. 18 on Section 25, 31-23, and the other being No. 57, Section 6, 32-23. The C. C. Spicer Company also reports a successful water shutoff in its No. 1 well, Section 6, 31-23.

TEST FOR SHUTOFF

The Pacific Oil Company has announced a test for water shutoff in its No. 85 well in the Midway on Section 5, 32-24 as has also the General Petroleum Corporation in the same field in its No. 8 well, Section 32, 31-24.

In the Elk Hills the Union Oil Company has tested its No. 6 well on Section 26, 30-24, while in the Sunset the Western Minerals has made a test in its No. 51 hole on Section 13, 11-23.

In the Kern River field the Associated Oil Company is repairing its No. 6 well on Section 31, 26-28 and the Junction Oil Company is carrying on similar work in its No. 5 on Section 9, 29-28. Repair work is also going on in the No. 69 well of the Pacific Oil Company on Section 7, 32-24 in the Midway.

Fifteen wells were completed in March with an initial daily production of 2975 barrels. One hundred and sixteen wells were on the active drilling list and forty-three new derricks were erected.

The production by fields for March in Central California was as follows:

Midway-Sunset, 3,016,701 barrels; Elk Hills, 1,189,088; Coalinga, 950,464; Kern River, 571,439; McKittrick, 179,156; Lost Hills-Belridge, 109,216; Wheeler Ridge, 28,734.

OPEN FOR INSPECTION

T. A. Piper Says Pump is Being Put in His No. 1 Well

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, April 27.—T. A. Piper's No. 1 well, about five miles north of Poso Creek, on the Granite Road, is now open to public inspection. The pump is being installed, and the owner and his superintendent state that the oil is in the sump and from the well is there for all to see and inspect. The well is on Section 11, 27-28.

Piper reports that well No. 2 is in the second oil-bearing stratum at 1170 feet. This well is a short distance north of No. 1. On Section 15, well No. 4 is ready to drop the drill for spudding-in, and well No. 5 has its derrick up.

Wells No. 3 on Section 11 and No 5 on Section 14 are drilling rapidly. Oil from the Piper No. 1 well tests 24.8 deg. gravity and contains only .5 of 2 per cent of sulphur.

GREEN CANANEA MINE TO USE DAWSON COKE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) April 27.—Greene Cananea operations south of the line hereafter will absorb sixty cars of Dawson coke a month, in addition to the crude oil now used in smelting operations. From this it is inferred that the battery of blast furnaces will be kept in operation, in addition to the reverberatories.

UNITED EASTERN IN REPORT ON EARNINGS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KINGMAN (Ariz.) April 27.—According to an official report, United Eastern last year had a net income of $1,269,825 and a gross income of $2,085,074, recovery from the ore averaging $18.60 a ton. In all, there was milling of 104,800 tons of raw ore.

FACTORY TURNS OUT ORE MILL NECESSITY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 27.—A local foundry has started upon a new Arizona industry, the manufacture of balls for ore-crushing mills. A ready market has been found with the purchasing agents of the large mines. The balls are two and three inches in diameter and are shipped in carload quantities to the mining companies.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Tips are politely requested to submit samples carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying, stating what tests are desired. Minimum of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analysis with each or every of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for instance, with no "works of identification on samples, will hereafter receive no attention. Analyses are made free of charge.

Nickel Present

LONE PINE, April 11.—Question: I am going to bore into your laboratorial work with a shipment of a product (subtitle, we will call it arsenical ore)—for your determination and study. I know that the yellowish-white samples are not alum, niter, borax or salt; for instance: Take a piece of it and put it in your mouth and you will think of forty puckering springs. If arsenic you will imagine it is 25 per cent mineral salt. The vein matter is sugar quartz with streaks or seams up to six inches wide of the tasteful stuff. We have your communication of last year on arsenic stating that there is no known process for milling and saving the arsenic, but since this—away out in Nevada—a company has worked it out whereby the owners are milling the ore for arsenical values.

Answer: And, it is well to repeat the statement made a year ago; there is no method, process, or patent that will yield a profit on arsenical ores—such as yours—which average less than 1 per cent arsenopyrite to the tone ore.

The writer has quite an interest in the arsenopyrite of Nevada. It carries from 38 to 43 per cent arsenic with 14.50 per cent sulphur.

Your yellowish-white specimens are mixtures of copiapite and "copperas," both being iron sulphates.

The massive chunk of ore carries a very low percentage of sulphides, and among the sulphides those of iron, nickel, arsenopyrite, zinc sulphide, (blende) cobalt and lead were found in practically (all of the named sulphides) traces only.

Lead Carbonate

DESERT, April 11.—Q.: Just a line and another sample to report progress: The two pieces of rock are from a ledge which is no longer a stringer; it is now from ten to fourteen inches at ten-foot depth and appears to be making bigger, and while I have the galenite and zinc sulphide in the west end of the drift, the sample is from the center and east end. Fire assays show but two-tenths ounces gold with five ounces silver. Does this show any improvement? Thanking you as ever.

B.

A.: The samples show that you are now in a ledge of burnt up stuff carrying a little zinc and lead carbonate. The probabilities are that with a little more work you should expect to mine a higher grade Cerussite (lead carbonate.) Further than this, as you well know, it is not proper to make statements on the ledge without a "squint" at it.

PLATINUM ABSENT

PARKER (Ariz.) April 12.—Q.: I am sending under separate cover a piece of ore. When horning, right in the concentrates, there are cubes of white metal, and this does not hang with the gold, but is right in, and on top of the brown concentrates. Would appreciate your opinion.

E.

A.: The sample is a mixture of lime carbonate, manganese, iron, magnesium and aluminum silicate. Present in the mass there are traces of magnetite, flake ilmenite (titaniferous iron) and flake hematite micaceous iron. There are but mighty few "cubes" in the rock. Copper and lead traces. Carefully tested for platinum with negative results.

Ores from Mexico

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—Q.: Under separate cover find two samples of rock; kindly classify them and advise me through The Times if either of them represent ores of commercial value. The specimens come from the district of Ures, Sonora, Mexico. I think you very much in advance.

S.

A.: The samples appear to be crusher-rock of one-half inch sizes. No. 1 is a mixture of calcite, quartz, copper, zinc, arsenic and iron; as sulphides. This sample is probably base-metal ore (Fahlers.) It was not tested for silver or gold, however. No. 2 is on the order of No. 1, but it is, probably, very much higher-grade ore, and should be assayed for gold and silver.

Six Samples

LUCERNE VALLEY, April 14. Q.: I am sending you samples of ore from this locality. Please inform me what they are and if of commercial value. Further state if there is any evidence of Tellurium in samples 4, 5, and 6.

S.

A.: There is not a trace of tellurium in any sample: Sample No. 1 is a golden-yellowish quartz: when pure it is known at Citrine, and used for low-grade gemstone. No. 2 is an impure low-grade chip of quartz taken from near the surface and it shows one crystal of micaceous iron (hematite) with one microscopic pyrite—cube. No. 3 is quartz stained with hematite, and flaky, micaceous micaceous iron present. No. 4 is a quartzitic conglomerate, in part gneiss (soft granite of the mining boys in the hills.) No. 5 quartzitic rock; free gold absent. No. 6 is of burnt-up feldspathic rock, carrying iron, manganese, pyroxene, and a little hornblende. The quartz reacts for traces of arsenic which probably accounts for tellurium being suspected as present.

Platinum Absent

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Q.: Test for platinum.

J. G.

Four Samples

SILVER LAKE, April 16.—Q.: I am sending you four samples and shall be very much pleased to have you inform me what minerals they contain. The samples are from Death Valley.

N.

A.: Sample No. 1—in tobacco sack. This is a chip of wad (bog manganese) with more or less iron present. Nos. 2 and 3 are low-grade hematite (iron peroxide;) cinnabar absent. No. 4 is sodium chloride, crystallized (common table salt;) potash in low percentage.

Five Samples

SILVER LAKE, April 17.—Q.: I am sending to you five samples of mineral matter. Please state what they are and what they contain. These specimens are just as found in the ground.

B.

A.: The samples are rather odd ones. No. 1 is on the order of No. 3, and No. 2 is a mixture of the entire conglomeration. No. 3 consists of a lot of dough-like stuff in a glass "tumbler," and it is a mixture of aluminum silicate, with soft magnesium silicate, mica, some soda, and polishes iron brightly. There is quite a per cent of lime carbonate in the mixture, with sulphate traces. Nos. 4 and 5 are in glass containers, and are practically on the order of the other specimens, excepting that No. 5 carries more or less fuller's earth.

Altered Serpentine

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Q.: Please give analysis on sample; also commercial value, if any.

M. R. M.

A.: The sample carries a coating of very impure talcose matter.

Wollastonite

LAWS, April 17.—Q.: Please classify sample.

SUBSCRIBER.

A.: Wollastomite—chemically—is a pyroxene with a lime base. When pure it consists of silica 51.50 per cent. Lime 45.45. Magnesia 0.55, and water 2 per cent. The sample is of white color and composed of prismatic and laminar masses. The specimen was decomposed entirely, after ignition, by hydrochloric acid, from which solution gelatinous silica separated.

SUNSET TO SEE MORE ACTIVITY

Prospecting Permits Are Asked in Area

Wells Expected to be Put Down Soon

Most Now Centering on Two Deep Test Holes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
MARICOPA, April 27.—Increased activity in this vicinity is forecast by applications for oil and gas prospecting permits, applications for which have lately been registered in the United States Land Office. More than half the applications which were located on property lying to the southwest of Maricopa, in township 11, range 23 west. Many of the permits were in Sections 24 and 18.

The area is known to oil men of the district as Sunset. The General Petroleum has outlined plans for drilling several wells drilled on Section 13, 11-23 but which have found oil sand.

With the completion of the deep test now drilling and more particularly R. G. Lewis No. 7, which has already picked up the sand at a depth of 4600 feet, there will be a number of new wells started, it is said. Lewis's No. 6 well, located in the upper portion of the section of No. 7, is drilling ahead after being tied up for some time with a fishing job.

Edens Called Backed to Well at El Segundo

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
EL SEGUNDO, April 27.—With R. W. Edens called back hurriedly from Kern county, where he has been for several days, considerable speculation has been aroused here as to what has taken place in the Fortuna Oil Company's wildcat well in the southwest section of this city. Mr. Edens is due here tonight.

Conflicting reports have been coming from the well—some good and some discouraging. Friday the drillers were reported to have encountered a change in the formation and the showings at the well were said to have improved greatly. Saturday the drill was kept rotating to keep up circulation, but no attempt was made to drill ahead. At the well it was reported that further drilling was being held up pending the arrival of Mr. Edens. The hole is now down slightly below 4500 feet and as yet no casing has been set, except surface casing at 600 feet.

The Pan-American Petroleum Company is reported to be boring ahead at about 3750 feet in its wildcat hole north of the city. Since the cement was drilled out no attempt has been made to make a hole in this well, and so far the program has been to core ahead a few feet and then ream out. Last week about twenty-five feet of cores were taken and every core is reported to have cut oil.

East and West Join in Lease in Kern County

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
BAKERSFIELD, April 27.—Eastern and western interests in oil development have recently been united in the consummation of the lease on a section of land in Kern county for $50,000. Peter M. Cauly of Erie, Pa., is the eastern party in the deal, while the West is represented by the Marland Oil Company.

The land involved is described as being all of Section 16, 28-27, comprising 640 acres. It is stipulated that drilling must start four months from the date of the lease, which was April 7. The instrument covering the transaction was filed in the Hall of Records, April 25.

One-ninth royalty will be paid for oil and gas production.

The lease covers a period of two years.

CAMPBELL AGAIN HEAD OF CALUMET

Old Officers Re-elected by Bisbee Copper Company in Annual Meeting

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
BISBEE (Ariz.) April 27.—Calumet and Arizona has had its annual meeting at Warren, a Bisbee suburb, and has re-elected its directors and officers, headed by Gordon R. Campbell of Calumet, Mich. Similar action was taken in regard to the company's subsidiary, the New Cornelia, for which was ordered resumption of the usual quarterly 25-cent dividend.

Calumet and Arizona, during March, had hardly one-half production at the smelter, where alterations were in process on the dust chambers, though the mine production was estimated as representing 3,250,000 pounds of copper, or about the usual output.

The company for the past two years has been reaching out toward acquisition of other property, in addition to its control of the New Cornelia, it has a valuable producing mine in Southwestern New Mexico and has a controlling interest in the very promising Verde Central property at Jerome. During the past year it gave up a bond on the Tiro mine, west of Tucson.

Calumet and Arizona is reported to be planning taking over the Bagdad copper property, west of Hillside and northwest of Phoenix. In that district is an enormous acreage of copper ore, understood to be both carbonate and sulphide. There is suggestion that possibly a leaching plant, similar to that of the New Cornelia, would be established on the new property, as well as a concentrating mill, for handling about 20,000,000 tons of low-grade ore said to have been developed already by drilling. A railroad would have to be built, either from Hillside or Seligman. The property lately was visited by General Manager J. C. Greenway and several of the company's mining experts.

Drill Work in Taft Section Is to Start Soon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
TAFT, April 27.—The Eight Oil Company has made a lease and drilling contract on a group of government prospecting permits comprising 1070 acres lying in Townships 31 and 31, Range 22, northwest of here, entirely beyond the limits of the present Midway fields.

The work is to be done under the direction of Cy Bell, contractor. At the present time, the property survey is going ahead, although the exact site of the first well has not been determined.

Permits have been granted to Z. L. Phelps, Franklin C. Grimes, U. S. Smith, Walter Sailing, E. L. Phelps, Mrs. Z. L. Phelps and Mrs. G. Gannon. All except Grimes are residents of Bakersfield. Grimes is a geologist, who has recommended the work.

The land involved in the lease includes the following tracts besides certain other pieces: In Township 31, Section 7; Section 18, less six acres; all of Section 19; northeast quarter of Section 30; south half of Section 29; North half of Section 32; all of Section 31; northwest quarter of Section 30; south half and northwest quarter of Section 32. In Township 32: 299.47 acres in lots 3 and 4; all of Section 2, less forty acres; all of Section 3; all of Sections 10, 11, 14 and 15.

The land is undeveloped, but samples of oil have been obtained from seepages on Sections 19 and 20 in 31-22 and Sections 2 and 3, 32-22.

The Eight Oil Company's deal with the permittees calls for the "checkerboarding" of the land, so that when any part is proved the company will be entitled to half with the privilege of purchasing the rights of the permittees on the other half.

CASE IS FISHED OUT

Work on La Mirada Well to be Resumed Soon

Officials of the Petroleum Producing Company reported yesterday that the drillers have recovered all but eighty feet of the string of 4300 feet of six-and-one-quarter-inch case which recently was dropped in the hole of its No. 1 well at La Mirada, east of Santa Fe Springs.

The hole is down 5905 feet. As soon as the remainder of the old pipe is cut out of the hole the company will resume setting casing at 4950 feet. It is said to have located thirty to thirty-five feet of productive sand at the bottom of the hole.

SEARCH FOR OIL IN IOWA AREA ON AGAIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
DES MOINES, April 27.—Search for oil in the vicinity of Adair, Iowa, again is on. An Oklahoma geologist is examining ground lying within a fifty-mile radius of the town. Two years ago a company of Walnut (Iowa) business men formed a drilling syndicate, purchased a $25,000 rig, set up an eighty-foot derrick and stopped work. Money stringency caused them to abandon the plan and the rig was sold last spring. The Standard Oil Company holds several leases.

MANY MARICOPA WELLS NOW DUE

Formations Indicate Flowers North of Flats

United Oil's No. 1 Cemented and Ready to Flow

Calitroleum No. 3 Finishes Double Fishing Job

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
MARICOPA, April 27.—With five wells on the extension of the Maricopa Flat east of this city on the verge of coming in, interest is again centering on that territory. Of these, the United Oil Company's No. 1 on the northwest corner of Section 10, 11-23, a diagonal offset to the corner of the Transport forty acres that claims the Bush No. 1 well, appears now in the lead as a potential producer.

This well was cemented with the eight and one-quarter-inch string at 4299 feet, and has been drilling into the formation over the point where the sands are supposed to be, with the result that gas has been encountered in sufficient quantities to make it difficult to enter the hole with tools. Experience of completed wells near by indicates that the oil sands are not far below this level, and may be tapped at any time.

PACIFIC NO. 11 TO TEST

The Pacific Oil Company's No. 11 well on Section 3, just north of the United well, is standing cemented at about 4300 feet, and will drill out the plug for a water test during the next few days. These wells are only 400 feet apart and the race between them for the sands has been a close one, they having started within a few days of each other. Formation checks on them indicate about an 18 per cent incline toward the south, which makes the depth and structures in these wells approximate closely those of the Transport-Bush well, which came in at 3934 feet.

The Calitroleum No. 3 well has been in the oil sand for nearly two months, but has had a succession of fishing jobs that has held back completion. Just now it is finishing a double fishing job, first losing a swab and string of tools, which was followed by another string while fishing. This trouble has about been overcome and as soon as the casing is run back into the well it should be quickly completed.

LEWIS NO. 7 CAPPED

Work is again to be resumed on the E. G. Lewis No. 7 in the center of Section 19, 11-23. This well is down 4804 feet, and has been capped awaiting arrangements for going deeper. And here is a case of drilling contract "hard luck" which is out of the ordinary. The contract called for a test hole 4500 feet deep, all oil sands discovered to be tested out by the contractor.

The hole was cemented with the eight and one-quarter-inch string at 4688 feet, and the formation is of such a nature that the rest of the depth could be easily made by drilling ahead. Cores were taken from time to time and at 4796 feet a core showed strong indications of oil when examined. The hole was run ahead to 4804 feet, and declared by the contractor to be completed. He dismantled his rig and offered to turn the job over to the Lewis interests, but they insisted that a test of the 4796-foot sand be made, which necessitates the contractors running in a six-inch string of pipe.

ROTARY RIGGED UP

A rotary has been rigged up in readiness to resume work as soon as the casing is on the ground. Formation checks on the hole and distance from other wells show favorably for the sand to be tested is the same as that which overlies the big producing sand in the other wells in that part of the Maricopa Flat.

Pay Signs Show in Athens No. 1 at Great Depth

A core taken at a depth of 4958 feet disclosed shale and streaks of oil sand in the Athens No. 1 well of the Union Oil Company of California, located at Figueroa and One Hundred and twenty-fifth streets in the Rosecrans district. Mud and water flowing for several hours indicated a strong gas pressure in the well. The showing is regarded as being of great importance because the well is in unproven territory several miles from any producing well.

Athens No 1 is the old Potter No. 1, which the Union took over after the Potter suspended operations at 4520 feet. Up to that time the hole had shown no oil indications. After drilling to 4938 feet without encouragement, the Union picked up a showing of oil by coring.

The well was cemented with the eight and one-quarter inch casing at that depth. Water broke in after the crew had bailed down 2000 feet. It was decided to core on down before recementing, and from the strong gas showing yesterday company officials think that something worth-while can be expected below where the eight and a quarter inch casing was set at 4938 feet.

Athens No. 1 is located a mile and a quarter northwest of the Rosecrans No. 1, which encountered a prolific oil sand at 3936 feet and is regarded as the discovery project of the field. The Athens well indicates that the Rosecrans field may be one of the most extensive structures in the Los Angeles basin.

NEW CORNELIA CUTS CARBONATE OUTPUT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
AJO (Ariz.) April 27.—Treatment of carbonate ores in the leaching plant of the New Cornelia Copper Company has been cut 50 per cent, this due to the low price of copper and, possibly, to a desire to continue operation of the plant for a longer period than would have been possible had full production been maintained. Most of the output hereafter will be from the new five-section mill, which has capacity for reduction of about 5000 tons of sulphides a day.

NEW HOLES IN RIDEOUT AREA SOON

Leases Between Heights and Santa Fe Springs to be Developed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
RIDEOUT HEIGHTS, April 27. Leases which lie between this district and the Oakridge Oil Company holdings near Santa Fe Springs have been taken by various producing companies and are to be drilled within the next ninety days, it is asserted. A land owner, whose ranch lies within the section bounded by Workman Mill Road on the east, Telegraph Road on the south and the Rideout field on the north states that the Standard Oil Company has 600 acres under lease in that area and that a well is to be drilled there within the next sixty days.

The Montjo-Johnson interests have announced that a second well is to be started soon on the Crabtree lease. The first well started by them was spudded in on the Clarke-Horine lease a few days ago. The Crabtree lease is adjacent to the acreage held by Allan & Hewsom.

The Taylor Syndicate which has taken the McClure lease has been able to side track the drill stem that was lost in the hole and will start at 3400 feet to drill the hole to the 4200-foot level. This well originally was drilled 3400 feet by the Argonaut Oil Company several years ago.

The Mohawk Oil Company has moved machinery to the Denny lease and will spud in Denny No. 1 within a few days. The McKeon Drilling Company is rigging the Strong No. 2 well to deepen. This hole is down 3400 feet.

Phenomenal time has been made in the drilling of the Petroleum Midway wells on the James O'Donnell leases here. The Pellisier No. 1 well is drilling in hard sand at 2206 feet; the No. 1 on the Rideout-Hamburg lease is down 2200 feet, and the Seward-Rideout No. 1 is down to 2000 feet and is fishing for a lost tool. The Whittle-Vining well is drilling in hard sand at 1140 feet.

The Pan-American Petroleum Company has rigged the Jessup No. 1 and it was spudded in last Tuesday. This well, which is the first to be drilled in this section by the Pan-American of recent years is the object of much interest. Every detail has been cared for in the arrangement of the buildings and equipment. The permanancy of construction amazes drillers who are accustomed to temporary equipment.

The Standard Oil Company has drilled the Patten No. 1 2600 feet and is drilling in hard sand, while the Home No. 21 well which has been drilled 700 feet deep is drilling in sand and shale.

EASY MONEY RATE DRAWS NEW ISSUES

Much Financing Expected Before Vacations Dampen Investors' Demands

[BY A. P. LIGHT WIRE]
NEW YORK, April 27.—Current easiness of money rates reflected in increased strength and activity in the bond market last week accelerated a series of new issues. Signs multiplied that a substantial volume of new financing would be brought into the market before the arrival of the vacation period could dull the edge of investment demand.

Prospects for an increase in offerings were improved by a succession of favorable developments, foremost of which was the steady progress made in putting the Dawes plan into operation.

With J. P. Morgan conferring with representatives of the allied governments on the terms of the $200,000,000 German loan, it was indicated that this international financial operation might be undertaken sooner than had been expected.

Assurances of the widespread banking support it will receive were seen in the establishment by an American banking syndicate of a $5,000,000 credit for Dr. Hjalmar Schacht's gold rediscount bank. The initial advance which may be extended as requirements demand marks the first participation of American capital in Germany's rehabilitation and provides Germany with credit facilities until the financial provisions of the Dawes plan can be put into operation.

An abundance of money available at low rates, and indications that the Federal reserve rediscount rate would be lowered, were additional reasons advanced for the expected resumption of large scale financing.

The easiness of money was reflected most clearly last week in the action of United States government obligations which attained new high levels for the year as banking funds were diverted into this section of the market.

Rosecrans Hole Showing Water on Seventh Test

The Rosecrans No. 1 of the Union Oil Company, at Athens-on-the-Hill, swabbed wet again yesterday when given a test for water shut-off, by the field department of the company. This is the seventh time the well has shown water after being cemented off at the top of what officials regard as an oil-producing formation.

Although Union Oil Company officials have made no public statement in this regard, it is reported among operators in that district that the Rosecrans defies efforts to shut off water for the reason that it contains a flow of artesian water at a depth around 2000 feet. Other operators drilling in that district are said to be looking out for this vein of water and are planning to cement off as soon as they locate it with the drill.

According to reports the Rosecrans No. 1 will be cemented off today for the eighth time.

BIG ADVANCE IN CRUDE EXPORTS

Rotary Rigs to Speed Up Work at Santa Paula

The O'Donnell-Gillette interests are installing a rotary rig at their first test hole at the west end of the South Mountain field across the Santa Clara River, just south of Santa Paula. This field, the premier one of Ventura county, opened in 1917, has been almost exclusively developed with cable tools.

Drilling is slow, as it has been carried on, it sometimes requiring eight months to complete a well to 3500 feet, the deepest production on the east end. Some of the wells, which have plenty of gas to flow the oil, almost pay for themselves from the oil produced by the time they are placed on regular production, generally about sixty days after the main formation is encountered.

NEW WELL STARTING IN VENTURA COUNTY

The Henderson Union Oil Company is starting another well on its lease about twelve miles northwest of Santa Paula in Ventura county, to the north of a line from the Pan-American Petroleum Company's production at the head of Santa Paula Canyon and the Ojai field out from Ventura. Mr. Henderson, who is in the furniture business here, drilled the Palmer well in Cat Canyon in 1909 and continues his interest in petroleum.

Finance Your Business

We will gladly discuss your financing problems with you free of charge and offer you valuable guidance and the strong co-operation of this entire organization. Our rich experience qualifies us to render a valuable service to those needing financing.

Cunningham, our chief advertising counselor, that able financing advertising specialist of far-flung fame, gives his exclusive services to this organization.

LET US TAKE THE RISK

We're going to make it easy for you to seek full financing by our plan, or know the reason why, and we don't intend that you shall risk a dollar in proving our ability to please you, with truthful capital seeking sales literature.

If you still seek capital to put your proposition on a prosperous basis, you should make us prove that we know our business, and that we excel in our particular line of work.

This offer proves our confidence in our supreme ability to satisfy you. If we fail to win your approval with the most truthful and powerful presentation of your offering possible for you to imagine—then we lose, and have our work for nothing.

This daring offer shows our wonderful confidence in our ability to write your proposition in a manner to win your entire satisfaction—otherwise you don't pay us a dime.

Our liberal offer requires only that you send us a draft for $100, as your good faith deposit fee, with data outlining your proposition, and request us to hurry for your approval the masterful prospectus and sales letters necessary for your capital seeking campaign.

With your deposit fee, send us a letter, promising to remit us the $400 balance for our service, PROVIDING you accept and O. K. everything submitted for your approval—making a total of $500 which you pay us for our offer No. 1, explained on our pink order form.

There will be nothing further for you to pay us after remitting the $400 balance.

If our writing fails to satisfy you, and win your approval, you return it, requesting the refund of your $100 payment—in which case, of course, you do not remit anything further.

Now, honestly, isn't that as fair and square an offer as any honest man can make another?

We don't feel that we stand any chance to lose, because of the fact that our long experience and extreme ability qualifies us to forcefully set forth the outstanding merit points of your proposition in such an appealing manner as to amaze and delight you.

Without paying the balance due us you would not receive our continued co-operation, and our sincere efforts in your behalf, which we give to fully paid clients until the end of their capital raising campaign. Neither would you receive the 5000 names of prospective investors upon envelopes, or any or the printing and service, until you have paid the total $500.

We MUST positively refund your $100 upon request if our work fails to measure up to the high standard that you have a right to expect.

Remember, if FOUR THOUSAND NINE HUNDRED AND FIFTY out of every FIVE THOUSAND people who receive your complete literature refuse to invest in your proposition, you might still raise your first $10,000 by our plan, even if but FIFTY out of 5000 prospective investors should send you $200 each, and then, would it not be easy to keep right on reaching more people with more sales literature until you are fully financed?

You will never have a more fair offer, even if you live to be as old as Methuselah.

You Might Fail

Don't even for a moment get it into your head that we are infallible, or that every proposition we handle does fully finance by our plan.

There is no plan known which is infallible and which succeeds in every instance. We are going to be so fair and square with you that you cannot afford to be anything but fair and square with us. We don't want business badly enough to misrepresent or by word or inference cause anyone to believe that they are positively certain of gigantic success and full financing by this Plan or any other method.

When we can't do business honestly, we'll quit.

For years this plan has been in operation and the continued growth of our business, proves that we keep Going and Growing. The substantial increase in our business could scarcely be possible were it not for the fact that pleased customers are kind enough to recommend our plan to others and admit their satisfaction with the co-operation we endeavor to give in this work, in which we are said to excel.

Nothing Is Certain But Death and Taxes

Others have used this plan of reaching an army of investors and WON. Reference letters expressing their thanks for our workmanship and efforts are on file in this office and copies of them have been sent broadcast to prospective clients.

Still we repeat, you might fail. Others have. We will explain later on why some companies fail to fully finance by this or any other method and at the very start we put this message in your hands with the hope that it will hold you back; kill your desire to use our service and discourage and frighten you from attempting to finance by this plan if you expect Absolute, Certain Success.

Our reason for offering this discouragement and telling you of the possibilities of failure by this plan is because we don't want weak-kneed, spineless customers to attempt this method.

We would rather you would keep your money and try every other method, than to have you send us your order, unless we can have your full confidence and know that you are willing to take a chance with this method as others have done who have met with success.

Again we repeat, there is nothing certain about our plan. You risk your money when you try this method the same as you would when you send out an advertisement through newspapers, magazines, circulars, or letters to people throughout the country. You gamble every time you try advertising in any form. Some newspaper advertisements pull big replies while others fail. Some circulars we send out for our own company fail to attract interest. Others bring us large results.

We gamble every time we put a letter in the mail. So do you. We gamble and take a risk every time we try a new advertisement. So do you.

But you are not gambling nearly so much by trying this plan of ours, which others admit has been remarkably successful, as you would by trying out some unknown method which was wholly an experiment and which has not been tested by others.

Why Some Men Fail

There are various reasons why some companies who are operating our Plan fail to obtain the full amount they seek.

Sometimes we write powerful literature for a company, send it for approval and some so-called "Smart Alec" in the office—some clerk or would-be advertising writer—juggles with it. He butchers it all to pieces, takes out the punch and power and convincing arguments. He robs it of all the facts pertaining to the extreme merit points of the proposition. He puts in a lot of what he considers as "Smart Alec phraseology," to satisfy his vanity, in the hope of being able to say it was His writing that brought results. Then he puts that literature in the mail. Following that with his penny wise and pound foolishness, he uses one-cent postage instead of sealing his letters and sending them first class. Then he sits back and wonders why he didn't get tens of thousands of dollars.

We started this message warning you that you might fail. We repeat right here, again, that you might fail by our plan or any other method. So, therefore, at least you must admit that we are honest and that we are not attempting to make you believe that we are infallible. We would rather have your success even greater than we could anticipate and have you as a pleased customer, and we would rather have you greatly surprised with results by first talking to you discouragingly, than we would to talk to you encouragingly and have your results fall far below your expectations.

We want your confidence. We deserve it. But remember, Action is the only thing that will get you anywhere and don't forget while hesitating, that Newton GOT BUSY when he saw the apple fall.

In the vital matter of financing, you cannot afford to experiment with unproved methods. If you want the most of the best for the least, come to the old reliable Bennett organization.

Again we repeat, Yes, You Might Fail. Call and see us.

DRILLING FOR DEPTH SANDS

Myers Stratum at 6000 Feet Sought at Santa Fe

Producers Believe Untapped Wealth to be Found

Associated Brings in Well of 1200 Barrels

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA FE SPRINGS, April 27.—A search of the deep zone underlying the Meyer sand is to be made by several companies operating in this field, it is reported. Large sums of money are to be expended here in an effort to locate the producing sand which is believed to lie at a depth of about 6000 feet.

It is understood that the Shell Company intends to carry the Slusher No. 6 well, which has been drilled to 5300 feet, down in search of deeper sand. It has long been the impression among several large operators that a producing sand of large capacity might be found at a greater depth than any yet explored. Until this time no deep tests of the actual producing area of the field have been made.

The Standard Oil Company drilled the Brownrigg-Keller well past 7000 feet, but it was located on the eastern edge of the producing pool, while its deep tests on the Houghton lease was located at the southwestern edge. Other wells drilled to great depths have been located outside the confines of the real producing area of the field and away from the area which has been dominated by the three sands known as the Flex, Bell and Meyer.

GREEN NO. 3 LARGEST

Associated Oil Company has just placed on production its Green No. 3, which made an initial flow of 1200 barrels. The hole was drilled 4050 feet deep and the oil tested in the neighborhood of 32 deg. gravity. This is the largest well placed on production in this territory for several months and is producing from the bottom of the Bell sand.

The Standard Oil Company placed on production five wells of small production during the past week. The two wells, located on the South Whittier Community lease, were the No. 13 and the No. 16. The first made 130 barrels from the 4600-foot level, while the No. 16 well pumped 150 barrels the first day. This well was drilled 4648 feet deep. The Johnson No. 2 well was drilled 4750 feet deep and made a flow of more than 100 barrels from that depth.

Two other wells placed on production by the Standard Oil Company were the Koontz No. 6 and the Watson No. 1. The Koontz was drilled 4670 feet deep and the flow for the first day was 160 barrels. The Watson No. 1 made about 130 barrels, from the 4600-foot zone.

Five more wells are to be drilled by the Standard Oil Company in this field. These include the Santa Gertrude No. 10, Orr No. 4, O. A. Houghton No. 2, Jordan No. 5 and W. L. Houghton No. 3.

Two wells are to be started on the Bell lease by the Union Oil Company, one to be known as the Bell No. 27. The Bell lease has been the most productive lease in the possession of that concern.

Interest has been revived in the western section of the field where the Burbank Oil Company has again started work on its test well. The Oakridge Oil Company has recemented the Rossi No. 1 well for the fifth time. The three wells being drilled by this company in that section are progressing nicely. The Gage No. 1 is down to 3650 feet and is drilling in hard sand, the K-B No. 1 well is fishing at 3430 feet and the Ogden No. 1 is rigging.

Drilling activities in the vicinity of Bellflower, which is located to the south and east of Santa Fe Springs, have been given added impetus by the recent action of the Superior Oil Company which has pulled the four-inch casing in the old Calpetro No. 1 and will redrill the hole. The No. 2 well which was taken over is now down 4200 feet and the resumption of work on the No. 1 is indicative, it is believed, of the discovery of oil showings. Oil was found at 3770 feet and cores taken since that time have encouraged the drillers.

BUYS MORAN LEASES

The Petroleum Products Company's well No. 1, which is being drilled in the La Mirada district, has halted work while a fishing job is being completed. The well is down 5005 feet and will be cleared soon, it is believed. The Scientific Oil Company has drilled its test well 4200 feet deep and it is cemented at 3890 feet and will be drilled out soon.

The cement will shortly be drilled out of the Artesia Oil Company's No. 1 which is being drilled on the Benson lease. The well is down 5240 feet and the casing is set at 4810 feet. The showings so far have not been exceptionally encouraging.

Leases in the vicinity of Bellflower have been purchased by the Canadian Wonder Oil Company, a Richfield concern, from R. B. Moran. The Standard Oil Company is reported to have paid $500 an acre for several tracts.

Union to Begin New Operations in Old District

A new well will be started next week in one of the oldest petroleum-producing section of the State when the Union Oil Company spuds in its Snyder No. 1 in the South Mountain field near Santa Paula.

Although South Mountain is a comparatively new district, oil was found in Sespe Canyon, Torrey Canyon and Sulphur Mountain fields nearly fifty years ago.

The Snyder hole is to be located a mile and one-quarter south of Santa Paula. It is a quarter of a mile from the Crane lease of the Union, which already has three producing wells. The land is owned by the Union. Drilling is necessitated by wells of the Oakridge Oil Company on neighboring tracts. The Union has not drilled a well in that territory since 1922.

Oil is encountered there at from 2000 to 4000 feet. Several 2000-barrel wells have been secured in the South Mountain field.

Union to Drill Five New Wells Near Rosecrans

Official announcement of five new well locations for the Rosecrans district was made Saturday by Frank F. Hill, manager of field operations for the Union Oil Company.

The new wells which the Union will drill are the Chandler, Zins, Paddlefield, Hursey and Gray. They are located across Harbor Boulevard, east of the Rosecrans No. 1 well.

Drilling on the new wells will be under way during May. With them the Rosecrans area will take its place as one of the most active developing fields in the State.

The Rosecrans well is again struggling with water trouble. The seventh cement job was drilled out yesterday and swabbing will be done today. Chances for a shut-off are considered good.

Power Line Is Completed to Superior Mine

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) April 27.—A new power line has been completed to the North Butte mine near Superior, where electric power, developed at Roosevlt is to be used in sinking a main shaft below the 1000-foot level. The North Butte has been capitalized by wealthy Michigan interests, which have an extensive plan for development.

An electric device for detection of the presence of underground mineral is being used on the ground of the Queen Creek Copper Company by Hans Lumberg, Elony Husberg and Erick Yjherz of Stockholm, Sweden. The machine is one lately patented in Sweden and is said to have the approval of the Sdewish government. The presence of a mineral ledge is indicated by sound, understood to be caused by electric currents received through wires that are stretched from the surface of the ground to be tested.

Local Basin Completions in Week Twenty-two

Long Beach Has Seven, Santa Fe Springs Six

Promising Sands in Two of Dominguez Field

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The week just closed brought twenty-two new completions to the Los Angeles basin fields. Nine of these are claimed by Torrance, seven by Long Beach and six by Santa Fe Springs. The best well at Long Beach was a Shell Company completion rated at 2400 barrels. The Associated Oil Company topped the Santa Fé Springs list with a 1200-barrel producer.

The Dominguez field brought in no new wells, although several are near completion. It did, however, reach two important sands, one three-quarters of a mile to the east and another at 5470 feet, on the northwest corner of the structure. Athens failed to come through with the long-expected completion, Rosecrans No. 1 having swabbed wet yesterday for the seventh time.

DRY GAS ONLY

In the vicinity of Hyde Park the Standard Oil Company's Farrell 1, a wildcat hole, created considerable excitement with a gas and water blowout on Friday. Company officials report that the pressure consisted of dry gas, and that there has been no real oil showing down to the present depth of 4300 feet.

There are rumors of price advances from day to day, and it would not be surprising if an advance in crude were posted during the next few days. It seems unlikely, however, that gasoline prices will advance just now, because limited motoring since the spread of the foot-and-mouth disease has caused gasoline stocks to pile up considerably.

The new wells in the past week in Southern California fields were as follows:

Closed Wells at Huntington Being Revived

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 27. Quite a number of oil properties in this field which were shut down during the period of flush production last year are being revived. Among them is the Rhodes Oil Company lease, further development of which is being financed by the Pioneer Drilling Company, according to field reports. There are now only eighteen wells idle which are capable of producing.

The Petroleum Midway Company's Brown No. 1, which was completed last week is flowing 500 barrels of 25 per cent gravity oil from a depth of 3400 feet and is showing gain in production each day. This well proves up a great acreage east of Delaware avenue which had not been considered good.

SIGNAL HILL PRODUCTION UP SHARPLY

Six New Wells Brought in Add 5700 Barrels to Daily Output

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 27.—Saturday marked the close of one of the biggest weeks in the Signal Hill oil field in recent months. With six new wells on the list and the return to production of another, the field today is producing an additional 6200 barrels daily. Daily average production for the field is 172,000 barrels.

A feature of the week was the extension of the field's producing area an entire block to the west by the bringing in of the H. C. S. No. 1 by the Pacific Drilling Company. The well, located on Pacific avenue, north of Frankfort street, in the northwest extension, was completed at the 4651-foot level. It showed an initial daily flow of 400 barrels of good gravity oil.

The Black Diamond No. 1, which was off production for ten days, was returned on the pump with a yield of 500 barrels, making the well the biggest in the field, from a pumper production standpoint.

The big producer of the week was the Shell Company's Patton-Wilson No. 2, with an initial yield of 105 barrels an hour from the 4864-foot level. This well, at last reports, had settled down to a steady yield of 2400 barrels a day and is one of the best wells completed in the local field for many weeks.

The new wells, their depths and yields are as follows:

Shell Company's Patton-Wilson No. 2, completed at 4864 feet and yielding approximately 2400 barrels a day.

Shell Company's Cherry Hill No. 3, drilled 4420 feet and showing an initial yield of 1000 barrels.

Maurice-Knight-Son, M. K. S. No. 1, completed at 4705 feet and reported to be yielding 1300 barrels a day.

Black Diamond Oil Syndicate's Black Diamond No. 1, returned to production from the 5002-foot level and doing about 500 barrels a day on the pump.

H. C. S. Syndicate's H. C. S. No. 1, drilled 4651 feet and yielding 400 barrels a day when brought in.

Petroleum Midway Company's Rosenfield No. 2, drilled 5000 feet and completed as a 300-barrel well.

Painted Hills Oil Association's Merritt No. 1, completed at 4900 feet and yielding close to 300 barrels a day.

BUYS KERN LEASES

World Oil Company to Begin to Drill Before October

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, April 27.—The World Oil Company has leased for ten years from Jaloff and A. Miller in Kern county the south half of the southwest fourth, south thirty-eight acres of the northwest fourth of the southwest fourth and the northeast fourth of the southwest fourth and north two acres of the northwest fourth of the southwest fourth of Section 12, 11-9.

Drilling for a test well must begin by October 7. One-sixth royalty will be paid.

KAY MINE SHAFT IS NOW DOWN 980 FEET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 27.—At the Kay mine in Black Canyon district, north of this city, a new three-compartment shaft is being sunk at the rate of six feet a day. It is down about 950 feet and will be continued to 1200 feet of depth. It is bottomed in black Yavapai schist, very similar to that known in the Jerome district, though not yet in chalcopyrite. In other parts of the mine has been development of large ore bodies, which are to be tapped from the new workings. The mining work is of the highest character and the camp is equipped on modern lines.

MARKETS EYE STEEL STATUS

Gary's Statement Cause of Bear Demonstration

Slump in Coal Results in Poor Loading Mark

Exchange Makes New Highs on Short Covering

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 27.—With the markets rallying on short covering, a large share of interest in financial and business circles last week was devoted to the condition of the steel industry. Chairman Gary's remarks at the Steel Corporation's annual meeting were awaited eagerly and were made the occasion for a demonstration by the bear party.

Ispection of the full text of Mr. Gary's remarks failed, however, to reveal anything which could be considered pessimistic.

He admitted a recession in buying during the last six weeks, but said it was smaller than he would have expected. The inference was that he did not consider it surprising or disturbing.

At the same time he came out strongly against reducing prices.

Those who follow the corporation's affairs closely believe that the first quarterly earnings statement, which will be published on Tuesday, will be excellent.

They also maintain that the results of the current quarter will be very good. Under these circumstances they expect the directors' action on dividends to reflect confidence in the situation.

PRICES EASIER

Reports from the industry itself, meanwhile show that the reduction in activity has gone further. Production of steels is now at about 75 or 80 per cent of capacity with the larger companies maintaining a better rate than the average.

Prices continue on the easier basis recently reached and there has been no convincing evidence of a rallying tendency. Consumption, however, was said to be well maintained and the manufacturers pointed to the continued extraordinary volume of building construction and to the heavy demands for materials by the railroads.

Car loadings for the week ended the 12th inst., showed an increase over those in the previous week, but were still substantially below those in the corresponding week of last year.

The heavy slump in coal loadings again furnished the principal explanation of the decline. Loadings of merchandise and less than carload freight still exceeded those for the season in any previous year.

The first of the railroad earnings statements for March confirmed the theory that the month's results will be excellent. The returns for the first twenty roads to report showed the normal improvement over February and compared favorably with those of March last year when the class one roads earned 5.34 per cent on the Interstate Commerce Commission's valuation.

SLUMP IN COAL

The slump in coal mining drew forth considerable comment, both because of the effect on car loading and on coke and pig iron prices.

The large stocks of fuel which were accumulated against the possibility of a strike on the 1st inst. have demoralized the market and production has dropped to about 50 per cent of normal. With coal selling below the cost of production, however, some observers believed that the position was being readjusted.

Money was slightly cheaper, the call rate on the New York Stock Exchange dropping to 2½ per cent.

This money for short maturities was available at 4 1-4 per cent. The easing was attributed to large gold imports and the recession in industrial activity.

Several of the leading European exchange rates made new highs for the year under the impetus of short covering. This was considered to be due partly to the necessity of making settlements on May 1 contracts.

MORE SANDS AT DOMINGUEZ

Discoveries on Outskirts of Field Bear Out Belief it Will Become Great Producing Area

Events in the Dominguez field last week tended to confirm the early judgment of those who predicted that this field will be a worthy successor to Santa Fe Springs and Signal Hill. No new production has been brought in since the Union Oil Company's Callender No. 2 was completed with a 4000-barrel initial flow, but good oil sands have been found in two of the farthest-flung projects in the field.

Probably the most important development was the discovery of oil sand at 3872 feet in the Shell Company's Childs No. 1, three-quarters of a mile east of the Callender No. 1, the nearest producer. According to official reports the well is drilling ahead at about 3900 feet, and is still in the sand.

APEX NOT REACHED

This discovery at practically the same depth as the Callender and Reyes wells, three-quarters of a mile farther east, appears to indicate that none of the present drilling projects is on the apex of the structure, which according to the latest information probably lies about midway between the Childs and the Callender No. 1.

The persistence of the General Petroleum Corporation in continuing its Austin No. 1, in the northern part of the field after it had penetrated a mile into the earth without showings, was finally rewarded with the discovery of twenty feet of good oil sand at about 5425 feet, according to field reports.

After passing through this sand, the bit entered a heavy sticky shale which continued for about forty feet, when streaks of oil sand again appeared. The present depth of the well is about 5475 feet, according to the best available reports, and is still drilling. Officials of the company deny that the sand is sufficient to justify a production test, but admit that the outlook is improving, and that there is a good chance that a commercial well may be completed.

WILL BE RECORD

If the General Petroleum succeeds in putting the Austin No. 1 on production at such a depth it will be a world's record, it is asserted. The General Petroleum Corporation now owns the deepest producing well in the world, the Clock-McWhinney No. 1 in the Signal Hill field, which is 5972 feet deep. This well got a sand at 3200 feet, and produced from that depth, while the Austin's first showing was at 5424 feet.

Many operators doubt whether it will pay to produce from this great depth even if the Austin does find a productive sand. According to other oil men who have watched the progress of the Austin well closely, it will not cost much more to complete a well in this district at 5400 feet, than it cost to drill the average Santa Fe Springs well. It is pointed out, however, that the Santa Fe Springs wells had a much greater thickness of sand and consequently were far more productive than the Austin is likely to be.

Production in Dominguez during the past week averaged around 10,000 barrels per day, a third of this total flowing from the Union Oil Company's Callender No. 2. The Reyes No. 2, which was the first gaser in the field, will be some weeks in repairing damage which occurred when the well blew in, and from present indications there will be no new wells in the field for perhaps a month.

OIL SAND FOUND IN THREE AREAS

Wells Located in San Juan Basin

Hacker - Julian Discovery to Drill Deeper

Other Companies Active in New Mexico Field

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FARMINGTON (N. M.) April 27. A drill went into oil sand in three widely separated parts of the San Juan basin petroleum field during the past week.

The first find was in the Leidecker well, twenty-two miles north of Aztec, where a pumper was made. Owners, J. A. Leidecker of Denver, Colo., and C. C. Julian of Los Angeles, have decided to go deeper in search of bigger production. Further drilling is reported to have increased the amount of coming up in the hole, but not found sufficient force to drive the oil to the top of the ground.

The second well to find oil is known as the Bloomfield well, located twelve miles east of Farmington. It is being drilled by the Hall-Poole interests. The oil sands that have been brought in test 40 degrees gravity or over, and Hall well to bring in oil was No. 1 of the Midwest Refining Company, located nineteen miles east here.

Three wells were spudded in during the week. The first is located on Sec. 34, T. 29, R. 14, six miles northwest of Farmington and now being drilled by Jacobs Brothers. Another well was spudded in Saturday afternoon. The second is located on Sec. 17, T. 31, R. 13 W., and is located about fourteen miles southwest of here.

Two rigs have gone out to the Gallup Creek country and will be put to work as soon as they can be assembled at the well sites. The location is located about twenty miles south of Farmington and the drilling has yet been done in this section although it has been favorably looked upon by a number of capitalists who have scouted there. Two rigs are now either on the ground or on the way there. The Standard Petroleum Company has begun its first casing in its well two miles out of here and expects to start the drill again at once for the purpose of drilling in.

BOARD FOR LAW URGED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PIERRE, S. Dak., April 27.—Rev. H. L. Bare, State field secretary of the South Dakota Anti-Saloon League, has left his home to arrange for the enforcement and address citizens meetings in every county in South Dakota for the purpose of arousing the present disrespect for law and especially the prohibitory law.

FRANK WYMAN DIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—Frank Wyman, postmaster of St. Louis under President Roosevelt, died at his home, 5446 Cabanne avenue, today, following illness resulting from a stroke. He began his business career in 1867 and retired from active business in 1903.

TORRANCE OUTPUT GAINS

Nine New Producers Advance Daily Average Up to Nearly 60,000 Barrels

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TORRANCE, April 27.—Nine new producers, the last of which was brought in late yesterday, added 7500 barrels to the output of this field last week, and brought the total production up close to 60,000 barrels a day. The old Carson-street area brought in two of the nine wells, each making slightly better than 500 barrels; the southwest section completed three, and the eastern territory finished four.

With the drilling-campaign started a few days ago by the bigger operators, increasing steadily and covering the entire proven length of the field, now approximately six miles, it looks as though Torrance's present production will be sustained for some time. There are now sixty-five new wells under way.

Except for a few wells scattered through the older sections of the field, the bulk of the new ones are divided about evenly between the southwest area and the far-eastern territory. With the drilling program now being carried out, there will be an almost continuous line of derricks from the western edge of Redondo to Harbor Boulevard.

GAP CLOSING

The wells now going in on the east side are rapidly closing up the mile gap between the main body of producers along the Redondo Road on the east side of the field, and the Southland Petroleum Company's Oakley No. 1. There is a half-mile open strip between Oakley well and the Southland's Winship No. 1 and the Shell's Dolores No. 1, being drilled on the east side of Harbor Boulevard, which will be closed up if these wells prove the field runs that far east.

While the Empire Development Company's No. 1 well at the north edge of Wilmington and a half-mile south of Oakley No. 1, has shown plenty of oil it is not yet a producer. Water trouble developed after several attempts had been made to swab the well in. The baller was lost in the hole during the first production tests and it is feared that during the fishing operations the casing may have been damaged. One cement job failed to shut out the water, and a second is now being attempted.

SHELL TEST DELAYED

The Shell Company's test for a lower productive sand in its Kettler No. 2 on the east side of the field was delayed last week when the first cement job on the six and one-quarter-inch casing, set at 3936 feet, proved unsuccessful. The well has been recemented. The hole has been drilled to 3995 feet and bridged back to 3936 feet.

Oil sand and oil-bearing shale are said to have been encountered as deep as 3995 feet, and it is the hope of the oil operators that the oil formation will continue deeper and prove productive. It will be regarded as a second sand. A narrow water zone now separates the top productive area from the oil formation encountered at the lower level.

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company's Del Amo No. 12, offsetting the Standard's Ellinwood No. 1, is reported to look like a producer. Del Amo No. 13 and the Stardard well are the farthest west of the wells drilling in the southwest territory, being at present a little more than a mile west of production and a half-mile south of production. A water shutoff was obtained in Del Amo No. 12 around 3000 feet. It is now drilling slightly below 3100 feet in a formation carrying a good indication of oil. The Standard's well is being reamed for casing at 3080 feet.

The Standard's Weston No. 1, the farthest south of the drilling wells in the southwest territory and in a section thought to have been condemned by the Union's Weston No. 1, which was drilled to 5700 feet and abandoned, is now drilling at 2000 feet.

STANDARD DRILLING TEN

The Standard has thirty wells in the southwest part of the field, nine of which are on production, ten drilling and the others either being rigged up or in process of being built. Altogether the Standard has fifty-one wells in the field, and approximately 1500 acres under lease, 100 acres of which were recently acquired from the Sentinel interests on the far-east side of the field. This transaction came to light last week when the Standard started four rigs on this property, which is part of the Joughin holdings that were leased during the early development of the field and divided by the Superior and Sentinel companies.

Counting its new rigs, the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company within the past ten days has passed the 100-well mark. It has sixty-five wells on its Torrance lease, twenty-three on its Kettler lease, fourteen on the Del Amo property, two on the Dominguez estate lease and one drilling on the Francis lease. Preparations have been made to drill at least eighty-four wells on the Torrance lease, while the number to be drilled on the Del Amo lease, almost as large, being approximately 800 acres, has not yet been decided upon. The land held under lease by the company is in excess of 3000 acres.

RIGS TOTAL 500

The number of rigs in the Torrance field is now in excess of 500.

Developments north of Torrance are being watched closely. The Chanslor-Canfield Midway is the latest company to wildcat on the structure believed to be running parallel to the Torrance structure and about two and a half miles north of it. Surface casing has been set in Chanslor-Canfield's Francis No. 1 at 990 feet.

One well drilled by the Empire Oil Company is standing idle at about 4300 feet and a second one, being drilled by the same company about 500 feet north of the first well, is down about 2500 feet. These wells are a quarter of a mile north of the Chanslor-Canfield wildcat and just west of Western avenue.

Three-quarters of a mile due west of the Empire wells the Petroleum-Midway's Lewis No. 1 is reported to be nearing 5000 feet, with only a slight showing of oil.

WALL STREET IS CALM IN STORM

Little Attention Paid to Threatening Changes

Conditions of Last Year Repeated Now

Investigations Make Some Laugh, Tire Others

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 27.—Last autumn, it will be remembered there was a widespread feeling of irritation at the stock market for failing to perform its traditional functions of indicating the financial and industrial future. Events occurred which, from the Wall street viewpoint, ought to have been important potential influences. There was a change in the Presidency of the United States. The British and French governments, exchanged official notes which verged on hostility. Italy sent a menacing note to Greece. Complete collapse occurred in the German currency. Japan was devastated by an earthquake whose consequences foreshadowed immense demands on the world's accumulated capital. Yet the New York stock market swung idly back and forth, usually ending a week with prices where they had been at the week's beginning. The market seemed to ignore what was happening before its eyes.

CONDITIONS SIMILAR

Looking back at these events of last autumn, it is now possible to say that the stock market correctly appraised their prospective influence in refusing to move. Not one of the formidable consequences predicted from them has materialised; Wall street has forgotten that some of them ever happened. The present stock market has some resemblance to the apathetic market of September. A somewhat more restless professional contingent has been able to create an occasional appearance of downward or upward movement of prices, but the only net result even of this has been to show that both movements were hand-made and that the real financial public was not following either of them.

MARKETS STEADY

When the average of prices ended last week at practically the same figure as a month ago and at almost exactly the same figure as at the year's beginning, it can hardly be said that the stock market is predicting. Yet there have been as many events as there were last autumn. The proceedings at Washington have been spectacular; the Presidential campaign has entered its preliminary stage. The experts' report on German reparations has created a wholly new situation in the European controversy. The financial public would be even more interested than it was in September in learning the stock market's judgment as to the probable consequences. But no judgment seems to be expressed.

PUBLIC LAUGHING

It is one possible inference that the stock market's recent refusal to move impressively in either direction means, as it evidently meant last September, that financial judgment does not look for early and important consequences from any of these events. There is already ground for believing that the market's refusal to get disturbed over the investigation hysteria at Washington represented an accurate appraisal of that episode. Perhaps half of the public is laughing at the investigators now and the other half is tired of them. The highly important potentialities of a Presidential election are not disputed, but the stock market's attitude may be taken to mean that the political drift has as yet contained nothing alarming. As for the possible European settlement, the inference from the market's ruffled conduct may be that the good results even of a permanent readjustment are likely to be slow and perhaps, so far as they affect finance and industry, not spectacular.

A NONUNION BRICKLAYER

A mechanical bricklayer has been invented by a Scotchman. Very probably the device sprang full-grown from the heat of his indignation over the performance of the every-day sort of bricklayer. With a mortar tank, a hopper of brick, and a motor, the new machine is said to lay its course of brick, come back, break joints, and even skip the openings. The thing even "tops" each brick to settle it in the mortar.

In short, the machine is a very paragon in technique. Besides, it has amazing capacity for work. It makes much speed that three men have all they can do to keep it full of new bricks and fresh mortar. It is described as laying 1200 to 1500 bricks an hour, or 10,000 a day if it sticks to the ordinary bricklayer's day.—[Nation's Business.

Balancing the Prescription

A Scotsman, not feeling so well as usual, called at his family doctor, who looked him over and gave him some pills to be taken at bedtime. Whisky was also prescribed for his stomach's sake, a small glass after each meal.

Four days late Sandy again called on the doctor, stating he was feeling no better.

"Have you taken the medicine exactly as I instructed?" the doctor inquired.

"Weel, doctor," replied the patient, "I may be a wee bit behint wi' the pills, but I'm six weeks ahead wi' the whusky."—[Boston Post.

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS

A recently printed story about a stenographer who said she didn't care to work any longer for a boss who was so stupid as not to notice that she was dressed for the matinee, reminded us of an anecdote of Henry Irving and Jessie Millward. Miss Millward appeared at rehearsal one day in a new and dainty dress. Irving noticed it. "Very pretty frock—very pretty indeed," he said. "What is it for?"

"I'm going to join a luncheon party as soon as rehearsal is over," she answered proudly.

"Go at once, my dear; go at once," was the disconcerting reply. "Don't let the rehearsal detain you. But—tomorrow—come in your working clothes tomorrow—with your mind full of work."—[Boston Transcript.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

The firm stand of the California Fruit and Apricot Association in regard to prices on remaining fruit has given the market a firmer skin to stability. Few independent offerings at below prices levels are heard and there are cases of promiscuous price cutting locally. Stocks are generally light on the spot. Oregon prunes are in fair demand and prices are comparatively small. Prunes are around 6 2-4 cents.

Apricots are the most active line of dried fruits during the season has been reported. Both seeded and seedless apricots are in demand, and stocks of both are extremely light. Incoming shipments are not large enough to meet current requirements. Packages are in small compass and the demand is central to the supply. The shortage of apricots is believed to be acute. Stocks in distributing centers are being absorbed. Prices are considered high for the season but buyers are less inclined to buy what they need in small lots. Royals are most plentiful, with Moorparks and Blenheims practically out of the market.

PEACH DEMAND STEADY

There is a steady demand for peaches. Local holdings are not large. Prices are very scarce on the Coast. Currents are in fair demand.

Raisin trade continues to buy in small lots as requirements demand. Fancy peaches are closely cleaned up in standards and low-grades, and purchases are coming through second hands. Fancy pears and cherries are in good demand. Pineapples are moving in a satisfactory way.

Offerings in peas and corn are well recognized that the trade has been forced to resigned to high prices and even premiums on essential lots. Packers are holding light supplies in all grades. Fancy and standard corn continues scarce. There is a notable shortage of string and stringless beans while succotash, beets and okra are in more liberal supply. Prices are variable as to price. Some southern packs but the market is firmer. California fruit is better demand. Futures are less active.

SALMON ADVANCES

Canned miles of pink salmon for August at $1.25 are reported and advances are looked for July. Stocks on hand perhaps $60,000 cases and chums nearly cleaned up. Holders more than sufficient for the normal demand before the new pack. California continue scarce and in a fair demand.

Prices caused gains of 5 points in the September and July showed advance at the start of the final quotations for were around 12.25. miles were about 11,000

Tuna is reported to have been enjoying unwonted prosperity because of the high prices obtained for its coffee crop, one-third of the production of 1923-24 having been exported. Most of the crop gone to European ports because of the higher prices prevailing. Nicaragua finds itself in the same case. The coffee crop here is estimated at 17,000 short tons, an increase of 2500 tons over the big crop of 1923. This crop was evenly divided between San Francisco and European ports.

SUGAR INACTIVE

Prices of refined sugar still remained low throughout the week, but there is hope that buying orders will soon appear in large quantities. The spot market on raw sugars remained at 4 1-2 cents although Saturday's offerings were continued at 4 5-8 for Cubas and Porto Rico. It was reported in the trade that the strike in Havana among harbor workers and other laborers had been ended the strikers having lost.

The sugar futures market was nervous on Saturday first prices being irregular, showing an advance of 4 points followed by a 3-point decline. Prices remained within a range of 1 to 5 points throughout Saturday's trading. The settlement of the Havana strike caused Cuban traders to sell a few minutes before the close and this brought a reaction of from 3 to 8 points for the day. May to July switches at a net difference of 19 points averaged some $350 tons.

Butter receipts on Saturday were 6588 packages. The market closed steady with no attempt to advance prices. Fifty tubs extra creamery sold at 37 1-2 cents. Later offers at 37 cents fixed the price at that figure. Pantry sweet butter sold well at the usual premium. Ladies and packing-stock were quiet.

EGG MARKET QUIET

Saturday's receipts of eggs were 37,321 cases. The market was quiet, many buyers being absent because of the Jewish holidays. The receipts have been quite heavy with considerable irregularity in quality. Coast whites are not coming in freely ag the storage season is in full swing in the West and prices here are not attractive.

Pacific Coast white extra 34@36 cents; extra firsts, 32@33 1-2 cents; firsts, 30@31 1-2cents; medium, 26 cents; other western and southern gathered, 26@30 cents.

Copper was dull and closed with electrolytic quoted at from 13 3-8 to 13 1-2 cents a pound, delivered. The London market broke and the finished product market weakened with some shading reported. Standard in London declined £1, with spot closing at £63, 12s, 6d, and futures at £ 64, 10s, while electrolytic was off 15s to £69, 10s for spot and £70 for futures. Trading on the London metal exchange for the week amounted to 900 tons of spot and 3650 tons futures. Exports of copper through New York port amounted to 4615 tons for the week.

LEAD LOWER

The A. S. & R. reduced lead from 8 1-4 cents to 8 cents, New York, last week, while the independents still quoted around 7.90 cents New York and 7.60 cents a pound St. Louis for prompt delivery. Demand was small and confined to early improvement. For this reason futures are offered at slightly lower prices. In London spot declined £1, 10s, to £ 30, 15s, and futures 17s, 6d to £29, 10s. Trading on that exchange for the week amounted to 650 tons of spot and 3300 tons of futures. There were 520 tons of lead exported through New York last week.

Silver: After advancing 10 points last week, zinc lost this gain and closed at from 6.05 to 6.10 cents a pound, St. Louis. In London the market declined 12s, 6d, with spot closing at £32 and futures at £31, 15s. Trading on that exchange amounted to 450 tons of spot and 1625 tons of futures. Exports of lead through this port were 360 tons for the week.

The advance in tin was checked about the middle of the week, and a decline inaugurated by further liquidation of full accounts. A net loss of about 1-4 cents is reported for the market here, while in London the week's losses ranged from £6, 15s, to £7, 5s. The Far Eastern market reacted late in the week and showed a net loss of £2 with straits in Singapore closing at £247, 15s, c. i. f., Singapore. Trading in London last week amounted to 250 tons of spot and 1770 tons futures.

The trend of the bond market was toward higher prices. All issues moved toward higher levels. This is said to be a reflection of cheap money. Other factors are the fine condition of the Federal reserve banks, the passing of the soldier bonus bill in its present state and the expectation of a tax reduction measure.

The Crop of Golden Seal

The growing of golden seal is probably the most unique of all types of Hoosier farming. Lafe Benham, who lives near the little town of Benham in Ripley county, Ind., is one of the largest growers of this medicinal herb in the Middle West. Golden seal is sometimes known as yellow root. In the pioneer days of Indiana the plant could be found growing wild in every well-drained woodland. The Indians and early settlers used the roots of the herb as a remedy for sore mouth and inflamed eyes and as a tonic for stomach and liver trouble. In those days there was little commercial demand for the plant. But now there are several commercial demands for it. In 1860 a market was established for the roots of the plant. However, for twenty years after this the price for golden seal was seldom more than 12 cents a pound. The prices were based on the actual cost of collecting and curing the roots. In 1890 the approaching scarcity of the root was met by rising prices bringing about 88 cents a pound. In 1904 the price jumped to $7. The year closed with wholesale prices varying from $1.35 to $1.50. There has been a steady advance in the price of the dried root wild and cultivated, during the past few years from $3 to $4.25, and 60 cents a pound for the dried leaf and stems.

Women of the Netherlands used 663 tons of imported toilet waters, perfumery and cosmetics last year.

Coast and Geodetic Survey
Tides. Los Angeles Harbor

Note—The following tabulation of the tides is compiled from the Pacific Coast Tide Tables of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. The times are expressed in terms of the 120th meridian, beginning with the first tide after midnight in the left-hand column. There are usually four tides, two high and two low, in a day; but occasionally what would be the fourth tide occurs after midnight and thus becomes the first tide of the next day. The height is given in feet above the elevation of each tide above the plane of reference of the Coast and Geodetic Survey chart soundings, except where the latter are above mean low water, as shown thus, or dash, when heights are below the plane. The tabulations are furnished by the Superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, San Francisco, Cal.

Sunrise and sunset are computed for Los Angeles Harbor. Moonrise and moonset for Los Angeles.

COTTON TRADE CHANGES ASKED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The Federal Trade Commission today submitted to the United States Senate a report on the cotton trade made pursuant to Senate resolutions 262 and 429, sixty-seventh Congress.

Numerous changes for improving conditions in the cotton markets, particularly New York, are discussed in this report together with the conclusions and recommendations of the commission.

The report also describes competitive conditions, co-operative marketing and the concentration of the spot cotton business in the hands of a few large cotton merchants.

CHANGES ASKED

Suggestions of changes and improvements with reference to the operation of the exchanges have been carefully examined and considered by the commission. The more important of these are as follows:

(1.) Revision of the grades deliverable on a future contract.

(2.) Revision of the system of making spot quotations and differences.

(3.) Delivery on New York future contracts at Southern ports.

(4.) Publication of total volume of future trades and of open future trades.

One trade criticism of the three largest merchants is to the effect that by virtue of their large volume of future trading they may individually manipulate or affect future prices to the disadvantage of other traders. Another criticism is that these three merchants have worked together in their future operations, but the commission has obtained no proof that they "pooled" their interests in the futures markets.

In a period of four years, cotton merchants reporting to the commission sold about 10,000,000 bales of cotton at an average price of $123.66 a bale. The average price paid for the cotton was $123.69 per bale, leaving a gross profit to the merchant of about $10.50 per bale on the average and a net profit of $2.98 per bale before deducting interest paid.

RETURNS YIELDED

This amount yielded a rate of return of 14.9 per cent on the total investment (including borrowings) and of 21.9 per cent after deducting interest on the proprietary investment (excluding borrowings.)

The results for the co-operative concerns in comparison with those of the merchants in the year 1922-23 were not unfavorable to the former. The average selling-price of three nonstaple co-operatives ($132.10 a bale) was somewhat lower than the average of thirty-five cotton merchants reporting in that year ($134.15) but the gross profit taken by the merchants averaged slightly over $12 whereas the gross margin of the co-operatives averaged only $7.12. Moreover, the cost of the cotton to the merchants reporting does not represent the price paid the grower since much of this cotton undoubtedly was purchased from local dealers.

JACK ROBERTSON SETS NEW RECORD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OAKLAND, April 27.—Jack Robertson of the San Francisco Olympic Club, won the junior national A.A.U. 100-yards free style swimming championship at Idora Park here today in 55 3-5s., a new record for the Idora tank. Reggie Harrison and Phil Daubenspect, both swimming for the Venice Club, finished second and third.

Her Number!

On his tour of the district an inspector of city high schools came before a class of girls. He wrote upon the blackboard, "LXXX." Then peering over the rims of his spectacles at a good-looking girl in the first row, he asked:

"Young lady, would you like to have you tell me what these means."

"Love and kisses," the girl replied.—Everybody's Magazine.

V. A. Stoneroad

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YEAGERTOWN (Pa.) April 27.— More than three decades as a student is claimed by V. A. Stoneroad, agriculturist. He was one of the first students to enroll in the Pennsylvania State Home Study courses in agriculture, and that was thirty-five years ago.

Since then he has been studying by correspondence continuously and has covered practically every agricultural subject given by the State College, by the government and by distant agriculture schools. He signed up recently for a course in floriculture and root crops.

MAY DIE OF KNIFE WOUNDS

Silva Lorenzo, 40 years of age, of 619 Ducommon street, was probably fatally cut in a fight last night with S. Urbina, according to the police. The altercation occurred at 854 South Spring street. The victim was rushed to the Receiving Hospital where Police Surgeon Goodrich performed a major operation in an effort to save his life. The man received a deep cut that extended across his abdomen. Urbina was taken into custody and is being held at the City Jail on a charge of suspicion of an attack with a deadly weapon.

INDIAN WINS PRIZES

A tall, slender Indian and his wife and five children were among the most interested visitors at the thirty-first annual Missouri State Poultry Show at Convention Hall yesterday.

The Indian was Eves Tall Chief, Osage tribal councilman from Fairfax, Okla., owner of thirty of the White Plymouth Rocks exhibited. His birds had won five of six first prizes offered and had been awarded honors for the best display.

"I no sell none of my birds," he said. "They my pets and I love them."

Tall Chief never advertises his poultry for sale. He raises them as a hobby and believes in raising the best. He has been raising thoroughbred birds four years.

His income is more than $100 a day from oil wells on his land. The five young Tall Chiefs, the oldest 6 years, always accompany their father about the country to the poultry shows.—[New York Times.

Simple Way to Relieve Gas on Stomach
Nearly everybody is troubled at times with excessive gas in the stomach and bowels. In many cases the stomach expands and presses against the heart, causing intense pain, palpitation, difficult breathing or other annoying symptoms. As a rule, these attacks are accompanied by burning in the stomach, headache, dizziness, hiccough, drowsiness after eating, or a peculiar nervous feeling.
The easiest way to prevent such distress is to take Bope Gas Tablets before and after eating. They are wonderfully beneficial to the stomach, and when used as directed will generally give permanent, lasting results. "Bope," the original and only genuine Gas Tablets, sold in Los Angeles by the Owl and Sun Drug Stores and all leading druggists. Price, $1.00 everywhere. WOMEN TO COMPETE ON TRACK

Fair Athletes Perform in A.A.U. Championship at Coliseum, May 3

For the first time on the Pacific Coast track events for women athletes will be run in a regularly scheduled meet, when the A.A.U. championships are staged at the Coliseum on May 3.

The 50-yard dash, 60-yard hurdles and the 220 relay for runners, will be the events decided at this meet. The A.A.U. has also sanctioned track athletics for women for the first time this year, and meets in the East preceding the several events for the girls' division have met with the popularity of the occasional. Track athletics for girls in the schools has been promoted and governed for the last three years by the National Women's Collegiate and Scholastic Track Athletic Association, being confined to high school meets. Mostly because of the lack to work they were paid for. Lack of public funds—stringing and repairing cables for the apparatus, etc.

The political activity of women athletes affords an explanation why the pay rolls of the Olympic games have jumped 75 per cent. The jump in the number of men and women who handle the business part of the Olympic games from the Southern California Edison Company, which increased the Power Bureau's business 50 per cent. The jump in the number of employees receiving an increase of $5 a day each, and also gives an indication of what will happen if the first-place winners in the Olympic games obtains and operation of the 1,000,000 electric propositions for the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, for one of the cities by taking advantage of the Los Angeles business of the company was a steady increase in the amount of work for the employees per capita. Every one Power Bureau employee is required to educate forty-five consumers while the Edison management trains one employee for service. And the Edison pays for maintenance, depreciation, dividends and taxes from the revenue, while the Power Bureau is relieved from dividends and taxes and is "broke" today, recently borrowed, with $500,000 from the taxpayers, to replenish the bureau's bank drawer.

TABULATED FACTS

And yet in spite of the fact that record with the Edison purchased from the company, the Power Bureau is asserting that "great economies can be effected" if the taxpayers will hand over $20,000,000 that the Power Bureau can use in the electric properties of the company.

The official records showing conclusively" that the Power Bureau has effected the business it purchased from the Edison company

Mostly intra-mural in form. A team of girls was sent to Paris in 1921 to participate in the first international track meet for women. The American girls won more first places and set many new international records than any other team entered in the meet, in which fifteen countries were represented.

The big work in track athletics for girls has been through the telegraphic meet, which has been conducted by the association the last three years, each school holding an interclass meet on the home grounds, the records of the first-place winners listed and placed accordingly.

PLANS ARE LAID FOR FEDERAL SPORT CLUB

The Federal Athletic Club, the smallest of its kind in the world, will be erected close to the Ascot Mertgage Building. The membership of this club will be limited to the sales force of the Federal Securities Corporation. J. A. Holl, president of the corporation is responsible for the idea which is that the salesmen should have all of the advantages of a club as a means of keeping fit.

NEGLECT WORK TO PUSH BONDS

Power Bureau Employees in Propaganda Drive

Taxpayers Dig Up $150,000 Spent for Time So Spent

Shortage of Funds One Reason Power Department is Broke

Seven thousand public service corporation employees will "voluntarily" steam into high speed to-day at the taxpayers' expense, to campaign support at the May 6 election for the $21,000,000 power bonds and this, according to conservative estimates, will represent a "real time" bill for the taxpayers, amounting to at least $150,000. The employees receive an average of $5 a day each, and each of them by election day will have devoted at least a total of ten days time to political engineering. This mean $50 worth of lost time in city work for each employee, or a total of $150,000 for the city.

Superior Court Judge Edward I. Wood's decision in the Mines case will not stop further use of the facilities of the power department for political campaigning, but the decision, unfortunately for the taxpayers, could not cover the time lost by each employee, while answering ringing doorbells and passing out literature and pledge cards and arguing for the power bonds.

At a recent meeting of "The Water Power and Water Committee" representative of the Public Service Department Employees' Association and stated that some of the 3000 employees of the department would do his utmost for the power bonds, up to and including election day. The employees' association passed a statement declaring that all political campaigning is to be done "voluntarily."

"ON TAXPAYERS' TIME

Reports have reported that during the past week public service corporation trucks have arrived in residential districts, crews of repair men have climbed down and scattered throughout the neighborhood calling at each house and discussing the power bond-campaign. Wages on time paid for by the taxpayers during hours when these men should have been doing the work they were paid to do out of public funds—stringing wires and installing cables in underground conduits.

The political activity of these men affords an explanation for the pay rolls of the Power Bureau have jumped 75 per cent in number of men employed since the business purchased from the Southern California Edison Company, which increased the Power Bureau's business but 45 per cent. The jump in these pay rolls gives an indication of what will happen if the Power Bureau obtains and operates the $90,000,000 electric properties of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, for one of the results of the city's taking over the immense business of the Edison Company was a steady reduction in the amount of work done and employees per consumer. Now the Power Bureau distributing force is required for each 244 consumers while under Edison management the ratio of employee for each 244 consumers. And the Edison company's maintenance, depreciation funds and taxes from this source, while the Power Bureau is exempt from dividends and taxes, and is "broke" today and constantly borrowed, without interest, $2,000,000 from the tax funds to maintain the bureau's empty treasury.

TABULATED FACTS

And yet in spite of its "efficiency" shown with the business inherited from the Edison Company, the Power Bureau is asserting that "great economies can be effected" if the taxpayers will hand over $20,000,000 more to the Power Bureau can take over the electric properties of the city.

Official records showing how much "waste" the Power Bureau has made in the business it purchased from the Edison company are in-

Twelve Stories Up Mid Liquid Dynamite and Hip Artillery That Strong Men Quailed

Many members of the dry squad of Dist.-Atty. Keyes's office gathered in the office of George Contreras, head of the squad, on Saturday and moved their revolvers a few inches farther to the front. A door emanated from the office; the double padlock of the hardware was still on the door.

Investigators stood about in the room as Contreras bravely led his men, but cautiously, for noise from where all of the moonshine recently confiscated could mean but one of two things, burglars or "high-hats."

Contreras entered, still bravely, with one hand near a well-oiled "gatlin' iron," while the others followed. Cautiously he looked. He looked behind a barrel of liquid dynamite, behind his own desk piled high with Wright Act complaints, and finally resorted to a rope to see if any strong-boxes were hiding there. Then Contreras went up and down the spines of the assembled squad. They had heard a noise that resembled the activities of burglars, but no burglars were in sight. There was an open window, but burglars do not fly and it is twelve stories to the pavement.

"Can you beat that?" asked Contreras.

"Coo, coo, coo," came the response, and the investigators cocked their artillery.

"A pigeon!" exclaimed an investigator. "No, not a stool pigeon."

Investigation disclosed that one of the birds, which are no longer welcome at Pershing Square, had made a nest on a pile of Navajo blankets seized in raids on punchboard places.

And it was evident that there are to be two more pigeons; that is, if the two eggs hatch out.

PORT OFFICE FOR MARINE NEWS OPEN

Exchange Headquarters on Waterfront to be Aid to Growth of Harbor

Los Angeles Harbor will take another forward step as a world commerce center this morning when the Marine Exchange of the Chamber of Commerce opens new waterfront headquarters of its own at 629 Beacon street, in the San Pedro district of the port. The exchange, under the personal management of Maj. Cecil A. James, now includes the uptown headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building, the waterfront quarters and the look-out station at Outer Harbor, where full twenty-four-hour service is maintained on the movements of all vessels in or out of the port.

Opening of the Marine Exchange waterfront headquarters, heretofore provided through the public-spiritedness of W. H. Wickersham, pioneer customs broker at the harbor, will serve to provide convenient and well-equipped offices for the serving of shipping interests and for the dissemination of all maritime information for the entire Los Angeles metropolitan district.

Large bulletin boards have been installed in the reception foyer of the exchange, where will be posted as promptly as received all advices on arrivals and movements of ships, all of which is obtained from first-hand information gathered by the staff of the exchange. Radio advices on the positions of ships at sea, notice of casualties and kindred data also will be posted, Maj. James announced.

"Extension of small courtesies to masters of vessels visiting our port, which we also will endeavor to do, may at first seem of little moment," said Maj. James. "Those who have traveled at sea, however, know that ships' officers are the fountain of all knowledge to be gleaned on the great seaports of the world.

"Heretofore, many masters of vessels have called here without opportunity of visiting other than the waterfront section of this city and without any very definite facts as to the extent to which the city and its waterborne commerce has grown."

Similar provisions are to be made, Maj. James stated, for supplying the libraries of all passenger carrying vessels calling here with data descriptive of Los Angeles and its maritime activities.

The waterfront staff of the Marine Exchange, of which J. Y. Britton is in immediate charge, now embraces six employees.

World's Greatest Blast Not Much as Spectacle

Explosion is Success From Quarry Standpoint

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CORONA, April 27.—E. D. Willing of 110 Center street, Bellflower, and his wife and baby went to the explosion yesterday. As they were motoring in the family Chevrolet along the narrow track of Hoag's Canyon on their way to the Blue Diamond quarries to witness the world's greatest dynamite blast, they had to stop to let another car pass. Willing backed too near the edge and his car kept on backing—slowly; but he could not stop it. He climbed to the running board, hung onto the steering wheel and guided it till it was stopped by trees at the edge of a fifty-foot declivity.

So that the 40,000 people assembled to watch the blowing up of a cliff with 182 tons of 60 per cent dynamite had some excitement after all. Some of them got ropes, hitched them to the front axle of Willing's car and hauled it and Willing and the woman and child to safety.

BLAST NOT SO MUCH

The blast wasn't so much; the engineers had calculated too carefully; they weren't wasting energy on noise. They wanted energy to move rock, not to frighten the crowd or burst anybody's ear drums; the rock was moved, but no ear drums were burst, and that part of the show wasn't exciting at all. The part that Willing furnished was tense, gripping drama, with a happy ending. It was human and the crowd could understand it.

There is nothing exciting about the earth on which one is standing lifting a fraction of an inch and then settling down again—nothing exciting in 2,000,000 or more tons of rock laid down by the sea aeons ago falling into a quarry. At least nothing that the crowd could see.

There was a noise, of course. After the ground had lifted under the feet of the 40,000 and settled down again, there was a crunch as if someone had stepped on a big beetle, and then a racking roar and a cloud of dust. It was said windows rattled over a fifteen-mile radius. They did not rattle long, for dynamite is peculiar in going off all at once. It does not explode progressively; it detonates.

QUARRY MEN SATISFIED

The Blue Diamond quarry people were not dissatisfied. They had gotten rid of overhanging cliffs which were threatening the lives of their quarry workmen, and they had tossed down for ready consumption of their hungry crushers a year and a half's supply of their favorite food.

There were three tunnels into the cliff face, each ninety feet deep; at the end of each was a gallery; from each gallery opened off four carefully constructed chambers. Twelve chambers, each loaded with fourteen tons of the highest explosive that can be at all safely handled by men. With electric wires placed in the detonators in each chamber leading way, the tunnels were carefully filled with rock and everything was ready.

It was more dynamite than anyone ever set off intentionally at one time before, and cast down more rock than was ever moved at one time before—except in an earth temblor.

BUTTON PRESSED AT 2:30

The button was pressed at 2:30 p.m. precisely. For just one instant those who were watching the center of the cliff caught a single glimpse of ruby flame and a flash of black smoke. Then the top of the cliff rose slowly—it seemed only a foot or so—and came cascading down, hidden as it fell by a smoke screen of dust. The world's greatest blast was over.

J. C. Cushing, chief technical engineer of the Hercules Powder Company, was in charge of planning it. John Schreiner, production manager of the Blue Diamond Company, held the watch and gave the word, and Earl Mack, quarry foreman, threw the switch.

"Well, let's beat it home for supper!" remarked seven-eighths of the crowd as it turned then to climb into its waiting automobiles—there were 15,000 of them.

They understood what happened to Willing better.

GIRLS FINISH LONG HIKE

With a combined capital of 3 cents, a million dollars' worth of health and a vast enthusiasm for the West in general and California in particular, Dorothy Dwin, 21 years of age and Vere Binkin, 19, walked into Los Angeles yesterday, completing a transcontinental hike begun in May, 1923.

The girls were dressed in khaki shirt and breeches, high shoes and leather coats, and each carried a pack which would constitute a load for a strapping man.

COUNTY TO MODERNIZE DANCE LAW

Ordinance Scheduled to Pass Today Removing Ban at Midnight

As a result of recent attempts to modify the blue laws of the city and county, a new county ordinance permitting dancing after 12 o'clock is scheduled to be passed today by the Board of Supervisors.

The action, the first taken with regard to county laws, follows the arrest of Annechini Marcel, proprietor of the Marcel Cafe, on a charge of violating the old ordinance requiring proprietors of cafes to stop dancing at midnight. Marcel is charged before Justice of the Peace Blake. He was arrested when George Contreras, investigator of the District Attorney's office, discovered several couples dancing after midnight.

Mr. Marcel yesterday said he considered the present rule unnecessarily severe and would use every effort to have the ordinances brought up-to-date.

Several city ordinances have recently been changed following the arrest of several persons on minor charges in connection with dance laws and gambling provisions.

Brannon Pleads Prior Jeopardy in Murder Case

A plea that Barney Brannon, who goes on trial today for the murder of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Cronin, March 8 at her 1129 Grandview-avenue home, has been placed once in jeopardy and should therefore be automatically freed will be made by S. S. Hahn, defense attorney, the latter announced Saturday.

The motion will be based on the fact that Brannon was acquitted last week on a charge of assault to murder his wife.

The two charges were brought against the accused man as a result of a family quarrel at the Cronin home. Brannon's wife had separated from him and had gone to live with her sister. He visited the pair and sought to effect a reconciliation. A quarrel ensued and Brannon is said to have threatened to shoot his wife. Mrs. Cronin intervened and, in a struggle for possession of the revolver, is alleged to have been shot.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Jordan is prosecuting Brannon.

TO DISCUSS DELINQUENCY

Juvenile delinquency, prenatal and infant care and mental hygiene will be the subjects discussed at a Child Welfare and Health Education meeting in the assembly room of the First Methodist Church at 7:45 tomorrow evening. Plans for the post-graduate course in orthopedics for nurses and for the public health course at Southern Branch, University of California, will also be discussed.

BURGLARS HAVE BUSY DAY

Much Plunder is Obtained in Visits to Wilshire Homes; Woman Held Up in Library

Sitting alone in the library of her home late Saturday night, Mrs. C. Q. Stanton of 448 South Lafayette Place, looked up suddenly and met the eyes of a daring burglar, who stood in the doorway with his pistol leveled at her, according to a report to the police yesterday.

"Put up your hands and tell me where your jewels are kept," the burglar demanded.

"The man who stole my jewelry is in the State prison," Mrs. Stanton told him.

The burglar began to edge toward the door. As he left the room, he turned, according to the report to the police, and declared: "I'm sorry some of the boys beat me to them. Don't call the police and you won't be harmed."

He left without any plunder.

Mrs. Stanton discovered an open window on the second floor and stated she believed that the intruder entered the house by scaling the porch and opening the unfastened window.

Other burglary reports from the Wilshire district noted the loss of property valued at $3650.

M. L. Moore of 3355 Wilshire Boulevard reported that a new apartment-house at that address was entered and that table lamps valued at $1360 were carried away.

A truck standing in front of the Moore apartment house was emptied of its load of clothing, valued at $300, according to the report made by F. L. McElvain of 2512 Washington Boulevard.

An embroidery shop behind the Moore apartment house was entered by a thief who carried off laces and embroidery valued at $515, the proprietor, Mrs. L. Cleimont, reported.

Furs and clothing valued at $2100 were reported stolen from the home of Mrs. E. Myers at 105 South New Hampshire street.

Entrance was gained by forcing open a rear window.

C. E. Smales of 2311 Third avenue, reported the theft of jewelry valued at $200 from his home. H. B. Wyeth of 2327 Third avenue, also experienced a visit from a burglar. His home had been ransacked and jewelry valued at $150 had been taken when he came home.

MANY HELD IN LOMITA RAID

Sheriff's Force Descends on Oil Town; Thirty-five Arrested and Much Liquor Seized

Descending Saturday night on the little town of Lomita, thirty Los Angeles deputy sheriffs under the supervision of Deputy James E. Bond, of the Wright Act enforcement squad of the Sheriff's office, made thirty-five arrests on suspicion of liquor violation, gambling or vagrancy charges. Fourteen of the prisoners were later released with warnings.

The remaining twenty-one, arrested at seven establishments in Lomita, including rooming-houses, restaurants and a tent city, were taken before Justice R. J. Hunter of Lomita township and those who could not make bail were later removed to the County Jail.

LOMITA POLICE HELP

Al Dillon, assistant chief of police of Lomita, and Constable Patton aided the deputies with a squad of their men. The Lomita officers conducted the raid at the Midway rooming-house, 133 Norbonne street, where twenty-five pints of liquor were found, officers declared. Eleven men and two women were arrested at the Midway.

Six men were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bond and his men at a tent city on Pine street where, according to officers, a poker game was in full progress. L. W. Hull, who said he was taking the place of the owner of the establishment for one night, was arrested on a charge of conducting a game of poker. Jess Miller, E. F. Campbell, W. M. Amis, F. T. Smith and T. O. Powell were also held on gaming charges.

RAID SUNSHINE INN

In a raid on the Sunshine Inn, on Harbor Boulevard south of Julian City, deputies arrested J. R. McGrury, the asserted proprietor, whom they charged with sale and possession of liquor. Eleven pints of liquor were found on the premises, officers declared.

Others held on Wright Act charges were S. F. Smith, Rena Carrigan, L. E. Childs and M. H. Austin. All are charged with possession.

Vagrancy charges were preferred against C. Lilenquist, J. W. Turner, H. J. Carrigan, Charles Foley, Don Hays, Frances Schaefer, Mrs. S. F. Smith, Mrs. A. L. Ray, Bertha Reynolds and Pauline Masetti.

Salvation Army Service to Poor to be Stressed

Social service work of the Salvation Army will be emphasized during the week of May 12-18, when the Army will conduct its 1924 budget campaign, by volunteer workers who will carry the appeal to the public.

"Our social service work includes visitation of the poor and sick, giving advice, instruction, comfort and cheer as the individual may require," says an Army report. "In many cases the person visited or calling on our officers was prayed with and greatly encouraged to keep on fighting the battles of life. Through the activity much constructive work was done, preventing the pauperization of those temporarily in need, and enabling many to solve their problems before giving way to despair. During the year our officers also were called on to visit the dying, and every effort wos put forth by them to make the end peaceful.

"Relief work carried on in behalf of needy but worthy families," the report continues, "has enabled our officers to alleviate much suffering and actual want among the poor. Our officers are in touch with the poor all the year around, following up the giving of temporal relief with visitation from time to time.

Plans to Wrest Toeholds From Human Fly Here

No toehold for human flies will be left in Los Angeles, if the City Council acts favorably on a proposal to be submitted to that body today in a letter signed by Boyle Workman, president of the Council.

"For some time," says the letter in part, "I have been considering the enactment of an ordinance prohibiting persons from giving exhibitions such as climbing the face of any building. I am of the personal opinion that this condition should not be tolerated or any permit granted by any persons in the city government."

Such exhibitions, the letter continues, are dangerous not only to those who give them but to those who watch them. Accordingly, the Council is asked to instruct the City Attorney to draw up a proper ordinance, armed with a stiff penalty for violations.

LARGE PORT TERMINALS START SOON

Six Six-Story Warehouses First Units of Petroleum Export's Plant

Six six-story warehouses, embodying the main features of a marine terminal to cost $3,000,000, are to be built on the East Basin of Los Angeles by the Pacific Marine Terminals, under plans announced yesterday by Glenn A. Smith. Mr. Smith, who is vice-president of the Petroleum Export Corporation, holding leases on the proposed site, said that construction on the first of the $3,000,000 units would be started as soon as dredging operations are completed.

The warehouses, Mr. Smith said, will all imediately adjoin in the rear of a proposed quay type wharf and transit shed for the handling of general cargo. Additional facilities are also provided for the export handling of petroleum in bulk.

Mr. Smith, in his application to the Harbor Commission for the additional lease facilities, states that the corporation proposes to meet the "need for a privately operated rail, ship and truck terminal with specially designed warehouse and handling facilities that will make possible the bringing of a large volume of business now going elsewhere."

He estimates that business during the first year of operation alone will total 920,000 tons of cargo, exclusive of petroleum. Through pipeline arrangements already completed for the handling of crude oil and in the shipment of refinery products, bulk and case, it is estimated there will be handled another 100,000 tons annually.

The general operations of the company would be patterned after those in use by the Bush Terminals of New York City.

Third Victim in Santa Fe Field Explosion Dies

Ernest Graves died yesterday morning at the Murphy Memorial Hospital at Whittier, the third to die of four men who were injured Saturday in the explosion of a compressor plant of the Santa Gertrudes lease of the Standard Oil Company in the Santa Fe Springs field.

The body of Graves, with those Oscar Haynes and C. F. Smith, were taken to the undertaking parlors of White and Emerson in Whittier.

The fourth man, Crosby Pinkham, was reported as recovering at the hospital.

JAPANESE KILLS SELF

Slashes Throat With Razor Because He Lacks Fare to Nippon

His hand still holding the razor with which he had cut his throat T. Iguin, a Japanese, was found dead in Lincoln Park early yesterday by Patrolman Pendell of the Lincoln Heights division. The body was taken to the Japanese undertaking establishment.

In Iguin's pocket was found a note written in Japanese and addressed to T. Yamawihi of Gardena. In it, according to Yamawihi's translation, Iguin declared that he was homesick for Japan and lacked the money to pay his fare.

CROWD VIEWS DEATH PLUNGE

Man Leaps Fourteen Floors to Sixth Street

Cause for Act Mystery to Kin and Police

Had Only Few Cents in His Pockets at Time

While scores of persons were passing on the sidewalk below him, Felix Budassewski, 40 years of age, of 393 South Alta Vista street, Monrovia, leaped to his death from the roof of the Detwiler Building, 412 West Sixth street, early yesterday.

He landed in the street, a crushed and lifeless mass, and was left there until an ambulance arrived to carry him to the Receiving Hospital. A large crowd collected around the body.

Little light was thrown on the suicide by employees of the Detwiler Building or by relatives. Roy Bentley of 872 South Vermont street, who was on the thirteenth floor waiting for one of the offices to open, told Detective Lieutenant Stevens of the police homicide squad that he saw the man get off the elevator on the top floor and climb the stairs to the roof, staying there a few minutes and then returning to the thirteenth floor. He did not see him return to the roof, he said. Detective Lieutenant Stevens found marks on the roof indicating that a man had walked to the edge directly over the spot where the body landed.

Mrs. W. J. Bruley of 363 East Sixty-second street, a daughter, had not seen her father for several days and could assign no reason for the suicide. Neither could Mrs. B. Dembinski, a sister, living at 312 South St. Louis street.

Budassewski was a painter. He had been employed in Monrovia and had no permanent Los Angeles address. He had only 64 cents in his pockets when he jumped to his death.

The body was taken to the Gulick & Moses undertaking establishment, pending funeral arrangements.

Plant Crops in Your Back Yard, Says Clements

The necessity for intensive cultivation of "back yards" is greater this year than ever before, Dr. George P. Clements, manager of the agricultural department of the Chamber of Commerce, declares. The passage of the Japanese Exclusion Act will cause many Japanese to abandon truck farming and the result in his opinion will be a shortage of vegetables in the immediate territory. The canning industry, he believes, also will be affected.

The second contributing cause to the possible shortage, Dr. Clements stated, is the fact that 60,000 acres of agricultural land have been lost to the county during the past year through the activities of real estate subdividers who have purchased this land.

Every individual who has a back yard, Dr. Clements stated, should cultivate it in order to assure to himself of a supply of vegetables during the coming season.

Prominent Film Men Are Jailed on Drink Charge

Arthur J. Coe of 2910 Fourth avenue, assistant general manager for the William Fox Studios, and Thomas Granville, 6359 Primrose avenue, a member of the studio technical staff, were lodged in the City Jail early yesterday morning after their arrest by Hollywood detectives on drunkenness charges.

According to Detective Lieutenants Trosper and Taylor, who arrested the pair at the intersection of Santa Monica Boulevard and El Centro avenue, Coe and Granville were finishing a quart bottle of gin when the officers happened along. Cranville is said to have broken the bottle against the pavement before the officers could seize it as evidence. The two studio men were held the customary five hours before they were permitted to put up bail for their release.

CONVENTION SPEAKER

Speakers at the annual convention of the California Warehousemen's Association at Oakland on May 8, 9 and 10 will include Gerald Fitzgerald of Los Angele, who will explain the 1925 legislative outlook.

CITY CLUB TO BUILD SOON

Construction of Edifice at Spring Near Eighth Only Awaits Architect's Competition

Construction work on a new six-story clubhouse for the City Club on a Spring-street site between Eighth and Ninth streets, only awaits the completion of an architects' competition for the selection of plans, according to the announcement yesterday of C. A. Dykstra, secretary of the club.

Under the terms of the lease entered into two weeks ago by the City Club and the Southwest Development Company, the club may use the site for twenty years providing it erects immediately a six-story Class A building, and turns over to the development company the bottom floor of this building for use during the period of the lease. The cost of the building is not to be less than $80,000, according to the lease.

The site, on the west side of Spring street, between Eighth and Ninth streets, is 80 by 155. Instead of limiting the cost of the building to $80,000, it is said the City Club will devote in excess of $200,000 to its new home.

The present location of the City Club is on the twelfth and thirteenth floors of the Chapman Building, Eighth and Broadway.

CALWAY TRIAL ON TOMORROW

Ex-Film Producer Charged With Mail Fraud

Eight Men Said to Have Been Mulcted for $8000

Accused Indicted in 1920 After Alleged Flight

Use of the mails in a scheme to defraud is charged against James Calway, former motion-picture producer, whose case is set for trial tomorrow before Federal Judge Bledsoe. It is alleged he defrauded eight men out of approximately $8000 by representing that the Capitol Film Company of Chicago had contracted to buy from him a series of comedies for the production of which he is said to have collected the money.

He had no such contract and failed to sell the pictures in the production of which he himself made about $200 each, according to Eugene T. McGann, assistant United States attorney, who has charge of the prosecution.

INDICTED IN 1920

Calway was indicted in January, 1920. The government's evidence goes to show that after the defendant made several pictures he took the films and went to Chicago where he tried unsuccessfully to sell them. It is alleged he left Los Angeles when he learned an investigation was under way as to his methods of advertising for investors and as to the representations he made in letters to the ones who put money in his venture.

The defendant's method of procedure, according to McGann, was to have prospective investors deposit $1000 each in a bank on the understanding that the motion-picture to be made would cost no more than $1000 and that his asserted contract with the Capitol Film Company called for sale of the picture for $1500.

THEATER PROJECT

Evidence will be introduced for the purpose of showing that Calway represented to one investor that he and Thomas H. Ince were planning to erect a theater at Sixth and Olive streets to cost not less than $1,500,000. Calway is said to have held forth to the prospective investor the possibility of his becoming manager of this theater. The government has subpoenaed witnesses from Chicago and New York who will testify as to Calway's operations in other cities than Los Angeles.

Among the motion-pictures said to have been made by the defendant with money collected by means of the asserted fraud were: "The Girl Betwixt," "Her Rough Knight," "Bosom Enemies," "Dancing to the End," and "Taking Chances."

EX-CABINET MEMBER WILL SPEAK TUESDAY

E. T. MEREDITH TALKS ON RURAL MARKETS AND ADVERTISING

E. T. Meredith, former Secretary of Agriculture, will address a joint luncheon of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce in the ballroom of the Biltmore Hotel tomorrow noon.

Mr. Meredith, who is the publisher of numerous agricultural publications in Des Moines, is also a past president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. He will speak on "Developing the Rural Market Through Advertising."

George McLaughlin, a California baritone, will render a number of vocal selections, accompanied by Mrs. McLaughlin.

FESTIVAL CALLED OFF

At the request of authorities combating the foot-and-mouth disease, the annual Hans Anderson festival in Elysian Park will not be given this year, the City Playground Department announced Saturday. The festival was to have been on May 3, and would have marked the eleventh annual presentation of the affair.

KIWANIS TO HONOR CHIEF

Edmund F. Arras, International President, to Speak at Banquet Here on Tuesday

Edmund F. Arras of Columbus, O., president of the Kiwanis Clubs International, will be the guest of honor Tuesday evening at a dinner at the Alexandria, at which representatives from thirty Southern California Kiwanis organizations will be present. Mr. and Mrs. Arras are to spend several days in Los Angeles en route to Denver, where the Kiwanis International convention will be held in June.

While a number of entertainment features are to be provided for the Tuesday night dinner, the committee in charge of arrangements, headed by Brook Hawkins, plans to leave most of the time for an address by the international president of the organization.

President Arras was elected head of the Kiwanis Clubs of this country and Canada at the international convention at Atlanta, Ga., last summer, after having served as trustee of the organization for three years. Prior to election as a trustee at the Portland convention in 1920, he served as lieutenant-governor and governor of the Ohio district in 1918 and 1919, respectively.

The present head of the Kiwanis organization first identified himself with the activities of the organization in 1916 when he became a member of the Columbus O. chapter, and he has since participated actively in the ideals and work which the organization stands for and concerning which he brings a constructive message to the Kiwanians of Southern California.

Arrangements whereby President Arras will address meetings of the organization at Riverside, Oakland and other California cities prior to the Denver convention have been made by the California officials of the Kiwanis International.

TREASURY ENDS GREAT JOB

For First Time in Bureau's History, All Revenue Branch Books Balance With Main Office

For the first time in the history of the Treasury Department the accounts of each of the sixty-five internal revenue collectors' offices in the United States are in balance with the records of the department at Washington, according to a report of Commissioner David H. Blair transmitted to the Los Angeles office of the Revenue Bureau.

In March, 1921, the report says, there were fifty-five of the collectors' offices out of balance. This condition was due largely to errors and confusion in the accounting procedure during the year 1918, according to Commissioner Blair. An intensive drive started then to audit and adjust these accounts has just been brought to a close.

"When we speak of an office being out of balance with the Bureau records," the commissioner explains, "it must be understood that there are charges set up against each collector for the taxes listed for assessment in the collector's office, additional taxes discovered in the Bureau, transfers of taxes from other districts, and checks given by taxpayers which are returned by the banks because of insufficient funds.

CONTROL LOST

"Each collector is given credit for the collections as shown by the certificates of deposit issued by the depositor banks. He is also given credit for taxes transferred to other districts and for items abated by the commissioner. As a result of the conditions in 1919 and 1920 nearly every office lost control of its assessment lists and collection accounts. For example, in the office of the collector of the Second District of New York, it was necessary for the supervisor of accounts and collections to check all assessment lists for the calendar years 1918 to 1923 inclusive.

"This included taxes listed for assessment both by the collector and the commissioner, transfers from other districts, and checks returned because of insufficient funds. Each item of tax transferred to other collection districts had to be verified and supporting vouchers furnished. All abatements posted to the lists had to be verified with the schedules issued by the commissioner.

ENORMOUS JOB

"When we consider that the assessment lists that were checked consisted of over 200 large volumes for income alone, and that the collections for all classes of tax amounted to about $3,500,000,000, some idea may be gained as to the enormous amount of work involved in connection with this examination."

The report points out that when the examination was begun it was found that there were unclassified collections in the Second New York District amounting to approximately $43,250,000. The collector's report for the month of January, 1924, shows these unclassified items to have been reduced to $5,314,722.22.

"SMED BUTLER" DIES BRAVELY FOR POLICE

Smiling courageously and murmuring: "I regret that I have only one life to give to the police force," Smedley D. Butler was put to death recently. Smedley rose early, and after a hearty breakfast of ham and eggs, was led into the lethal chamber with about forty others. Charcoal gas was let into the chamber and asphyxiated all of them. Smedley was the mascot of the Germantown Police Station. When he developed distemper, it was decreed he must die. Three times he was reprieved, when dog-lovers offered to adopt him. But his condition was too grave. So he died at the dog-pound. He was a dog of assorted breeds.

VERDICT EXPECTED IN GIRL ATTACK CHARGE

A verdict was expected today in the case of Dr. W. E. Purviance, a chiropractor, who has been on trial in Superior Judge Hahn's court for a statutory attack on Mary Sands Schwalm, 17 years of age, who states he is the father of her five-months-old baby. The girl told officers that Purviance attacked her when she went to his office in the Loew State Building for treatment in February, 1923. Final arguments to the jury were to be made today by Dep. Dist. Atty. Ryan for the prosecution, and Attorney Paul Schenck for the defense.

LOCAL ORGANIST NOW SUCCESS AT BUFFALO

Henry Murtagh, former Los Angeles organist, who is in Buffalo, N. Y., writes that reports of an operation on his ear are exaggerated. "I was never in better health in my life, and the fall which I experienced while playing handball in the Los Angeles Young Mens' Christian Association gymnasium was a blessing in disguise as it gave me a much-needed rest," Murtagh stated. Reports from Buffalo indicate that the organist is the same success there that he proved to be in local music circles.

PARTY TO AID HOSPITAL

The surgical-dressing auxiliary of the Crippled Children's Guild will give a card and mah-jongg party Wednesday afternoon at the Women's University clubhouse, 943 South Hoover, street for the benefit of the fund to provide dressings for the hospital.

NINE HURT IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Pedestrian Hit by Auto May Die; Four Injured in Spectacular Crash

Nine persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, in traffic accidents here yesterday.

In a spectacular collision between two automobiles at Brooklyn avenue and Mott street, Carl Houston, 17 years of age, 1047 West Seventy-first street, and Daniel Landers, 21 years of age, 333 1-3 North Matthews street, drivers of the machines, and William Shore, 39, and Ella Schick, 15, 436 Ezra street, were cut and bruised. All were treated at the Receiving Hospital.

The victim who may die is B. Smith, 35 years of age, of 1334 Newton street, struck by an automobile said to have been driven by G. M. Shields, 751 Gladys avenue, at Twelfth street and Central avenue. Smith received internal injuries. Shields is being held pending the outcome of the victim's injuries.

John Burns, 35 years of age, 131 East Second street, was hit by an automobile driven by an unidentified man yesterday at Fourth and San Pedro streets. Burns received a fractured jaw and other injuries. The police are looking for the motorist, who speeded away without rendering aid to the victim.

A crash between an automobile driven by Charles Wardavil, 30 years of age, of 451 Grant street, Redlands, and a motorcycle ridden by Stanley Norton, 21, of 5934 Seventh avenue, resulted in slight injuries for Norton and Billy Bayz, 9, a passenger in the automobile. Both were cut by flying glass.

Blow Safe, but Fail to Solve Gem-Box Lock

Expert yeggs, but poor locksmiths, got $500 worth of watches and jewelry, instead of $10,000 in gems and money, early yesterday morning at the establishment of A. P. Tarter, 841 South Spring street, it was disclosed by the police investigation.

Eptrance was gained by a skylight. It is thought the burglars lowered themselves into the shop with a rope. They made a businesslike job of blowing off the safe combination, but were unable to solve the lock of the inner compartment. In their efforts to break into the second door they jimmied the lock so badly that the jeweler and police had hard work to enter the safe.

The plunder consisted of articles left outside of the safe. The investigation is being conducted by Detective Lieutenants Hartmeyer and Condaffer.

Missouri Plot Is Dedicated in New Cemetery

The Missouri State Society, with several hundred members present, despite threatening weather, dedicated yesterday its fifteen-acre plot at Graceland, a new memorial park near Norwalk.

A marble tablet two by four feet in size and bearing an appropriate inscription, was unveiled; there was a speech by James A. Lang, president of the society; a dedicatory address was made by Rev. William C. Isett, and Mrs. Hattie J. Small, wife of the society's secretary, pulled aside the veil. Hiner's band gave a concert.

Other dedications of plots at Graceland are to follow.

FEDERAL NARCOTIC AGENT PLACES OPEN

APPLICANTS FOR POSITIONS MUST PROVE YEAR'S EXPERIENCE

Applications for positions as Federal narcotic agents will be received by the United States Civil Service Board until May 20, Edward Tynan, secretary of the board, announces. It is the purpose of the government to add 125 narcotic agents to the present force of 175 agents, according to instructions issued by the Civil Service Commission at Washington.

Narcotic agents in Los Angeles say they have been expecting additional men would be added soon to the force in the Southern California district. There are now four agents in Los Angeles and five in San Francisco. Arizona has two and Nevada has one.

Candidates successfully passing the Civil Service examination will be started in the service at entrance salaries ranging from $2040 to $2400 a year, with allowance for traveling expenses. Applicants will not be permitted to take the examination unless they have had at least one year's experience in the investigation of major criminal activities, or at least six months experience recently in the investigation of the illicit traffic in narcotic drugs.

Other examinations to be conducted soon, according to Secretary Tynan, will be for the positions of business executive, wind tunnel assistant, radio inspector, policewoman, inspector in salmon canning, cement inspector, teacher in the Indian service, forest and field clerk, and physician in the Veterans' Bureau.

NARROW ESCAPE

Harry Langdon is Near Injury in Crash at Race Track

Leaping to one side just in time to save himself from serious injury at the Ascot track yesterday, Harry Langdon, moving-picture comedian, feels lucky he is alive today.

Langdon was standing in the pits beside Gus Schrader's No. 5, called the "hoodoo car," when Yo Ho's Jinney Special skidded and crashed into Schrader's and Rabe Stapp's No. 99.

The comedian was one of the first of a crowd standing there to realize the danger of the situation and immediately leaped to the side, escaping death or injury only by inches.

YOUTHS TO RUN SCHOOLS TODAY

Innovation Marks Celebration of Boys' Week

Will Manage Manual Arts for Entire Period

Meets and Parades Also on Observance Program

For at least one day—today—the boys of the city will be their own "bosses" while at school. The management of the schools is to be turned over to them entirely today as part of the international boys' week celebration. In more than 1000 other cities and towns of the country the same arrangement will exist during the day.

The boy students at the Manual Arts High School will manage their institution during the entire week of the celebration.

Assemblies have been arranged in every school in the city during the day and a number of prominent speakers will address the students. Among these will be Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Joseph Scott, Rex Goodcell, Rabbi Edgar Magnin, Horace Dunbar, Charles H. Burnett, Chaplin Gelder Lawrence, Dist.-Atty. Keyes, C. E. Raitt, Maj. Gibbs, Frank Bouelle, E. B. De Groot, Walter McIntyre, Rev. Willsie Martin, H. B. Wright, Harry C. Arthur and Dr. James Francis.

Celebration of the week began yesterday with church day for the boys. The program for outdoor day, Saturday, was also announced yesterday by Mr. Raitt, superintendent of the city playgrounds department.

The playgrounds will conduct athletic meets and games for junior boys on Saturday morning to be followed in the afternoon by another meet for intermediate and senior boys. Many of the playgrounds will also have parades during the day.

In the evening a "boys and dad" affair will be staged to which all boys will be asked to bring their fathers to share in the entertainment to be provided. Prizes are to be offered for many of the events and ribbons given for the best decorated entrants in the parades.

At the Hazard playground, Mr. Raitt said, a parade of old-fashioned bicycles will be held. Will Rogers, the cowboy humorist, has been secured to speak in the evening.

Finals in the handball tournament are to be run off at the Recreation Center and Le Roy Dawson of the American Legion will speak at the evening celebration.

Echo Park playground is to have a bicycle and coaster parade and a vaudeville show at night given by the boys of the playground.

In celebration of their newly completed tennis courts, the Ross Snyder playground will have its evening celebration on the courts. A free-for-all bicycle race and parade will also be staged in the afternoon.

A novel concert by mouth organs is to be given at the Salt Lake playground. A film star will talk to the boys in the evening.

The Downey playground has arranged a parade which will progress up North Broadway, and at Arroyo Seco playground the boys have arranged to put on a program for the visitors. Exposition Park playground will also have games and athletic events during the day.

QUARANTINE AREA UNDER GUARD RULE

Lankershim Only Point to Report New Case of Cattle Plague

Only one outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease was announced yesterday by the agencies fighting the scourge. That occurred in a herd of fifty-six cattle near Lankershim, in an infected area. The disease was said to have been spread probably by contact, as several other herds in that vicinity have already been infected.

Guards were in place yesterday along the highways to keep the thousands of Sunday motorists out of the quarantine areas. This precaution was taken after requests had been issued to motorists to stay on the highways.

Gov. Richardson spent yesterday in Los Angeles county, inspecting the forces combatting the disease. He repeated his statement of Saturday when he said that he hoped that the adjoining States would soon lift their quarantine embargoes.

A conference will be held today at Knob's Siding, across the river from Yuma, where Asst. U. S. Atty. Robert Camarillo will represent the government. This conference is expected to iron out the difficulties between Imperial county authorities and Arizona quarantine officers on the Fort Yuma Indian Reservation.

A committee of Arizonans, appointed by Gov. Hunt to investigate the California foot-and-mouth disease quarantine, left Los Angeles last night for Sacramento. The members of the committee are D. S. McKenney of Casa Grande, George Buxton of Douglas, Frank R. Saunders of Phoenix, A. A. Johns of Prescott and E. A. Tovrea of Phoenix.

That Gov. Hunt is in California and had run the gauntlet of the fumigating-stations was denied by the committeemen.

The extermination of the seagull was demanded in a statement issued yesterday by Louis H. Tolhurst, expert in microscopy, who declared that his investigation of the spread of the foot-and-mouth disease germ had convinced him that it was carried by these birds.

CHURCH RAISES FUNDS

Van Nuys Congregation Planning Elaborate Structure

A total of $27,600 was raised by the congregation of the Central Christian Church at Van Nuys yesterday toward the erection of a $50,000 structure, according to an announcement by Rev. S. M. Bernard, pastor. The structure planned will be the finest in the San Joaquin Valley, Mr. Bernard said. It will be built on a lot near the high school owned by the church.

Here and in San Francisco

THE advocates of an unregulated political monopoly in electricity for Los Angeles have made a great ado over the fact that the price of water and electricity is lower here than in San Francisco. On this account they have taken great credit to the Power Bureau for the "saving" of mythical "millions" to the electric consumers of Los Angeles.

More "apple sauce"!

What they neglected to say is that the price of gas also is lower here than in San Francisco. Doubtless if they were in position to profit by such a claim, they would say that the Power Bureau is responsible for that "saving" also.

The truth is that rates for water, electricity and gas in San Francisco and for gas in Los Angeles are fixed by the State Railroad Commission on the basis of what the service costs in the respective communities. Conditions in San Francisco and Los Angeles are widely different, and that difference necessarily is reflected in the rates.

The consumer of gas and electricity can depend upon receiving fairer treatment under business management and Railroad Commission regulation than under political management unregulated by either the Railroad Commission or by Competition.

EW WARSHIP TAKES HONORS

ryland Leads Squadrons in Gunnery Scores of Practice Yet to be Made by Battleship

Range Firing Set for Week of May 4-10

The superdreadnaught Maryland, newest addition to the United States battle fleet, leads the battleship squadrons in gunnery practice, according to announcement yesterday. The Maryland's standing is considered the more remarkable in that she, a new ship mounting sixteen-inch guns and manned with an 80 per cent new crew, is in the midst of her first year of target practice.

The present standings are from the target scores worked out for the first three practices of the battery year beginning July 1, including short-range battle practice, night practices and antiaircraft firing. The leading vessels are as follows: U.S.S. Maryland, Capt. Frank H. Clark; U.S.S. Tennessee, Capt. Luke McNamee; U.S.S. Pennsylvania, Capt. John Hines; U.S.S. Mississippi, Capt. William D. Brotherton; U.S.S. Arizona, Capt. P. N. Olmsted, and the U.S.S. New Mexico, Capt. Yates Stirling, Jr.

COUNTS ONLY HALF

Great interest is being centered on the fleet on the gunnery practice to be fired off Los Angeles harbor during the next two weeks, as practices already fired with a weight of fifty, with the practice yet to be fired having a full weight. Final standings of the dreadnaughts will not be determined until these are completed, including long-range battle practice, antiaircraft practice and force practice.

Annual gunnery schedules provide for the firing of the practice as follows: Long range battle practice, by individual ships, during the week of May 18-24; antiaircraft practice, week of May 27, and force practice, week of June 1-14. Practice runs for long-range practice will be made by the entire fleet during the week of May 4-10 and will mark the first activity of the dreadnaughts since their return from winter maneuvers in the Caribbean Sea.

ITINERARY REVISED

The experimental practice of the U.S.S. Maryland, in which she will fire her turret guns at an extreme range of 35,000 yards, will not be counted in the standing of ships in target practice.

The itinerary of the shakedown cruise of the new scout cruiser, Concord, which called here in January, last, bound for Cape Horn, has been revised and she will go to New York for assignment instead of returning to this port, as originally scheduled. The Concord is due in New York June 1 and after a short overhaul at the Navy Yard probably will join the light cruiser divisions under Rear Admiral T. P. Magender.

UTAH GIRL IS FOUND IN DRUG RAID

Anonymous Letter Leads to Discovery; Quartet of Suspects Taken

An anonymous letter telling the movements of a young girl, said to be of a prominent Salt Lake family, guided members of the local narcotic squad yesterday on a raid that resulted in two women and two men being arrested on charges of violating the State Poison Act. The girl was found in the quartet.

The girl is Florence Eatough, 18 years of age, who has been sought by the police for several weeks at the request of the Utah authorities.

The anonymous letter stating that the girl could be found in the company of underworld characters sent Detectives Phillips, Hall and Edmonds to an apartment house at 334 South Flower street. They found her and her companions in two apartments there.

A small quantity of morphine and two hypodermic outfits reported to have been found in one of the apartments caused the poison charges which the police preferred. The girl was booked only for vagrancy, the officers stating that they hoped to get her suspended sentence to permit her to return to her parents.

Booked with her were Mrs. C. Windel, 26 years of age, said by the police to have been arrested before on narcotic charges; Ben Braun, 22; Russell Sherman, 24, and George Bates, 20.

Colored Voters Hold Coolidge Rally Tonight

Members of the Colored Republican Coolidge Club have completed arrangements for a mass meeting to be held tonight at the Thirty-Seventh Junior High School, Hooper and Naomi streets.

The candidacy of President Coolidge is to be presented by J. B. Lichtenstein of the California Club and C. C. Flint. Chief of Police August Vollmer, Dr. Marian Hall Haddox and Capt. W. W. Glenn will present arguments favorable to Proposition No. 5, which will appear on the May 6 primary ballot.

The proposition of the new city charter is to be discussed at the meeting by P. M. Roberts, J. H. Shepherd and Judge Robert M. Clarke. The power bond issue will be explained by Prof. Henri Greer.

The chairman of the meeting by the Colored Coolidge Club states that C. H. Alsted, local attorney, will be the master of ceremonies, while Wood Wilson is to serve as general manager.

WHY THE PROPOSED NEW CITY CHARTER IS BETTER THAN THE PRESENT OLD CHARTER

BY GEORGE H. DUNLOP,
Secretary, Board of Freeholders

I. As to Form.
II. As to Taxes.
III. As to Street Traffic.
IV. As to the Police Department.
V. As to the Harbor Department.
VI. As to the Outlying Sections of the City.
VII. As to Various Miscellaneous Provisions.

II.

AS TO TAXES

The annual city tax rate must be large enough to cover the appropriations made in the annual budget, adopted by the Mayor and Council at the beginning of each fiscal year. The preparation and adoption of the budget is the most important act of the city government for the whole year. According to the provisions of the budget the activities of the various departments of the city government will be determined and the tax rate fixed.

The proposed new city charter provides for the "executive budget procedure," in place of the "legislative budget procedure" found in the old charter. Under the legislative budget procedure the budget is prepared, in the first instance, by a committee of the legislative body. Under our old charter the budget is prepared by the Finance Committee of the City Council. All over the United States there is a growing feeling that the legislative budget procedure at its worst gives too much opportunity for "log-rolling," "pork-barrel" appropriations and at its best fails to secure efficiency and economy. To correct these evils the executive budget procedure in place of the legislative budget procedure has recently been introduced at Washington by an act of Congress, and in California by a State constitutional amendment adopted by a vote of the people.

The executive budget procedure in the proposed new charter is as follows:

(1.) The budget will be recommended to the City Council by the Mayor, the chief executive officer of the city, from the city-wide point of view.

(2.) In the preparation of the budget the Mayor will be assisted by a Bureau of Budget and Efficiency, which will be at work the year through on the problems of the budget.

(3.) The head of each department of the city government will prepare his own detailed estimate of the appropriations needed for his department for the ensuing fiscal year. The Mayor, having considered all these estimates, may reduce the total appropriation for any department to a figure approved by the Mayor and may then require the head of such department to submit a new detailed budget on the total figure so approved by the Mayor. This is a most important innovation.

(4.) The Mayor's recommended budget as presented by him to the Council must be in printed pamphlet form with the corresponding figures for corresponding items for three years, set up in parallel columns—the figures for the last fiscal year, for the present fiscal year, and for the new fiscal year to which the budget is to apply. Thus set up, the budget will be easy to study and copies of it can be had by the public before the Council takes action upon it. The Council may amend the budget as recommended by the Mayor and the Mayor has the usual power of veto.

If there is any way to keep down the city tax rate and secure efficiency in the city government, the executive budget procedure briefly outlined above is that way.

STENOGRAPHERS ORGANIZE

Thirty Young Women Typists Join International Move for Welfare of Their "Profession"

Public stenography is a profession.

This moot point was definitely settled by some thirty serious, intelligent and business-like young women gathered yesterday afternoon in the Loew State Building in the first business session of the Southwest branch of the infant International Association of Public Stenographers.

Prior to yesterday's meeting members of the profession, at least in Southern California, were not just certain as to whether their calling was a profession or a trade, and the decision which henceforth classes them as professional folk was not arrived at until the dictionary had been brought into consultation and much discussion, pro and con, had been indulged in.

UNANIMOUS RULING

There is now no question on the point, the thirty competent young women having arrived at a virtually unanimous conclusion regarding it.

With their status established, the young women proceeded to the discussion of legislation in this State which will give to their profession a dignity in keeping with the requirements, will definitely define them in the public eye, and will prevent through certification the lowering of the standard of the profession. When they have finally decided just what it is they want of the State Legislature in this respect they will make known their wants in the effective feminine manner.

MESSAGE FROM CHIEF

Miss Betty Seymour of San Diego, first vice-president of the International Association, a diminutive and plain-spoken young business woman, presided, and Miss Irma E. Comstock of Los Angeles, publicity chairman of the association, and Mrs. Edna J. Olive, secretary of the Southwest Branch, were present. A message combining greetings and much sound advice from Mrs. Ada Berg Miller of Seattle, president of the association, was read by the presiding officer, as was a paper from the San Diego branch on the ethics of the profession.

A feud of long standing with the owners and managers of buildings, waged about the matter of concessions, was discussed at some length, with the result that a program of education will be promulgated at no distant date seeking an understanding which will promote the welfare of public stenographers generally in the Southwest.

ORGANIZED IN OCTOBER

The International Association of Public Stenographers was organized at Seattle last October, and the first annual convention was held in that city January 26.

In the words of Miss Seymour the purposes of the organization are "to place public stenography in line with professions; to create a better understand between the building owner and manager and the public stenographer; to work for legislation licensing the public stenographer, and to establish a minimum price list."

Delegates from San Diego, Long Beach and numerous other Southern California cities were present.

CHEMISTS' PARLEY TO COME HERE

Council Unanimous in Choice of Los Angeles for 1925 Meeting

Los Angeles was unofficially selected as the meeting place for the summer convention of the American Chemical Society in 1925 at the meeting in Washington, D. C., according to a telegram received yesterday by members of the local section.

The invitation on behalf of the Southern California section of the society was extended by Dr. W. C. Morgan, head of the chemistry department of the University of California, Southern Branch, and C. P. Wilson, who attended the Washington meeting.

The telegram follows:

"Just to express the feeling of this group, the council of the American Chemical Society voted unofficially to accept Los Angeles's invitation for the August, 1925, convention without a dissenting voice."

The American Chemical Society is said to be the largest scientific society in the world with a membership of 15,000. The local section has a membership of 200 and meets monthly. Walter A. Schmidt is chairman.

WIFE OF MOTORIST HURT IN CAR CRASH

Mrs. Elisabeth Radcliffe, 51 years of age, was taken to the Receiving Hospital suffering from what was declared to be a possible skull fracture and a number of cuts and abrasions, after a traffic accident Saturday night at Avenue 39 and Marmon Way. The woman's husband, William Radcliffe, 445 West Avenue 46, according to police officers who investigated, drove their machine into a telegraph pole when he became confused by the glaring headlights in front of him.

Drama-Debate in Drug Crusade at Trinity Church

Edward Hall and MacDonald Summers gave their drama-debate "The Judge and the Dope Peddler" at Trinity Methodist Church yesterday afternoon under auspices of the Anti-Narcotic League of America, of which Mr. Hall is president and Mr. Summers is vice-president. Messrs. Hall and MacDonald were Anti-Saloon League lecturers in the fight for liquor prohibition, in which they had a similar dramatic debate.

Mr. MacDonald as a judge and Mr. Hall as a narcotic peddler unfoled the evils of the traffic and the difficulties of its prevention up to a solution, suggested by the "dope peddler," which is the proposal of the Anti-Narcotic League of America. This is to remove the control from the narcotic squad of the prohibition enforcement agency and place it back in the hands of the Bureau of Miscellany, where it was prior to 1919. In this way, it is argued, physicians and scientists will have control of all narcotics, which now may be obtained only from illegal peddlers, who encourage their use and make exorbitant profits in their distribution.

"The Judge and the Dope Peddler" already has been given in some other California cities. The Anti-Narcotic League has headquarters here.

FIRE BOAT BONDS URGED

The campaign for the $400,000 fire boat bond issue, which is Proposition No. 6 on the ballot at the May 6 election, was given support yesterday in a letter received by Fire Chief Scott from the port commission of New Orleans pointing out that three costly water front fires in that city awakened the people of New Orleans to the necessity of providing the modern, adequate fire boat which now guards that port.

The $400,000 fireboat bonds, to be voted on here at the May 6 election will provide similar protection for the $100,000,000 water front municipal and privately-owned wharves, docks, warehouses, industries and terminals of Los Angeles Harbor.

Tiley E. McChesney, secretary of the Port Commission of New Orleans in a letter to Chief Scott said:

"This port (New Orleans) had a fire boat, the 'Samson,' which was a converted tugboat, and, of course, was merely a makeshift. The Commissioners realized that they were running great risk from loss by fire because of the lack of proper fighting facilities. We have had three big fires in the port, two of which might be termed disasters; at one time the Illinois Central terminals were almost completely destroyed by fire, the fire lasting for several days; the Texas and Pacific terminals suffered the same fate. About two years ago we had a human life and physical properties, too, at the harbor, as the New Orleans boat protects that port. There are easily twenty miles of waterfront here. The old boat we have goes only eight miles an hour, and under maximum pressure throws a two-inch stream of water about 150 feet. This means 2200 gallons of water a minute only. The new boat, which we can have if the bonds carry, travels twenty-six miles an hour; throws 15,000 gallons of water a minute carrying about thirty streams of water. It throws the water in six-inch streams for 600 feet. The difference in speed alone, in the event of a large fire, might mean the difference of whether the entire harbor would be completely destroyed or saved.

loss of $200,000 or $300,000, and then again in 1922 we had a $2,000,000 fire which destroyed the wharves of the Army Supply Base.

"Finally we engaged the services of naval architects to design us a boat which would be the last word in fire boats. Naturally we were anxious to have the latest type and I can assure you that we have a boat of which everybody is proud."

Chief Scott in commenting on the experience of New Orleans and outlining the similar protection that will be given to Los Angeles Harbor by an adequate fire boat said:

"Forty years ago we pushed fire wagons by hand, then by horse power, and now we have modern, high-powered, adequate fire engines, motor driven, but our single fire boat at the harbor remains in the class of the old hand-pushed fire engine.

"We propose to have a fire boat that will be table to take care of

Rent Prospect Robs Landlady of Rich Gems

Compelling Mrs. Eva Long, landlady of a rooming-house at 443 West Temple street, to enter a small closet of an unoccupied room, a robber took three diamond rings valued at $165 from her, closed the closet door and fled, according to her report to the police.

The robber inquired about renting a room, Mrs. Long said. She led the way into the unoccupied room and turned to find a revolver pointed at her. She entered the closet at the man's command but got the door open and telephoned the police when she heard him leave the room.

LOOKING FORWARD
Parties fare better when they take up with candidates who have futures rather than pasts.

CLEANING UP
This should be a nice, shiny country. Calvin Coolidge is sweeping a lot of it that was reasonably clean already.

FITTING THE CRIME
An Oklahoma woman shot a neighbor for listening in on her phone. That is a splendid system, but it has not yet been sanctioned by the Supreme Court.

THE GOSSIPS
There was a day in Rome when those who bore false witness were hurled from the top of the Tarpeian rock. If they would pitch a few from the apex of the Washington Monument it might serve as a warning and example for the tale-bearers of today.

LOOKING BACKWARD
Chauncey M. Depew, at the age of 90, is still going strong and attending to a certain amount of business every day. He threatens to take up golf when he gets old, but says the time is not yet. He calls it an old man's game. It's a fine sport for centenarians. The veteran still takes an interest in politics, although it is nearly fifty years since he missed his best chance for the Presidency.

PINCHOT REBUKED
Gov. Pinchot has on several occasions essayed to harry the administration of President Coolidge. He has not been definitely hostile, but he attempted to place the blame for the boosiness of Pennsylvania upon the Federal authorities and later he induced Senator Cousens to hire Heney as a private attorney to badger the Secretary of the Treasury. Now the voters of Pennsylvania have shown what they think of these snippish tactics. Gov. Pinchot wanted to go as a delegate to the Republican convention at Cleveland. He agreed to abide by instructions to vote for Coolidge, but the citizens of the Keystone State were not satisfied with his record and when Ralph Strassberger announced himself as a candidate against the Governor the voters snowed the Governor under. Coolidge holds the key to the Keystone State.

OF ONE SPEECH
One of the great surprises which America offers to the traveler from Europe is that the people of Maine and Michigan speak the same tongue. The Nebraska man can talk to the New Yorker without calling in an interpreter and the Californians and Carolinians have common speech—or is it uncommon? Anyhow, the surprise is furnished by the fact that over a country so vast and variant but one language prevails and can be understood by all officialdom. In Europe one may encounter half a dozen different tongues in a day's journey and the average citizen may not understand the speech of his neighbor across the river. It is true that in one ward in New York more languages are spoken than in any other spot in the world, but the fact remains that the native-borns in Vermont, Missouri and Arizona all grow up into a perfect understanding. There are slight differences of speech and idiom in different sections, but one grammar suffices for all. That is why the English tongue is destined to be the ultimate speech of the white peoples.

POINTS OF VIEW
If we are perfectly honest about it we must admit that some of the reasons why the Japanese are not welcomed in numbers is that they exhibit qualities we prefer to admire in ourselves. They are industrious, thrifty and capable. While they were content to minister to our wants and care for our gardens—they were desirables. But when they sought to enter business for themselves, to buy and lease lands and engage in merchandise, they were not so welcome.

Their tirelessness and frugality made them difficult competitors. They were willing to work twelve to sixteen hours a day and could support themselves on half the cost of the upkeep of an American home. We admire industry and thrift, but if it is directed against ourselves we don't want it.

Yet the impasse is chiefly a matter of complexion. Because of a difference in the color of the skin two great races must be jealous and suspicious of each other. They seem unable to reach a plane of understanding. The unconscious superiority which the white people hold over other races is matched by the race sensitiveness displayed by the yellow brother.

English-speaking nations do not feel like encouraging matrimonial alliance with the Japanese, nor would the proud sons of the Samurai wed the daughters of America. Unless peoples may freely intermarry without leaving a bad taste in the mouth they cannot well become companions and associates. The Japanese do not admit Americans into full fellowship as landholders, citizens and equals. They cannot, therefore, righteously resent any restrictions we have to make relating to themselves.

POLICE BONDS VITAL
Providing police protection for a large modern city has grown to be an advanced science. The lawless elements are well organized, are skillful and vigilant. To keep the peace successfully a municipality must provide a police force, better organized, more skillful and more vigilant than its public enemies.

It takes both brains and money to accomplish this.

Los Angeles is a large, modern city, facing at present this problem in an aggravated form. For two years after the conclusion of the war the criminal element made rapid strides, while our defense forces stood still or in some respects even retrograded.

Then the citizens organized a Crime Commission and persuaded August Vollmer, a scientific expert, to take charge of the situation in Los Angeles. The necessary brain power being thus acquired, our police department started to make real progress in the ceaseless war with crime.

But in its police equipment Los Angeles is twenty years behind the times. It still employs the small-town centralized system, serviceable enough for a pueblo, but utterly inadequate for the world's fastest-growing metropolitan city.

Our population increases at a phenomenal rate, yet for many years no substantial addition has been made to our police machinery. In area Los Angeles is spreading its homes and streets over acres of landscape that a few years ago were ranches and orchards and unimproved property. All this wealth and extent of our greater Los Angeles must be cared for from a central police station that every year is more hopelessly outdistanced by the march of bricks and mostar and by the incumbrance of congested thoroughfares.

Police Chief Vollmer's plan for dividing this at present unmanageable area into suitable police divisions, each with its own substation, is the only feasible one for giving all sections of the city—no matter though they be out on the farthest fringe of the advance—that thorough protection to which they are justly and properly entitled. Substations cannot be built unless the citizens are willing to provide the necessary money.

Proposition Number 5 on the ballot, submitted to the voters on May 6, calls for the issuance of bonds in the sum of $1,600,000 with which to provide additional divisional police stations and other necessary equipment for the police department.

In the interest of self-protection—the first law of nature; for the safety of the home and the family; for the duty we owe to the community of which we are a part; for the sake of the moral cleanliness without which a city, no matter how rich and prosperous, is doomed; for home and city and righteousness our citizens should vote the small sum required to secure for high and low alike the blessing of liberty protected by law.

Our police face a crisis that can be met only by the voting of these bonds.

At a conservative estimate, loss in this city through burglaries, robberies, autothefts, hold-ups and other crimes exceeds $6,000,000 yearly—nearly four times the value of the bonds asked for. Carrying the bonds means the building of eleven new divisional police stations, each at a carefully selected strategic spot. Such distribution alone will secure every section of the city an equalized police protection.

But the work of Chief Vollmer is not confined to mechanical equipment and a scientific systematizing of the campaign against crime in Los Angeles. He is devoting equal attention to the human factor that enters into the marshaling of an ideal force of law defenders. He recognizes also that in dealing with crime an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

So he has submitted a set of recommendations to the Police Commission to add to the proficiency of the Los Angeles force by the creation of a new crime prevention division and by a series of tests and examination to secure for service only the type of man who is fitted to fill positions on which the whole safety of the city depends.

Surely every citizen on May 6 will back the efforts of this able and honest and hard-working police chief by affording him the reasonable financial assistance needed to carry work so well begun to a successful conclusion.

STUDYING THE NEWSPAPER
Mercer University, Macon, Ga., is the only university in the world which requires that every student it graduates must have taken a course in journalism. Among other important studies students may pick and choose, but it is the theory of Rufus W. Weaver, president of the school, that every young person the university turns out in its efforts to better the world should be well informed of the responsibilities, duties and opportunities for public service which lie uniquely within the province of newspapers and grounded in both the ideals and technic of newspaper making.

President Weaver believes those efforts tend toward better newspapers in the South and also better-informed readers, more capable of judging the practices of the papers they read. And both together, he is convinced, will mean better and more progressive citizenship.

The idea is a bit novel, yet certainly there is much to be said for it. For what else touches the lives of individuals and communities like the newspapers to which they must look for information? If its local and telegraphic news sources are the most reliable obtainable it is the source of information on which intelligent men and women can build up their own theories of men and things, but if its news sources are sensational, vulgar and prejudiced its readers must inevitably arrive at incorrect and injurious conclusions. If its editorial policies are founded in an earnest desire for national and community welfare its readers may safely be guided by its facts, no matter whether or not they agree with its political opinions. But if its policies are marked by frequent catch-penny or catch-sensation shifts of front any trained observer soon must see through its misleading pretensions.

In making the study of newspaper-making compulsory, while other important studies are elective, this Georgia university definitely recognizes the newspapers as a great force for welfare and progress. And it is right. The proper study of mankind is the dynamics of man's forward march.

THE RENTERS
In New York City the authorities exempted new tenements and apartments from assessment for 1923. The idea was to stimulate the building program and reduce rents. Now it is known that the landlords pocketed the saving and made the rents higher than ever. The only sure way to bring down rents is to have more houses than people.

Germany: "I Accept Der Rescue Mit Reservations"

[Protected by George Matthew Adams]

EASIER SAID THAN DONE
Olga Petrova, author, actress and lecturer, recently had one of her speeches barred by the WOR broadcasting station in Newark.

The subject matter of the lecture was Petrova's ideas on economic independence for women. She was strongly in favor of each woman earning her own living, inasmuch as she could then remain with a husband from choice and not because he represented three square meals a day to her. Nothing very original in this, but she went further and maintained that the wife should buy the home out of her earnings and she could then be sure of having some say-so in its management.

"I have achieved economic freedom," she said. "With my own money I bought the house my husband and I live in. But I don't say my husband, my food, my house, my this, my that. It is ours. I don't have to live with my husband because he supports me, but because I want to for the reason that he makes me happy."

But the officials of the broadcasting station, while agreeing with the beautiful Olga's statements, felt that they would sound better in print than coming through the air. They might precipitate too many arguments. Besides, while it would be a simple matter for a person of her glittering talents to earn a livelihood, the average woman would have considerable difficulty in amassing the wherewithal to purchase a rooftree.

THE UNATTAINABLE
"It is better to be an unsatisfied man than a satisfied hog," said John Stewart Mill, and, of course, he was right. For a completely self-satisfied man bores everybody but himself. To be unsatisfied, however, does not mean to be discontented; it simply means that one has higher ideals than he can express.

True genius strives for perfection and never quite attains it. In the greatest works are flaws and imperfections, of which the authors are aware, even though those works are acclaimed as "perfect." Hearing holy music, or the ocean's rhythmic roar, most minds think thoughts inexpressible in words, on canvas or in marble.

Yet because we cannot attain perfection is no reason why we should not strive and keep on striving. The human imperfections in our works may accentuate their worth. The smaller the flaw the more valuable the diamond, but if your diamond has no flaw it is not a diamond. It is the savagery which Gothic architects tried to keep out of their buildings that constitutes cathedral grandeur.

To be unsatisfied, therefore, is not to be unsuccessful. What really constitutes greatness, the thing that really distinguishes genius from mediocrity, in literature, art, music, science, anything, is invention.

When judging of a product of mind Ruskin's rule is the right one to follow: "Always look for invention first and, after that, for such execution as will help the invention, and as the inventor is capable of without painful effort, and no more. Above all, demand no refinement of execution where there is no thought, for that is slaves' work, unredeemed. Rather choose rough work than smooth work, so only that the practical purpose be answered and never imagine there is reason to be proud of anything that may be accomplished by patience and sandpaper."

PROOF OFFERED
An Englishman who is looking our country over says that the business of the divorce courts proves that this is the land of the free, while the daily register of marriage licenses shows it to be easily the home of the brave. Our favorite anthem is still true to the mark.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Religion and Dancing

The Church of St. Mark-in-the-Bouwerie is to have a modern jazz organ, with a xylophone, bass and snare drums, castanets, tambourine, tom-tom, thunder roll and Chinese block. The rector, Dr. N. M. Guthrie, last week staged a religious pageant in which symbolic and esthetic dancing to the Virgin Mary was one of the features. It brought him the ire of his diocesan bishop. The rector is called new-fangled, but in reality he is rather old-fashioned. "Make a joyful noise unto the God of Israel, blow upon the trumpet, take the pleasant harp with the psaltery." "Let them praise the Lord with a dance and a new song!" The Bible is full of such exhortations and dancing is one of the most natural ways the human being has of expressing joy. Watch the untaught children around the hurdy-gurdy in the streets. And David, "after God's own heart," danced in front of the ark on one occasion.

A Hero All His Day

Louis Descours, 90-year-old veterab of the Franco-Prussian War, is decorated with a medal for saving the eighty-fourth life from the waters of the Seine. Descours was the man mentioned in the dispatches of Gen. Von Moltke to the German Emperor in 1871 during the siege of Paris. At that time he dived in the Seine several times under the concentrated musketry fire of the German troops to repair the cable between Fort Valerien and Rouen. His bravery has not waned with the growing years.

Contemptible Methods

"Let us do your thinking for you," so reads a notice sent to students of the University of Chicago, who must write a thesis before they can receive their sheepskins. The concern offers to write the thesis on any subject for a certain sum of money and relieve the students of all anxiety. The university faculty does not know what steps to take against such methods. It should not be necessary to take any steps. Conscientious students will not stoop to such degrading levels. What does it benefit a man if some one else writes his thesis? Some day or other he will be face to face with a test in actual life, when no "thinking-for-you" concern is at hand. Students who take advantage of such offers harm themselves most of all. They would always feel that their diploma was a lie.

RIPPLING RHYMES

BAD POLICY

Grocer Grimshaw blew his bundle for a gorgeous limousine and we see him roll and trundle with a high and princely mien.
Grocer Grimshaw is deserving of his car and something more; with a diligence unswerving he has labored in his store; while the other lads were fishing, while they sought the baseball lot, he to customers was dishing vinegar that hit the spot; he was selling tea in caddies, drawing syrup from a spout, he was selling finnan haddies and the choicer grades of kraut. Now that he is riding, stately, in a car with gilded doors, men who dealt with him till lately buy their goods at other stores. "Fdr," they sadly say, "by gravel, he must charge too much for things, if he can afford to travel in a wagon fit for kings. He must soak us when we're coming, soak us when we're going, too, if he keeps that motor humming with a rhythmical choo-choo. We must ride in rusty flivvers or on foot proceed, in pain, while the sunshine floats and quivers on the grocer's gaudy wain. We won't buy him oils and gases, tubes or casings any more, and we'll purchase our molasses at some other grocer's store." So old Grimshaw, in his splendor has his hours of grief, I ween; there's a dearth of legal tender, there's a shortage of long green.

HOW SEVEN AMERICANS HAVE WON THE NOBEL PRIZE

BY RANSOME SUTTON

Dr. Theodore William Richards won the Nobel prize for work in chemistry; Dr. Alex Carrel for work in medicine; Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root and Woodrow Wilson for distinguished services in the cause of peace; Dr. A. A. Michelson for demonstrating, not mathematically but with physical apparatus, the speed of light, and Dr. Robert A. Millikan for determining the charge of electricity carried on an electron.

Before Dr. Millikan made his experiments it had been discovered that the atoms of the eighty-eight known elements are all composed of one and the same kind of electric units (atoms of electricity.) It was also known that electrons are unit charges of naked, negative electricity, just as protons are naked charges of positive electricity, but the exact value of the charge was not known. Millikan found a way to measure the charge—to determine in terms of horsepower how much electric energy is carried by each of the tiny units composing the planets, suns, stars and clouds of firemist in the Milky Way.

Millikan's task was difficult, for he was working with objects 1,000,000 times too small to be seen through the most powerful microscopes. How infinitesimally small electrons are may be judged by the fact that a piece of radium no larger than the head of a pin, which is forever throwing off a shower of electrons in all directions, will last for about 50,000 years. There are not figures enough in the arithmetic to enumerate the number of electrons in a grain of sand. You will understand that it took real genius to think out a way whereby a single electron could be captured and made to show how much of the universal fund of electricity it represented. You will also understand it is not easy to describe such things without using technical terms, because an "ohm," for example, has no synonym, and the whole science of physics is involved in abstract terms and conceptions to which average readers are unaccustomed. Even doctors have a language of their own, but their talk is commonplace compared with that of physicists. But I am going to try to give a general idea of Millikan's method.

Let's call his air condenser a box—a thin box, like that in which a sheet of glass is packed, lying flat upon a table. The sides of this thin box consist of brass, insulated from each other, so the upper side can be charged with negative electricity, without charging the lower side. The upper side has a pinhole in the middle, and the box is filled with air which has been bombarded with X-rays and the air molecules broken up into electrical units. The box has tiny windows in it, so the observer, using a small telescope, can see what is going on inside. Cross-hairs on the lens, at the end of the telescope, assist in measuring movements taking place inside the box; for, while looking at a particle afloat in the "ionized" air one can see whether it rises above or falls below any of the hair-lines.

That box, with its brass sides connected with an electric battery, the telescope and an atomizer, like those used in spraying noses, constituted Millikan's principal equipment.

Above the box he sprayed a small cloud of oil mist and the droplets gradually settled down upon the upper surface of the box; but a few of the droplets sank through the pinhole and found their way into the inside of the box. There, in the condensed "ionized" air, each oil droplet, illumined against a black background, could be seen through the telescope as plainly as a star against the midnight sky.

At the time the droplet entered the box it carried a charge of electricity; for, whenever you blow oil out of an atomizer, it rubs against the side of the atomizer's glass tube and the friction charges it, just as you charge a comb by rubbing it against cloth. Now, as everybody knows, positive charges repel positive charges, and negative charges also repel negative charges, but the two kinds always attract each other. Likes repel, and unlikes attract.

When a positively charged droplet fell into the box it would keep on falling until it struck bottom, unless sooner stopped. Millikan stopped it by switching on the negative current connected with the upper side of the box. Then the droplet, instead of falling lower, began to rise—the positive electricity in it being attracted by the negative electricity in the upper side of the box. The rapidity of its rise could be determined by the length of time it took to pass from one of the cross-hairs to another, a stop-watch being used to keep count of the time. As soon as the current was turned off the droplet ceased to rise and again began to descend. It was thus made to move up and down at will.

An important fact to have in mind is this: the rise of the droplet varied, but the variations in speed were strangely regular. If it took two seconds to rise in one instance it would take four, six, eight or ten seconds in other instances, the differences always being an exact multiple of the minimum period. Discovering this fact, Millikan realized he was dealing with law—otherwise there would have been fractional differences in the speed of rise. Instead of accelerating from slow speed to fast speed gradually it leaped from low to intermediate, then jumped to high, always increasing its speed by some exact multiple of the minimum velocity. It was always double, treble or quadruple the minimum speed, never fractional gradations. It was like adding one or more whole horses, never half-horses, to a team.

Millikan concluded, therefore, that the minimum speed occurred only when the droplet carried a single electronic charge; the rate of speed was exactly double when it carried two electrons and so on.

From data of this kind, that the rise of the droplet was slow or fast according to the number of electrons it carried up, he was able to calculate the exact value of the unit charge or the amount of electricity carried by a single electron.

Dr. Millikan's work goes to show, it confirms, in a remarkable manner, that matter consists of separate and distinct particles. He proved what was suspected. In granting the Nobel prize his work in connection with electric effects was stressed, but it was his work on the electron that won the prize.

When a man who has done such work speaks everybody listens. Millikan says we are about to witness three revolutionary changes of mind over matter: harnessing the sun's energy, the instantaneous transmission of electricity and the development of an atomic explosion engine. Whoever gives the secret of these three things first will be sure of being awarded the Nobel prize, with its $40,000 cash, and the gratitude of intellectual mankind. No human genius could give to mankind a greater gift than control over the wasted energies of the sun.

I believe we already have the beginnings of a sun motor. Tesla, who invented by Sir William Crookes, the same man who discovered thallium, almost uncanny genius, has discovered the element helium. What I call his sun motor is also called a radiometer.

You can see radiometers in the windows of opticians' stores. They look like electric bulbs with four vanes turning inside, like a miniature merry-go-round. The thing that goes 'round is a mill; this goes 'round and the mill its motion is radiant energy. The Century Dictionary says it is "an instrument which transforms radiant energy into mechanical motion." It consists of four arms, with small disks at the end, one side of the disks being black. The bulb is a partial vacuum, and when sunlight, or even dark radiation from a warm body, fall upon the vanes the vanes revolve at a speed that increases with the intensity of the rays. The rays that strike the black sides of the disks are absorbed and, by reason of this absorption, the black surfaces become more heated than the other surfaces, for the unblackened surfaces do not absorb the rays. Then the agitated molecules of the air, remaining in the bulb, strike the vanes they bound away from the heated side more violently than from the cooler sides, thus causing the black surfaces to "lead" and makes the vanes go round.

No difference how many times you may shove our hands back, we jerk them away more rapidly. If we step on a pin we leap away with a yell. The kick of the molecules rebounding from the black surfaces of the vanes, push them around, just as the push and pull of electricity cause the armature of an electric motor to revolve. Then we have the sun's energy being utilized by the medium of rarefied air to perform mechanical work, but it requires work to turn the wheels. That is not the secret of sun motor construction, therefore, how is it done in the radiometer? For some years Crookes's vacuum tubes were used simply to test the effects of the current of electricity on "paper." Then Roentgen realized that the fluorescence on the walls of the tube, which Crookes saw but paid no attention to, was caused by the rays which (having no name) he called X-rays. In the same way the radiometer has been used for some other purpose than to illustrate the mechanical effects of rarefied air, the bombarding molecules of gas, but Roentgen might devote the radiometer into a veritable sun motor. From a falling apple Newton learned the law of gravitation; from boiling water in a kettle Watt learned to harness the power of steam. Little things have led to large things. And we have already learned from the radiometer, exhibited in the show windows of opticians that radiant energy can be transformed into useful mechanical work. If a radiometer will do a small amount of work, there seems to be no reason why a large one would not do a large amount of work.

To young men of ambition who wish some day to win the Nobel prize, the radiometer is recommended as a really meritorious device well worth careful study. It is a simple device now used to show that light do mechanical work. It is a positive sun motor.

DRY AGENTS TAKEN FOR HOOCH MEN

Declare They Bought Load of Moonshine at Torrance; Three Arrests

For the second time George Contreras and his squad of dry agents, operating under Dist.-Atty. Keyes, have been taken for bootleggers, according to a report made Saturday by Contreras.

The report stated that Contreras and his squad were prowling Torrance on Friday, looking for what they might see, or smell, such as corn liquor or synthetic gin, when a machine drew up to the curb. The investigators espied something that looked suspiciously like bottles in the tonneau of the car.

"Is this the stuff?" said Contreras.

"It is," replied one of two men. "Drive around the block and I'll meet you," said Contreras.

The two men did as told and were placed under arrest after the investigators, according to the report, had paid them $10 on account. It was reported that five gallons of moonshine were seized. The men gave names of Ed Cook and J. E. Clark. Their arrest was followed by that of Dick Barber, who was accused of possession of seventy-five gallons of liquor. All three were accused of conspiracy to violate the Wright Act and were lodged in the County Jail until they furnish bail.

SAYS HOOCH INVOKED AS ALTAR LURE

Woman is Granted Annulment, Warned to Look Twice Next Time

Testimony that she was plied with strong drink and then led to the altar by Mac M. Brown won a decree of annulment of her marital bonds for Kate Brown. The unusual case was heard before Judge C. J. Luttrell, sitting in extra session in the local Superior Court.

Mrs. Brown said she married Brown January 24, last, and left him the next day when she "regained consciousness enough to learn what had transpired."

Indirectly Mrs. Brown blamed her unwelcome venture into matrimony on her desire to find a job. She said she called at an employment agency January 23, last, seeking a position, and that the woman in charge told her she had an opening and took Mrs. Brown to the home of her husband-to-be.

When they arrived at Brown's house, the witness continued, the defendant mixed up what purported to be a soft drink, but Mrs. Brown said that upon her drinking the potion she lapsed into a semiconscious condition from which she did not entirely recover for five days. While she was so afflicted, Mrs. Brown testified, Brown induced her to accompany him to the Courthouse, where they were married. Mrs. Brown declared she did not know what she was doing. Next day, Mrs. Brown said, she temporarily regained her senses, and as soon as she realized what had occurred, she left Brown. Her testimony was corroborated in part by her former room-mate.

In granting an annulment, Judge Luttrell advised the plaintiff hereafter to look twice before taking a drink.

SINLESS SAVIOR CRUCIFIED WILLINGLY FOR SINNERS

Dr. MacMahon Tells KHJ Throng Wonderful Story of Christ's Tryst With Death

Picturing the sinless Savior voluntarily entering the city in which He knew that He should meet death at the hands of men He came to redeem, Dr. E. T. MacMahon, prominent Congregationalist minister, preached to the KHJ audience yesterday morning from The Times broadcasting station.

Dr. MacMahon, who, with his family, recently came to Los Angeles to live, purchasing a beautiful home at 824 North Ridgewood Place, was the builder, and for nine years pastor of the famous Nottingham Congregational Church at Cleveland, O.

Taking his text from Luke ix., 51; "And it came to pass when the time was come when that He should be received up, He steadfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem," Dr. MacMahon spoke in part as follows:

"One of the remarkable things in the history of Israel was the way the nation clung to the idea of kingship. Notwithstanding constant disappointment, weakness, folly, oppression and even shameful sin among many of their kings, the Israelites never abandoned the hope and expectation that one day their king would come to his kingdom and that once more the throne of David would be established in righteousness. And they believed the king's reign would be glorious, that he would reign, rule in the spirit of justice, mercy, peace and good will.

EXPECTED DEATH

"We are reminded by the text that Jesus knew He was going to the cross. Mark tells us that as the disciples were on the way to Jerusalem, as they followed Him, they were afraid. When Jesus spoke of 'being received up' He simply meant man's elevation of Him on the cross and God's elevation of Him on the throne. The author of the Epistle to the Hebrews, thinking what the cross of Jesus stood for, admonishes his friends 'Let us lay aside every weight and the sins which so easily beset us and let us run with patience the race that is set before us.'

"The vision of the cross always cast a shadow upon the life of the Master. At the beginning of His ministry, He said, 'Destroy this temple and in three days I will raise it up again.' Later on He said to Nicodemus, 'As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the son of man be lifted up, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life.'

CROSS IS CLIMAX

"It is well to remember that the cross was not the end, but the consummation, the climax, the center-point of His life work. He went to the cross not as a hero, not as a patriot, not as a martyr, but as the Savior of men. He was willing to make the supreme sacrifice.

"He went to Jerusalem to precipitate the collision with the priests, Scribes and Pharisees and to make His crucifixion sure. He was willing to approach the danger zone for He knew that His time of humiliation and exaltation was near at hand. He cleansed the temple by driving the traders and money-changers outside its sacred precincts and excoriated those temple leaders who sold concessions for a price.

KING OF SOULS

"Jesus is hurrying to make the great sacrifice for sin, but he comes into Jerusalem as a king, riding upon the humble beast of burden. He comes as King of a spiritual kingdom, a kingdom in the hearts of men, a kingdom before which all earthly empires shall fade away. Yet He comes not with the trappings and glory of an oriental rule, but in accordance with prophecy as the Prince of Peace. He comes the victorious King, for He has conquered Himself. 'The marks of the conquest are upon His character.' And those who become citizens of this kingdom shall come out more than conquerors through Him who loves them and gave Himself for them."

ACTUAL SUCCESS IS DEFINED BY PASTOR

Rev. William C. Isett, pastor of Amanda Chapel, preached yesterday on "Real Success." He defined true successes as follows:

"Success has two essential elements: First, the motive which shapes our character and conduct and, second, the benefit conferred upon humanity. It is not measured by the generation in which one lives. Wealth either may or may not enter into it. It is not essential. But power is a vital part of success. Joseph was as much of a success when, as a bondslave in the house of Potiphar, he had nothing he could call his own, as he was when ruler of Egypt. In order that we may make our lives successful our motive must be to act out our part for the glory of God. Any purpose less than royal, and less enduring than eternity—forgetting the present in the future—will not bring the success of which we are capable. Our every act should be resplendent with regal purpose; mastery of every circumstance of life, however trivial. Success will follow the person who, because he is a son of God through Jesus Christ, who overcame the world, manifests his royalty by rising superior to all circumstances for the sake of his own dignity and the glory of his God; who, with love to his fellow men, regardless of nationality, character or conduct, gives the wealth of his rich personality, and the wisdom of his God-given intellect to the wise uplift of humanity."

MEANING OF SUCCESS TOLD BY DR. FRANCIS

Dr. J. A. Francis preached at the First Baptist Church yesterday on "What is Success and How May it be Attained?" He said:

"Success has been called the American God. Whether this fling at us is true or not, I will not discuss. I am more concerned that we have a true idea of success. If we aim at the right thing, we cannot aim at it too earnestly. Anything in this universe is a success only when it fulfils the end of its creation; not otherwise. So that before answering our question, we are forced back to the previous question, what are we here for, what was the purpose of our creation? The true answer to this will put us on the track of real success. We were certainly not created simply to accumulate and surround ourselves with a lot of life's material baggage, called property, to minister to our material comfort. We were not created that we might achieve what is called fame, simply to be widely known and have many speak our names. We were not created to have power over our fellows. Each of us was created with a view to a real relation to the larger whole, and that larger while includes both God and all our fellows. He is the greatest success who pleases God best by doing the most good to the most people. The problem of your life and mine is to see how far we can make this brief span of our stretch to serve in real uplifting and forward-looking ways for the men our day and those of tomorrow. One fundamental thing must be observed; our service and influence cannot be any better than we are. The first element in every good piece of work is a good man or woman back of it."

WORSHIP CALLED INSTINCT OF MAN

Dr. Bruce Brown, pastor of the South Park Christian Church, preached yesterday on "The Church and Its Needs." He said in part:

"If the church should fall and perish from earth there would still be some form of worship for this instinct is ingrained in the nature of man and no one completely escapes its urge. However, the church cannot fall if it represents and exemplifies eternal and unchangeable truth. If divine wisdom has not manifested itself to the understanding of man, if the Bible does not express this wisdom then man, like the vine on the ground, must lay hold of any stick or weed for support. The certain truth of all the ages is that the Bible, honestly applied, fits into all of our needs and answers the deepest questions of the soul. The church that meets present-day needs must incarnate in its faith and practice the plan of the Supreme Architect. Speculation and tradition must be left behind and love and truth must be exemplified. The lifting high of the ideals that have been the inspiration of all progress is of far more importance than the making of laws that will soon be repealed if there is not a passionate impulse of unselfishness that impels their enforcement. If we develop a nation of good men we shall have good laws and good government. The best laws ever enacted are futile in the hands of selfish people."

EDWARD BOK'S BOOK PRAISED BY MAGNIN

Rabbi E. F. Magnin spoke at the Temple B'nai B'rith last Friday on "A Book Worth While." In praise of Mr. Bok's work, he said:

"The Americanization of Edward Bok" is a book that every American ought to read. To the native born American it brings the lesson of tolerance, good will and an appreciation of what the immigrants have done in the development of American life and institutions. To the foreign-born it demonstrates the opportunity for self-betterment in this land of freedom and the duties that every newcomer owes this commonwealth. To youth, it comes with a message of inspiration and ambition, for it emphasizes the virtues of thrift, hard work, and persistence. To those more advanced in life it preaches the gospel of service and civic responsibility and the duty to retire while one is still healthy, so as to be free to give one's country, State and city the best that is in one to give. Moreover, the book is an impassioned plea for universal peace and good will, not alone among the inhabitants of our land but throughout the world."

PREDICTS COMING OF BRIGHTER DAY

James Cullen Watt of Toronto, Can., spoke at the Trinity Auditorium yesterday, under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association.

"Armageddon in the Hebrew," said Mr. Watt, "means 'Mountain of destruction.' It was famous in the days of Israel as a battlefield. It was here that the first King of Israel, Saul, met a defeat and death at the hands of the Philistines. It was here that Gideon defeated the Midianites and released Israel from bondage. This victory pointed forward to the release of all mankind, by our Lord Jesus, whom Gideon pictured. Our Lord has seen fit to associate the name of this battlefield with the final conflict between truth and error, right and wrong, God and Mammon, with which this age will close and the Messianic age of blessing be ushered in. We note the war-like setting in a time of world-wide discontent and distress and at the very close of the age, and from every nation on earth comes the evidence that such a catastrophe is inevitable. The false shepherds of the flock have worshiped with their lips instead of their hearts. Satan's empire is being destroyed—and the kingdom of heaven is about to be established."

SWORD OF CHRIST CLEAVES SHAMS

Rev. E. F. Daugherty preached at the First Christian Church yesterday on "The Sword of Christ." He said, in part:

"It's a troublesome text for the pacifists when the words of Jesus are quoted: 'Think not that I came to send peace on the earth; I came not to send peace but a sword,' for the sword has agelessly been the symbol of war.

"Christ's work in the world has always been the arousal of protest, the quickening of indignation, the inspiration of antagonism. The vested selfish interests of His day found themselves arrayed against Him, and as long as there are foes that swarm against the soul, so long will strife, antagonism, division and struggle be aroused by the incoming of the Master's point of view for He was manifested to take away men's sins, and to destroy the devil's works.

"His sword is not an instrument of war, but the truth of his lips, of which prophets had testified. The searching, penetrating, cleaving words of Christ, seek out the joints of armored selfishness, and pierce to the dividing asunder of joints and marrow. He thrust out the sword of His truth into the most cherished conservatisms of His day, and it pierced through all disguises and shams and pretenses and subterfuges to the heart of things. Only on the foundations of righteousness, which He is concerned to clear for the world's building, can there rise the Temple of Peace in which men are to foregather.

"If the point-blank question is pressed 'Should a Christian ever fight with actual weapons?' the only rational answer is 'Only, as a last resort.'"

HUMILITY'S GLORY IS LAUDED BY PREACHER

Dr. C. T. Cutting of Philadelphia, Pa., preached at the Church of the New Jerusalem yesterday on "Humility." He said, in part:

"The two good ruling loves are, love to the Lord and love to the neighbor. The two evil ruling loves are, the love of self and the love of the world. Man left to himself, naturally gravitates toward the evil loves—the desire to please self—to acquire riches—the passion for pleasure and what wealth makes possible and the love of power and to rule. From the cradle we are taught that greatness is ours for the seeking, if we have self-assurance, determination and live accord with moral or civil law. Not the Lord's will but ours, is the accepted slogan of the day. So man forgets the Lord, the 'giver of every good and perfect gift;' forgets that without Him we can do nothing. Moral law has always failed to keep man in order and it is failing today. Note the world chaos. The only real success; the only greatness, comes from obedience to God's law, acknowledging that it is His spirit in us alone that makes it possible for us to accomplish anything worth while in the world."

"VALUE OF FAITH" IS SERMON TOPIC

Dr. H. C. Culbertson, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church, in a sermon yesterday on "The Value of Faith," said:

"What is faith? The facetious boy says, 'Faith is believing what you know ain't so.' The narrow-minded dogmatist says, 'Faith is a system of doctrines which you must believe or be a heretic.' Paul says, 'Faith is assurance of things hoped for, a conviction of things not seen,' or, as we might paraphrase it, 'Faith is the consecrated imagination working victoriously.' We are told it was by faith that God created the worlds. God had a great vision, a great dream for the creation, and made all things confidently believing in the ultimate realization of that dream. Faith is not contrary to knowledge but it reaches out beyond knowledge. Every inventor and scientific discoverer works by faith, imagining the carrying out of certain known laws and principles into larger applications. It is by a similar power in religion that we build upon our knowledge of the principles and laws which we observe in the world about us, and by the gift of faith are able to see and interpret above and beyond our knowledge, to the existence and nature of God and the immortality of the soul; to have a personal faith or confidence in Jesus and His teachings; and to take our share in carrying out and making real God's vision for our lives and for the world."

The Woman and Her Job

SANS PERSONALITY

I'd always had a sneaking idea that personality was an important factor in the success of women until last summer. And then I met Minnie. I can't think of anybody more capable of unsettling one's beliefs. She just wasn't anything like she should be.

I knew about her before she came out here. She was a remote-in-law of former neighbors of mine. They didn't like her mother. You know what that means!

Minnie's family was poverty poor. Poverty is merely an incident with some people; their instinctive grace and refinement will shine through as the sun banishes the fog. But her folks were not that sort. The children always were cheap, coarse, drab clothes and clumsy shoes—you know the kind.

At fifteen Minnie went to work in a bargain basement of a cheap store. She had that drab yellow hair, thick and long, with a straggling lock that hung loosely back of one ear. Take pale lips, a muddy skin, a good-sized lump of sullenness, and a pinch of worry, mix well, and you'll have Minnie.

Presently she rose to an aisle table of cheap laces on the main floor. When business was dull she'd dash behind the counter and help there. The buyer observed her intensity and laid off two of his girls—Minnie could do the work—and the saving in salaries helped his department show a profit.

How she worked in those days! Always on the jump—with her skirt and waist trying desperately to part company!

She knew her stock; presently she knew qualities; a little later she began to develop a passion for textures—exquisite designs. Not that her store carried them, but she bought samples of delicate handicraft woven by the slim fingers of cloistered sisters in Continental convents.

The buyer was always finding fault—it kept her from asking for a raise—and laid more burdens on her shoulders. She did the work; he drew the pay. She hated him, and sullenness became her fixed expression. Death reached out a fleshless hand and laid it on his shoulder. "Come with me," he whispered, and the buyer went. Now Minnie drew the pay.

A vacancy occurred in a large store in the retail district. "We need a lace buyer," said the merchandise manager to a lace jobber. "There's one down at Blinkum's —" offered the jobber. "Not for us," objected the manager. "Knows lace better than any woman in the United States," insisted the jobber.

They didn't like her looks, but—she knew lace. They offered her $6000 a year. She made the department pay. It was dead before she took it.

Several years later, a bigger and better store reached out and gathered her in at a bigger and better salary. She was sent abroad to buy. On her own initiative she brought back other than lace—novelties she believed would sell. Each year she enlarged her field, and her salary ran up to $10,000.

Two years ago she went with a New York house at $15,000 a year. She's probably nearing forty now. Goes to the Orient every other year, and to Europe every spring.

Her hair still straggles—it's a thick drab ropy knot at the back of her head, held insecurely with a couple of pins thrust in hurriedly. Her clothes are of good quality—badly worn. Her shoes are heavy, and—sensible. No nonsense about Minnie. Her expression is sullen, and worried. She humps over when she walks—you know what I mean.

There's no doubt about her success. There's no question about her handicaps, either.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Dear Anna:

You know, of course, that you will not be able to earn as much in factory work as you will as a maid. Have you thought about the cost of your clothing, board and room and carfare? You have saved money, you tell me; I doubt if you will be able to do that if you take up factory work—certainly not until you become skilled in the work. Girls who have done chocolate dipping tell me they like the work, and that it pays well when one is experienced. Certainly there always seems a big demand. If you wish to learn, I would suggest that you go and talk with the man or woman who hires the help in some of the big candy factories. You can get the names of these in the back of the telephone directory.

My Dear Lucile:

If you must prepare yourself quickly for commercial work, why not learn to operate a billing machine, take a course in filing, or some one of the calculating machines. These courses take about six weeks, and I believe that would be the quickest way for you to make a start. You need something definite to begin with; once you have secured employment you should go into night school and study bookkeeping or stenography so that you may enlarge your opportunities for advancement.

What I would do if I had ONE YEAR TO LIVE!

BY POLA NEGRI

POLA NEGRI

I am not afraid to die. Life to me is an adventure, and death is a portal through which I shall pass to infinitely greater adventures. I cannot honestly say that the certainty of meeting death within the year would cause me to change my way of living very much. Doubtless I should forget some of my lesser aims and concentrate more earnestly upon those I hold of greater import. Upon the turning pages of my life I should strive to write more clearly, with surer judgment, the last words of my story. Pola Negri, the actress, would remain so to the end.

My faith in death as a beginning, rather than an end, is something I cannot explain. It is deeper than reason; intangible as a dream, yet firm because of the faith which inspires it.

If I had a year to live, I would prepare, as my chief riches in another world, the thought that I had done my best in this.

ALBINO PARTRIDGE BAGGED

An albino partridge mounted, is exhibited here by George Suggs and Albert Rountree. Shot some miles from this city, it was one of a covey, conventionally covered, but was the only white bird in the flock, says a Kingston (N. C.) dispatch to the New York World. It is almost entirely white, a few feather tips only showing the familiar brown of the species.

The bird has aroused keen interest on the part of Eugene Wood, the coroner and noted sportsman, who last year claimed to have discovered a flock of white crows near Grifton.

Ancient "Bronze" is Copper

Chemical analyses have revealed that much of the so-called bronze found in ancient ruins of monuments is not bronze at all but copper of a rather high degree of purity considering the facilities for smelting the metal in those early days. This is especially the case with such objects found in the oldest Egyptian and Mesopotamian remains. On the other hand the bronze bands from the gates of the palace of Shalmaneser II are really bronze, containing about 9 per cent of tin. Copper, rather than bronze, seems to have been the earliest used metal. Iron was known to the ancient Egyptians but was so rare and costly that it was used in jewelry.—[Indianapolis News.

RESTORES PERFUME

Botanists' Method is to Interchange the Grafting of Plants

The fact that flowers are losing their scent is resulting in botanists, horticulturists and even scientists vying with each other in order to be first to discover the cause and correct the fault.

In past years the florist has been content mainly with the increase in the size and color of flowers. This hybridization or interbreeding was often made at the expense of the perfume of the bloom, for the energy of the flower was taken to make up the extra substance.

By means of an interchange of grafting, an American botanist has now succeeded in restoring to flowers their original perfume and also to intensify that scent.

The flowers to be treated are first divided into groups of the same species. In grafting wormwood on chrysanthemums, for example, both plants develop remarkably well and their flowers give off a perfume much more powerful than that of the original plant.

When the seeds of the grafted flowers are gathered and sown some unusually fine plants are obtained. Perfumed flowers are also grafted on the plants that hitherto have had no scent, and the result is the product of the grafted smells like the original.

Outside the trade few people have any conception of the extent of flowers and their relative perfumes. Of the 4,500 species of flowers cultivated in Europe, only 420 possess an agreeable smell. As a rule, those with cream colored petals are more highly scented than those of yellow, blue or red.

In cataloging the smell of flowers it was found that just over 3800 possess an offensive odor. Of the 305 varieties of violets, only thirteen gave off a pleasant smell. A few flowers possess no smell worth mention.—[A Botanist in The London Daily Mail.

Sift three cupfuls of sifted flour with one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of sugar and six level teaspoonfuls of baking powder; work into these four tablespoonfuls of butter and when like a coarse meal work to a smooth dough with one beaten egg and one and a third cupfuls of milk; divide into equal pieces, place in two buttered layer cake tins, pat out even, brush with milk and bake in fast oven twenty minutes. Turn one layer out on a hot platter, cover with a thick layer of sliced boiled chicken, cover the chicken with a layer of mayonnaise, sprinkle with four tablespoonfuls of chopped crisp cooked bacon, cover these with vegetables which have been drained and mixed with half a cupful of mayonnaise and cover with the other shortcake layer. Serve hot and garnish with parsley and ripe olives.

MONROVIA SALAD

Peel, core and cut in dice four firm apples and mix with two peeled and diced oranges, one peeled and finely diced lemon, one and a half cupfuls of peeled and diced white celery and two-thirds of a cupful of French dressing. Serve on cold plates covered with shredded crisp lettuce.

CHOCOLATE CAKE

Melt in a double boiler two squares of chocolate, three tablespoonfuls of water and one tablespoonful of sugar. Beat half a cupful of butter to a cream and beat into it one and a third cupfuls of sifted granulated sugar and beat three minutes; add the melted chocolate and beat well; add one and three-quarters cupfuls of sifted flour sifted with one teaspoonful of salt and four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add alternately one-half cup of milk and the well beaten yolks of four eggs; beat three minutes; beat in one teaspoonful of vanilla and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Bake in buttered and floured layer cake tins in a moderate oven. Cool on a wire cake rack, spread between the layers a tart jelly mixed with chopped toasted almonds and cover the top and sides with a boiled frosting, decorate with halves of toasted almonds and cover the sides with finely chopped toasted almonds.

STRAWBERRY TART

Cover a laker cake tin with a good cookie dough, fill with dry beans and bake in a moderate oven; turn out the beans and cool. Dissolve one package of strawberry jelly powder in one and a half cupful of boiling water, add half a cupful of strawberry juice and stir until it starts to harden. Fill the shell with picked, washed and dried strawberries, pour over the jelly and set in a cold dry place to harden. Serve with whipped cream if liked.

NEW CHURCH IS FOUNDED HERE

Tresevant Preaches Heatedly to But Seven Souls

Neither Prayers Nor Music Used in Services

Pastor Says His Religion Like Scientists

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Another church was founded in Los Angeles yesterday—and it is called "The Church of Divine Healing," located at 909 West Eighth street.

Its founder is Edward S. Tresevant, who tells me he preached this doctrine for twenty-one years in New York.

The large hall looked bare and empty as but seven souls gathered on this first occasion and but one man besides the pastor. But nothing daunted, Mr. Tresevant launched right into his sermon, without preliminary prayer or music.

The preacher calls his doctrine "Jesus Christ Christianity," the gospel of repentance and the remission of sins as commanded by Jesus Christ to be preached in His name. He proposes to heal all human ills through the medium of individual voluntary surrender, the rebirth of the individual spirit on the basis of "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all things of the flesh shall be added unto you."

FORMERLY A SCIENTIST

Mr. Tresevant was a Christian Scientist for three years and I gained the impression that he regards his doctrine as a further spiritual development reaching beyond, into a wider circle than the doctrine of Mrs. Eddy. The mere affirmation of universal goodness and human perfection, he implied, was stultifying, since it encouraged the mind to make no mental and spiritual effort to be "born again."

We become "perfect," our knowledge of everything is gained through painstaking application of the mind, and this, he said was more vital to our spiritual perfection than to worldly knowledge. Jesus told us to "pray without ceasing." This was not an admonition to spend our days and nights on our bended knees. Prayer, he said, was the desire in our hearts—and our human trend is to complicate the truth, when it works contrary to our intellectual concepts based upon human experiences. The desire of the heart is the prayer of the heart, and when that desire is to earnestly crave the revelations of the principles of God, all the mysteries of the spirit become simplified.

HONESTY SIMPLIFIES

Hence if we are absolutely honest with ourselves we can simplify all modern problems. But first we must ask ourselves what we really desire, at what door are we knocking—and not deceive ourselves when our desires are colored with religious hue. Thus just the "good life" that we compel ourselves to lead because of our faith in Jesus is not the "new life" itself, but based rather upon our own concept of human experiences—exalted and glorified perhaps—but not knocking at the Door of Divine Truth.

When we pray for prosperity, human love, peace, health or any material things, our mental effort may materialize these things for us, but God never answers such prayers, notwithstanding the evidence to the contrary.

The old belief that all suffering was the will of God to be borne with fortitude, he said, was one extreme, and the denial of all ills the other extreme. Man's instinctive desire to avoid the crucifixion so essential to his resurrection occasioned this contrast to the affirmation of "All is Good."

CLAIMS TO HEAL

"Your minds have been provided for a divine spiritual purpose," said the preacher, and as the child is lost in manhood, so our minds must be born into self-conscious knowledge of the Christ within us. And not until the teaching of God as taught by Jesus Christ becomes primarily the first, last and persistent desire of the heart, and therefore of prayer, can the human state attain to its noblest glories. "How can we seek another kingdom until we have convinced the mind that there is another kingdom to desire?" he asked.

The sermon closed with a call for silent meditation, after which Mr. Tresevant explained that his doctrine was "the simon-pure logic of Jesus Christ," and that his purpose was to "regenerate your souls—and afterward heal your diseases and your finances."

His emphasis throughout was the necessity "for the voluntary surrender of the flesh to crucifixion" as an essential preliminary to attaining the human perfections and material benefits that "healing" entails.

He undertakes to effect individual healings either after the services or at special appointments.

Husband Courts Another, Spouse Charges in Suit

Charges that her husband has been paying court to Irene M. Lindsay at 507 Broadway, Wilmington, were made by Mrs. Inez Bush in a divorce suit against Webster Walker Bush, filed before the Superior Court.

Bush is a prominent oil well drilling contractor of Wilmington. Community property valued at $50,000 was listed by Mrs. Bush.

The wife asked for a restraining order prohibiting Bush or Irene Lindsay from disposing of any of the assets listed as community property. She alleged that some of this property had been turned over to the other woman. The couple were married in San Francisco, December 31, 1920 and separated April 24, last.

Are mostly played by foreign gents, the SIX who head this bill
THE BELFORD BOYS (they're brothers all.) a husky bunch you'll say, Proclaim themselves AMERICANS—born in the U. S. A.

Have you seen the hula maidens on the beach at Wai-ki-ki—
Round their hips a skirt of palm grass, round their necks a lei—
Here's a fairer, sweeter maiden with the HULA-LOA OCTETTE,
And she dances—O, she dances—in a way you'll not forget.
While the ukuleles tinkle and the banjo and guitar
Softly sing of coral islands, dusky maids, and lands afar.

NOODLES FAGAN—yes, he's back. "A Fool There Is" he calls his act.
"Now keep on smiling, and don't get sore."
Noodles looks real fit and fine, he's gained 9 pounds—or maybe 8.
"Keep smiling, Noodles, and don't get sore."

Some folks there are so curious that laughter makes them furious,
And some there are so serious that fun drives them delirious.
Broadcast the message far and near,
Such folks must keep away from here
While BECKMAN BROTHERS do their act
Because—(Now note this little fact:
It isn't "should" or "ought"; but "must")
The audience will laugh—or bust.

Here's a dainty little maid, on her way to fame.
Watch for HAZEL KENNEDY—don't forget that name.

Pretty faces, winsome smiles, a fine array of clothes,
Forms to please bald-headed row, and all the other rows,
SIX VERSATILE STEPPERS—between you and me,
Each one of the SIX is so cute as can be.

LOUISE & MITCHELL will display an act that they are famed for,
Two "Belgian Wonders" from the land the Belgian hares are named for.

I asked the rent collector—sure, I thought he ought to know;
I asked the Family Baker—'cause he handles lots of dough;
I asked the theater cashier—she takes in sacks of change;
I asked the bank vice-president, and everyone in range—
But none of them had ever seen a "HALF-A-DOLLAR BILL"
So they're coming to PANTAGES where they positively will.
For ANNA NILSSON will be seen upon the silver screen
In "HALF-A-DOLLAR BILL"—the first that I have ever seen.

WHAT THE LOS ANGELES AND NEW YORK CRITICS SAY of Norma Talmadge in "Secrets"

I want to shout that all may hear that "Secrets" is Norma Talmadge's greatest picture. Leonelle Parsons, N. Y. American.

I've found the reason Miss Talmadge has such lovely dimples — they were made to catch the tears in "Secrets." Guy Price, L. A. Herald.

Without a doubt Norma Talmadge's characterization in "Secrets" surpasses anything she has ever done. L. B. Fowler, L. A. News.

"Secrets" is a perfect cinematic gem exquisitely cut and set. An irresistible as "Smilin' Through" and much more human in its realism. Pearl Ball, L. A. Express.

Women will enjoy a good cry over "Secrets." The thoughtful theater manager will allow three minutes' grace to repair makeups before turning on the lights. Ted Taylor, L. A. Record.

One of the most appealing love stories flashed across the New York screen in many a day. Thomas Hasly, N. Y. Telegraph.

BOWERY ILIAD

MARY PHILBIN, PAT O'MALLEY, CUMMINGS, TRIUMPH

By Grace Kingsley

The real screen Iliad of New York's old-time Bowery is here at last. Irving Cummings is its Homer, since he directed, and thereby established himself, in my humble opinion, as one of the great directors. It should have been called "My Mamie Rose," but with the New York office's unfailing genius for giving wrong names to pictures, it is called "Fool's Highway," and might as well have been called "Early Morning In the Sewer," or anything else, if not called something which meant something in the picture. It is on view at the California.

The picture is as full of human nature as a hotel, yet as full of romance as a girl's first kiss. In it Cummings has given us a completely fresh screen style, and one as colorful and arrestingly vivid as stained glass.

And what a genius Mary Philbin is! We wondered if it could just have been the Von Stroheim reflection in her, in "Merry-Go-Round," but here again we have her more magnetic, more brilliantly expressive, more delicately lovely, than ever. Not only do her amazing emotional powers hold you breathless, but in the flittery moods of the young girls, foolish little self-conscious movements, the flitting embarrassments, the brightening moments of love and hope, she is supreme. Her face is an open book. No subtitles are needed to interpret Mary's fleeting moods.

Moreover, and a good deal more over, too, Mary is completely natural, completely native. She is the young girl next door, not a mere movie star, remote and awesome. She is the girl you go to school with, the girl you ask to your parties. I think it is this quality in Mary, as rare as her genius, which will endear her to your hearts and make her one of the greatest drawing stars the picture theater has ever seen.

You haven't just seen a picture when you walk out of the California, either. You have walked in the Bowery beside the innocent loveliness of Mamie Rose and the masculine compellingness of Pat O'Malley, it is all so real.

Pat O'Malley, too, as the young prize fighter and tough of the planted in the halls of fame. Pat planted in the halls of fame. Pat is breezy, bold, laughing, fearless, wicked in the unashamed masculine way, and gives us a clean-cut characterization, one that we shan't forget.

I wonder, indeed, if we shan't have a Pat O'Malley vogue, now, just as we have had a Valentino one? He is the broth of a boy who won Mary's heart by his gay compellingness, and I dare say he won every girl's heart in the audience, too.

Too bad that lack of space forbids the relating of the hundreds o flittle bits of action that contribute to the charm of the story; but it would take a page to tell them all: How Mamie Rose leaped into the water after her escort when Pat had pushed him in, and how Pat leaped in and saved them both; the carious picturesque swaggerings of Pat; how Mamie Rose gazed romantically out of her window at the streetlights below, before hauling in her foot-bath-tub from its moorings below the window to take her bath; how—oh, well, it is no use to try and tell it all here; but you simply mustn't miss it.

Max Dudivson scores a very great hit as the little old clothing dealer, and Buster Collier is effective as his son, while the remainder of the cast are simply all great.

The Andy Gump comedy, with Joe Murphy, Fay Tincher, and Jackie Morgan, is delightful. Nature furnished Murphy most of his appropriate facial make-up, except that I believe he builds up his nose a bit. Nature also luckily furnished him with a big sense of comedy and a real gift for getting it over; so that this comedy is a delight.

J. HOXIE AND BABY PEGGY AT CLUNE'S

This hoof-and-mouth disease ought to do some good. It ought to check the output of these westerns!

That's what I thought yesterday when I wended my way down to Clune's Broadway to view Jack Hoxie in "Mr. Ridgeway of Montana." "If," I went on myself, "I have to see a western, it simply must have Will Rogers or Jack Hoxie as its hero. Otherwise I simply can't stand it to see those cattle rustlers riding on the tops of mountains, shooting at the hero, kidnaping the heroine and at last being knocked out one by one by said hero."

But, having reached Clune's, I was delightfully surprised. There was the same bullet-proof hero, to be sure, the same band of cattle rustlers, the same syndicate knock-out by the hero—but—

There was also Miss Olive Hasbrouck as the heroine.

And she doesn't play the usual rag-doll heroine, either — just something for the hero to drag onto his horse and the villian to kidnap.

She is the real blown-in-the-bottle, monogrammed - cigarette 1924 model flapper, who isn't stolen by anybody, but, on the other hand, tries to steal the hero! She follows him pluckily right up into the snow-clad mountains, where he unwillingly receives her and shelters her from the blizzard.

And when he commands her to cok, she doesn't stamp her foot at him: she cooks! Cooks well, too. When finally the blizzard stops, and they come out of the front door for the first time in perhaps days — oh, but we saw the hero hang a curtain across the room first pop, so their morals are kept as good as new—he has learned to love her. Don't know why. Maybe it was the cooking.

I thought it was all going to be as interesting as that. But no, the villain does get in his kidnaping stunt, and the hero does save her, when she runs away from the hero after a parson has come along and married them.

Hoxie is a mightily pleasing looking hombre, and does all the acting required of him. He certainly does do some wonderful broncho-busting, too. And he rides the most beautiful white horse I ever saw.

Baby Peggy, it seems to me, would be delightful in really childish things. She is amusing enough, to be sure, in these unchildish stories she is playing, in which she does the things a grown-up girl would do, but she has real gifts and it seems a pity to waste them.

In her current comedy she plays a denatured French farce—hiding her different childish lovers, one by one, in her house during the absence of her parents and in order to keep them from each other. The opening sequence in which she frightens a burglar in her room by working her mechanical toys, is really funny.

KEATON COMIC IN LATEST PICTURE

BY KENNETH TAYLOR

"Laugh and the world laughs with you," is an old bromide.

"Don't laugh and the world laughs at you," is the way Buster Keaton has revised the old saying. Of course, it takes other things in addition to an absence of expression to make the world laugh. Most of them are found in "Sherlock, Jr.," the comedian's latest long comedy, which is on the Loew State screen this week.

As the small town motion-picture projectionist who is studying to be a detective on the side, Keaton is seen to great advantage. The picture seems to be funnier than "Our Hospitality," measuring well up to the standard of "Three Ages."

Tricky gags, of course, are the very backbone of a Buster Keaton picture. The comedian hit upon an excellent one (and incidentally it determines the success of the picture) when he had the character of the projectionist step out of the booth and onto the screen in his dream.

The rapidity with which the scene changes as our hero stumbles over one obstacle after another is one of the funniest bits of business Keaton has ever offered. It is purely a mechanical gag, but it gets more laughs than anything else in the picture.

Another good laugh promoter is the hair-raising chase with Keaton speeding along all kinds of dangerous roads on the handlebars of a motorcycle, entirely oblivious of the fact that the operator of the machine fell off in a mud puddle several miles back.

Kathryn McGuire appears as the heroine, with Joe Keaton and Ward Crane in featured roles.

With one or two exceptions lengthy comedies are not proving the successes they were expected to be. It is obviously impossible as well as impractical to keep an audience in continuous laughter for six or seven reels, and the stories provided are usually too weak to keep up suspense between the spasmodic outbursts, so that one is apt to leave the theater debating on whether or not the picture was really worth the time.

A one-reel dramatic novelty also holds a featured place on the bill. This is "Among the Missing," one of the new Will Nigh series of short subjects that has been hailed with delight by eastern critics. The story is simple and direct, and rather forceful. It's one fault is that the tempo is too high, and the players have a tendency to overact in their eagerness to get emotions over in as little footage as possible.

Other attractions of the program include the orchestra in the "Poet and Peasant" overture, with Director Arthur Kay playing the 'cello solo; a special act staged by Fanchon and Marco, "Snowbound in the Mojave," which is only fairly interesting, and "A Midshipman's Cruise," pictures of the Annapolis boys in foreign waters.

GRAUMAN WILL ADD TO ART COLLECTION

A motion-picture theater par excellence and a museum of art combined. Such is the vision of Sid Grauman, who plans to add to the exhibit of Egyptian art in the forecourt of the Hollywood Egyptian Theater until it becomes one of the show places of California. The nucleus of this museum has been furnished by Cecil B. De Mille, who has donated many of the extraordinary pieces of Egypt's art used in filming his biblical drama, "The Ten Commandments."

Seldom has a museum of art as exemplified by a certain country, or period, had such a harmonious setting as that provided by the Hollywood cinema temple. In fact, so closely allied are the architecture of this theater and the predominating art of the biblical part of the big classic based on the decalogue of Moses, that patrons have asked if the theater was not built especially for a showing of "The Ten Commandments." To the several pieces already placed in the forecourt, Grauman will add others from time to time, thus giving his patrons double value—a museum and leading productions of the screen.

"SHORE LEAVE" STILL PLAYING AT MOROSCO

The second week of the Hubert Osborne comedy-drama, "Shore Leave," at the Morosco Theater, began yesterday.

Harland Tucker appears as the toughest gob that ever sailed the deep and briny. Charlotte Treadway as the sea port dressmaker is charming. The supporting cast includes Gayne Whitman, Grace Travers, Albert Antwerp, Jane Morgan, Mary Fisher, Louis Deane, J. Morris Foster, John O'Connell, Douglas Rowland, John Hicks, Edith Evans, Ruth Long, Evelyn Melbourne, Belle Greene, Mercedes Shea, Charles Vaughan and Harry Hoyt.

ANOTHER WEEK FOR DE MILLE PICTURE

Cecil B. De Mille's new Paramount production, "Triumph," winds up its first week at the Million Dollar tonight and tomorrow starts on the second week of its run.

"Triumph" marks De Mille's return from the ancient pomp of "The Ten Commandments" to the type of ultra modern society love story that he made famous in "Male and Female" and "Manslaughter."

The cast includes Leatrice Joy, Rod La Roque, Victor Varconi, Charles Ogle, Julia Faye, Robert Edeson and Theodore Kosloff.

DULL KNIFE HALTS SUICIDE

A dull knife prevented H. P. Jones, 52 years of age, from carrying out his desire to end his life last night, according to the police. He was found at the Fourth Avenue Stockyards suffering from loss of blood from a slashed wrist and an attempted mutilation. Beyond saying he wanted to die, Jones would not talk. Receiving Hospital physicians said. He will recover.

PLAYDOM

"MONTMARTRE" LAST OF STAR'S FOREIGN-MADE FILMS

By Edwin Schallert

It's a case of players versus photography this week at Grauman's Metropolitan. The battle lasts about an hour and a half, while "Montmartre" is on the screen, and eventually, it would seem, the players win. You may only be able to see the characters as through a haze, apoquely, but you know that they are real, and that is more than may be said for all of Pola Negri's other recent starring productions.

"Montmartre" is the last picture that Pola made before she came to America. It is also the last in which Ernest Lubitsch directed her. We know the remarkable combination from the previous "Passion" and "Gypsy Love," and we are soon to become reacquainted with the union of their talents in a new set of films made here.

I suspect that "Montmartre" has possibly been doctored for American audiences. The ending, for instance, is too suave and sweet. There is also a marriage that is only spoken of in the subtitles, and not properly alibied with a license, or the actual occurrence of a ceremony.

Outside of this, the picture is probably one of the most genuinely sophisticated that has shown lately. There is nothing especially pleasant about it, but there are many subtle bits of realism that will delight the picture-goer who is in search of grown-up entertainment.

The lighting, the make-up, and the other incidentals, in which the Europeans as usual fall, detract somewhat from the enjoyment. The print seems to be none too good, but then foreign prints rarely are.

You will find much to intrigue the imagination, however, in the life of the old Latin quarter of Paris as depicted. The atmosphere is almost identical with that of the opera "La Boheme." In fact, the "La Boheme" music would very well suit the presentation, but I heard little or any of it yesterday, although I caught a strain or two of Charpentier's "Louise," which is also very appropriate. Here was really a chance to make a splendid musical score out of the finest material. Some of the music that is played is the veriest trash.

I don't know that it will mean much to tell the story of "Montmartre." It is simply the rapturous one of two people who bump into each other on the street—literally they do this—and immediately fall in love. The woman is described as a grisette; the man is a composer. There is a cousin of the man, who, for his own selfish reasons, tries to break up their romance. The plot is really very slight, but there are flashing touches that throw light on the people and their feelings. The surface of the play is inevitably calm, distinctive and precise, with a fateful note casting a shadow over all. Memorable indeed is that scene where pola answers her persecutor by brushing the dust off the young composer's patent-leather shoe, in order to show that she is aware of his attempt to keep the young man from taking her to the premiere of his symphony.

THE WHOLE STORY

Mrs. Cunningham had gone into court to ask for a divorce from her husband, who, she said, had deserted her. She was ignorant of legal procedure and too poor to employ a lawyer, but the judge was kind and tried to help her all he could.

"Now, Mrs. Cunningham, just tell me all about it, from beginning to end," the judge encouraged.

"Well, there ain't much to tell," Mrs. Cunningham replied. "Last summer John went out to milk the cow one morning, and it wasn't more than an hour or two until he never did come back."—[Kansas City Star.

Wallace Worsley Decides Best Trained Assistants Come from Ranks

If you wish to become a director, first make good as a property man!

That, at least, seems to be the dictum of Wallace Worsley, who produced "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and who will direct William Farnum in "The Man Who Fights Alone," that star's first screen play under the Paramount banner.

"My present assistant, Bert Gilroy, was my property man for months," he declares, "as were the two before him, who were with me for years. I firmly believe that the training a property man receives eminently fits him for the work required of an assistant director and this, in turn, prepares him for directing."

In the forthcoming production Lois Wilson will appear with Farnum in the leading feminine role. Heading the supporting cast will be Edward Horton, who achieved fame as Ruggles in "Ruggles of Red Gap," Lionel Belmore, Barlowe Borland and George Irvine.

NEW YORK LOCALE OF TWO PICTURES

New York, with its colorful life, its sharp contrasts and its splendors, is to continue to be seen on the screen at Grauman's Rialto.

Following "A Society Scandal," which centers about the smart set of the metropolis, and in which Gloria Swanson displays her talents and a flock of new costumes, "Broadway After Dark," will be shown, beginning Thursday. In this new Warner Brothers' production, Monte Bell, the director, has taken the old melodrama of Owen Davis and created a thrilling love drama in which Adolphe Menjou, Norma Shearer, Carmel Myers, Edward Burns and Anna Q. Nilsson do the best work of their careers.

VAUDEVILLE BENEFIT TAKES PLACE TONIGHT

National Vaudeville Artists' Week terminates tonight with a benefit at the Philharmonic Auditorium.

Every artist announced on the program will be present and participate and the list will include not only every vaudeville act playing here for the past week, but all the incoming acts and all those laying off in Los Angeles. And the vaudeville acts, fine as they are, will only be a background for numerous "high lights" of the stage and screen who have volunteered by the dozen to participate and have eagerly sought place in the list of stars.

UNMASKED MAN ROBS TWO IN FEW MINUTES

An armed and unmasked man obtained $36 in a hold-up of H. E. Switzer, attendant at the Standard Oil Company station at 3000 South Figueroa street, last night, according to the police report. The gunman escaped on foot. Switzer reported. A short time later a bandit of the same description robbed C. B. Boyd, attendant of the Standard Oil station at Adams street and Maple avenue, of $4.

TWO DEEP HOLES

The deepest hole in the earth is a gold mine in the state of Minas Geraes in Brazil. The mine is now 6726 feet below the surface at the top of the shaft through which it is entered. But the Tamarack No. 5, copper mine in the Lake Superior region of the United States, goes nearest to the center of the earth. This is because the Tamarack mine starts in a country whose level is not far above the sea, while the Brazilian mine is in a mountainous region nearly 3000 feet above sea level.—[Scientific American.

MAN'S COMPLEX TO BE EXAMINED

Hoax on Undertaker Lands Him in Cell

Obtained Ambulance Ride to Meet "Family"

Police Think False Alarms Mystery Solved

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 27.—A thrilling ride in an undertaker's ambulance to Los Angeles last night to meet an imaginary wife and child, landed Ira D. Tibbetts, 28 years of age, in a jail cell here today for observation of his asserted "thrill" complex. Police said they believe he is responsible for the epidemic of mysterious false alarms that have caused considerable annoyance to the fire and police departments in recent weeks.

Tibbets, according to the police, went to the Mottell Undertaking Company last night and made a pitiful plea for help in meeting his wife and child who would arrive in Los Angeles within 35 minutes. He is said to have impressed Joe Mottell, head of the firm, so strongly that Mr. Mottell agreed to allow him to use a fast ambulance as an impromptu taxicab.

MADE FAST TIME

Long Beach, by the most direct route to Los Angeles, is twenty-four miles. Careful driving and judicious use of the gas throttle by the ambulance driver landed the anxious "husband" at a Los Angeles railroad station in a fraction less than 35 minutes.

The train came in. The wife and child did not. Tibbetts is said to have experienced a keen interest in the ride and was not in the least perturbed by the failure of the supposed wife and kiddie to arrive.

RETURN SLOWER

The return trip to Long Beach was slower. When they arrived at the undertaking company Tibbetts is declared to have tendered a cheery "thank you" to the driver and started away. Meanwhile certain bits of evidence gathered together caused Mr. Mottell to call the police.

Tibbetts will be examined to determine whether he is mentally unbalanced, according to the police.

OPENING ON SCHOOL BOARD TO BE FILLED

SIERRA MADRE, April 27.—The name of William Doty, president of the Sierra Madre Civic Association, and E. E. Bacon, prominent attorney, are being considered by the Board of Trustees as possible candidates for the position of City Trustee recently made vacant by the resignation of Mayor Robert Mitchell. Mayor Mitchell resigned last week when members of the Board of Trustees failed to elect him chairman of the board after he had held that position for six consecutive years. J. D. Sparks was made Mayor. In his resignation Mr. Mitchell charged Trustees Sparks and Porter with being the tools of Trustee Topping and asserted that his self-respect would not allow him to serve on such a board.

Europe Nothing Like Southland, Writer Affirms

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

REDLANDS, April 27.—"You may be able to enjoy Europe if you do not make comparisons, but if you do make them you will not," said Edward Pfeiffer of Terracina, who with his family have just returned from Italy. "We went expecting to spend a year and a half or two years there but in six months we were so homesick for California that we came home."

Mr. Pfeiffer is a well-known writer. They left here in November and went to Paris, then through Switzerland and to Paraggi on the Ligurian Gulf where they had apartments. On both sides and behind Paraggi are terraced hills covered with olive trees.

"The scenery is beautiful but not to be compared with California. The olive trees are old, the houses are old, comforts are lacking and the orange trees are but half the size of ours. "Americans can rest assured it will be a long time, if ever, before Europe offers the same security as America. The fluctuating exchange causes apprehensions at all times and I say it is in vain to expect to find the scenery or beauty of Southern California matched in any degree."

The chemical tanks on the larger truck, being more modern and of greater capacity, are expected to be sufficient for any service they will be required to perform. LIQUOR OF '49 UNEARTHED

Cache of 261 Bottles of 75-Year-Old Whisky Is Smashed One by One on Rocks

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ONTARIO, April 27.—With the recent unearthing in upper San Antonio Canyon of a huge box containing 261 quart bottles of whisky, wine and brandy, supposed to have been buried by a prospector of the days of '49, prospecting of a new variety is reported as being carried on stealthily each night in the canyon to the north of Ontario.

The liquor cache was unearthed by workmen building a road for J. C. Morse of Long Beach, a cabin owner near Camp Baldy. Mr. Morse promptly notified United States Forest Ranger Arthur T. Shay and Deputy S. H. Jacobs and the officers smashed the bottles of rare old liquor, one by one, on the rocks of the canyon, according to report reaching here.

Since the announcement of the interesting find, it is reported that many persons with no desire to flood the canyon with ancient wine, under cover of night, have been slipping quietly away to the canyon, armed with picks and shovels, fondly hoping to unearth further "hidden treasure."

The recent find is said to be but one of a number to have been unearthed in the canyon. Some two years ago, A. W. Pruitt, construction foreman for the Forest Service, unearthed a case of whisky beneath the site of an ancient miner's cabin and other similar finds have been reported from time to time.

According to old-timers here, the particular spot where the most recent cache was brought to light was in the early days the site of a rest camp for miners. Leaving the valley in the days before roads were built, the miners were able to reach this camp in a day's journey and, remaining there over night, continued their journey to the mines on Old Baldy and vicinity the following day. It is believed that the liquor was buried and forgotten or that its owner may have met an untimely death without having imparted his secret to another. It is said that the contents of the buried box was worth many hundreds of dollars today.

EXPLAINS NEW LAW ON DRY-FRUIT SALE

NO MORE CARE NECESSARY THAN IN RETAILING OF TABLE SUGAR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The answer of Acting Prohibition Commissioner Jones to the protest of the Dried Fruit Association of California regarding sale of dried fruits in grocery stores, was transmitted yesterday from Washington by Senator Shortridge of California, according to word received here tonight.

"I assume that the ruling to which reference is made is that contained in Section 614 of Revised Regulations 60 effective May 1, 1924," Mr. Jones's memorandum said. "The section reads as follows: 'Dried fruits, dandelions, rhubarb, etc., may not lawfully be used in the production of nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices, mentioned herein.'

"Dealers will not 'render themselves liable' if they do not, as your correspondent states, 'cross-examine purchasers' any more than that they would be liable if they did not so question purchasers of corn, sugar, etc., articles susceptible of the production of fermented and distilled beverages; but they will be liable if they sell such products knowingly for beverage use, or under circumstances from which the seller might reasonably deduce the intention of the buyer to use them for that purpose."

Rev. S. F. Baker, Missionary to Spain, Is Buried

HANFORD, April 27.—The funeral of Rev. Frank S. Bond, of this city, missionary of the Seventh Day Adventist Church to Spain for twenty-one years, took place in Fresno yesterday. He was born in Stanislaus county, this State, and was 47 years of age. His father was a pioneer physician of this city and a brother is county health officer.

Graduating from a theological course in Healdsburg College, he was engaged in ministerial work in Arizona for two years. In 1902 he went to Spain accompanied by his brother, Walter, who subsequently died and was buried in Spain. Returning to this country in 1904, Rev. Walter Bond was married to Mrs. Martha Farnsworth (nee Miss Martha Moore) a schoolmate of early days in this city. The couple located first in Barcelona, and were later in Madrid.

During nineteen years of continuous labor in a distant land two children were born to the missionary couple, Alice, now 9 years of age, and Richard, 6. The arduous work so undermined his health that when Rev. Bond recently returned to this country with his family, recovery was impossible. There was a large attendance of Kings county friends at the funeral in Fresno today.

Utley has received notice from Warden Johnston at San Quentin Penitentiary that Alvino Mendez, convicted murderer, to be executed May 9, will be tried for insanity at San Quentin on the 30th inst. REJECTED MAN KILLS GIRL, SELF

Shoots Her When Love is Refused, Then Turns Gun on Himself

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, April 27.—Piqued at her refusal of his attentions, Inocencio Rodrigues, 24 years of age, shot and killed Concha Ocon, 20, a widow, and then fired three shots into his own body. Both died instantly.

The shooting occurred at Westmoreland while the Mexican woman was walking across a vacant lot, carrying her year-old baby in her arms.

At the coroner's inquest witnesses said Rodriguez approached the woman, said a few words to her in Spanish, and then fired. The bullet entered her heart, missing her baby by a few inches. Bystanders who rushed to the scene found the baby lying by its mother's body, crying and pulling at her clothing. The body of the Mexican lay a few feet away.

It was asserted at Westmoreland that the pair lived together for a while several years ago. Then the woman married another man who died a few weeks ago. Rodrigues renewed his attentions to the woman who repulsed him.

In the litigation is a story of married life. Deino, his ex-wife entered into the contract when they parted in February, 1922, at San Francisco, agreement, drawn by a police judge, states that the parties to live apart as provided by marriage laws of California further provided that Deino to pay his mate $75 monthly name her as beneficiary in a insurance policy.

Although the contract was legal, Deino states that he paid wife nearly $1000 before he learned that she secured a divorce in Arizona a few weeks after the contract was signed and had married Lyle Dean. Deino says that both his divorced wife and Dean have been persons living up to the provisions of the queer agreement. He asks that the courts relieve him of any responsibility of paying his wife to the contract.

INCOME PROPERTY—For Sale

ONE'S LOSS—ANOTHER'S GAIN
I built a duplex consisting of 12 beautiful rooms, tile baths, separate tile showers. In fact, everything of the very latest type and construction. One side rented for $100 per mo. The other side occupied by myself.

My interest in Pittsburgh, Pa., suffered loss that "almost" knocked me cold. And I must be there before June 1st.

The building with 2 garages cost me $10,000 to build, and the lot is worth $5000. Located in the North Wilshire district, west of Western ave., 1½ blks. north of Beverly Blvd.

Give me $7900 cash, assume the mtge. of $8000 and the place is yours. Remember that don't even include my own labor and time during the course of construction.

See MR. NIMAN, 476 N. Western ave. HEmpstead 9082.
